Have you a horse for sale? An advertisement will cost less per day than it costs to keep the horse—and you won't need to "keep" him long after you begin to advertise him.

THE LATEST.

The employes of the electric light plants of St. Petersburg went out on a strike last night, and thereafter the city was in total darkness. About 2,000 factory hands quit work, and workmen on one railroad are out. It will be impossible to predict the result of the order for a general strike until Monday, inasmuch as the workmen have two holidays—Saturday, the fete day of the Dowager Empress, and Sunday. In the meantime, the fate of the Stolypin Cabinet is in the balance. Either the military or the proletariat may rule. It is believed that the Emperor desires to appoint Grand Duke Nicholas in the chief command of all the troops in Russia, which would be the first step toward a dictatorship. Stolypin, it is said, opposes this. An inspection of the fortress at Helsingfors shows that the mutineers were in complete control until the arrival of the warships.

Negotiations were closed in Philadelphia yesterday by which the control of the Camden Interstate Railway Company of West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio, passed to the hands of State Senator William C. Sproul, of Chester, Pa., and his associates. The Camden Interstate railway owns the electric lines and lighting plants in Huntington and Kenova, W. Va., Catlettsburg and Ashland, Ky., and Ironton, O.

The Culpeper Minute Men will not attend the reunion of the survivors of the great cavalry fight which took place in Culpeper county, Virginia, during the Civil War, if Gen. M. C. Butler attends. It is claimed that Gen. Butler did not treat troops right at Camp Alger, where he was high in authority, during the Spanish-American War.

William H. Belcher, who, while Mayor of Paterson, N. J., absconded a year ago and who surrendered himself on Monday last, was sentenced yesterday to twelve years' imprisonment in the State prison at Trenton on a charge of embezzlement.

The Frankfort and Barbourville companies of State Guards were yesterday ordered by Gov. Beckham to go on duty at Barbourville next week to protect during their trial the negro man and woman charged with the murder of Mrs. Broughton.

Judge Kennedy, of the Common Pleas Court at Cleveland, O., yesterday decided that Mayor Johnson was not guilty of contempt of court, as charged in connection with the tearing up of the tracks of the Cleveland Electric Railway Company last week.

The Illinois State primary election will be held to-day. Every voter in three parties—Republican, Democratic and Socialist—will be called on to vote directly for candidates for office and delegates to the conventions.

Dispatches to mercantile agencies indicate that the trade situation has lost none of its solid foundation, but wholesale distribution is somewhat quiet, as is seasonable.

Gov. Higgins, of New York, has followed the example of President Roosevelt and contributed a dollar to the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee.

An unknown negro assaulted a sixteen-year-old girl at Free Henry Ford, near Madisonville, Ky. A posse is looking for the negro. He may be lynched.

Walter Sears, of Bowling Green, was stricken suddenly blind at Evansville. Excessive heat is believed to be the cause of his losing his sight.

It was officially announced in London yesterday that King Edward and Emperor William will meet near Hamburg, Germany, August 15.

Judge W. G. Hawkins, of the Orphans' Court at Pittsburg, was assaulted and robbed by footpads. He is in a serious condition.

A death from yellow fever near Havana was reported to the Louisiana Board of Health yesterday by its inspectors in Cuba.

Three trainmen were killed yesterday in a freight wreck on the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg railroad, near Harmony, Pa.

William Freeman, sixteen years of age, was accidentally killed by Wilbur Lloyd, about the same age, near Bowling Green.

Attorney General Moody is preparing to prosecute a number of railroads for violation of the Federal safety appliance laws.

The five mines of the Boston and Montana Company, at Butte, Mont., have been shut down because of a strike.

W. A. Miller and Milo Shanks have been dismissed from the Government printing office at Washington.

Sir Sidney Hedley Waterlow, a former Lord Mayor of London, is dead.

ST. PETERSBURG LIGHTS OUT

Employes of Electric Plants Quit Work.

First Resort of Enemies To Government.

Fate of Stolypin Cabinet In the Balance.

MILITARY OR PROLETARIAT?

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—3:15 a. m.—[Bulletin.]—The electric light service was restored early this morning by workers of the technical corps.

Kursk, Aug. 3.—[Bulletin.]—An encounter took place here to-day between peasants and dragoons during which six peasants were killed and three wounded. Several shots were fired from the crowd whereupon the dragoons answered with three volleys.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4, 2:45 a. m.—St. Petersburg is in darkness to-night. The employes of the electric lighting plants, always the earliest barometric record of political conditions, ceased work during the afternoon in obedience to the call for a general strike. This call already has been obeyed by 2,000 factory hands in the capital. It will be impossible, however, to predict the success of this universal political strike until Monday, as the workmen in St. Petersburg and the provinces have two holidays, Saturday, which is the fete day of the Dowager Empress and a great religious feast, and their regular holiday on Sunday.

The only other available index to the situation are the railroads. Up to 2 o'clock this morning the railroad men had not heeded the call for a general strike, except in the case of an insignificant bobtail line running to shore resorts in the vicinity of St. Petersburg. The men of this road barricaded the line with the result that they had an unimportant collision with Cossacks last night.

Step Toward Dictatorship.

In the meantime the fate of the Stolypin Cabinet hangs in the balance, and Russia is on the verge of disorders which may lead either to the reign of the military or the proletariat. It can be stated definitely that the first step toward a dictatorship may be taken Sunday or Monday by the nomination of Grand Duke Nicholas to the chief command of all the troops in Russia. This would virtually place him in control of all the disturbed districts of the Empire where martial law has been proclaimed. This matter has been a subject of earnest consideration during the interview between the Emperor and Premier Stolypin yesterday, from which the Premier returned in a greatly vexed state of mind. The revolutions at Sveaborg and Cronstadt and the mutiny on board the cruiser Pamyat Azova gave the tone to the conversation between his majesty and the Premier. These events, although they have all ended fortunately, apparently have left a strong impression upon the mind of the Emperor. The Associated Press has been informed from a high source that the nomination of Grand Duke Nicholas to the post of Commander-in-Chief, if made, will be announced as "for the purpose of harmonizing the activity of all troops, without reference to political affairs," but Premier Stolypin is scarcely disposed to regard the nomination in this high light.

One element of possible disorders for to-morrow has been removed by the decision of the widow of M. Herzenstein, the ex-Deputy who was murdered at Terioki, to inter her husband at Terioki and to omit the holding of the services here and at Moscow. The Prefect of Police of St. Petersburg appealed to-day to Mme. Herzenstein to cancel the procession here, saying it probably would result in great disorder, which he was resolved to suppress at whatever cost. After consultation with the Constitutional Democratic Committee, Mme. Herzenstein agreed to this proposal.

* * *

Business Houses Close.

Pickets of cavalry and infantry were the most conspicuous features on the streets of St. Petersburg last night. Business houses generally have boarded up their windows, as they did in the days of the great October strike. Practically all of the street cars in the city have stopped running and the cab drivers are threatening to cease work to-day.

A dispatch received by the Associated Press from Sestroretzk says that heavy re-enforcements are being poured into that place, evidently in fear of an attack upon the Government cartridge and small-arm factory located in that suburb.

The long-distance telephone station was occupied last night by half a company of infantry, in order to prevent the anticipated attempts of the revolutionists to sever telephonic communication between here and Moscow, as the last train in from Moscow brought railroad officials, who had collected the funds on hand at the various intermediate stations to prevent their seizure in case of a strike.

It was announced at the Admiralty last night that the Druthed court-martial proceedings at Cronstad probably would be suspended with the execution of the seven ringleaders of the mutiny, who were condemned to death Thursday. The other mutineers will be subject to trial by the regular court-martial, which will be convened after the customary delays.

Among the civilian agitators for whom the police are searching are two ex-Deputies. Their names are not given, but they are believed to be MM. Onitko and Michael.

* * *

Officers Killed.

It has now been ascertained that the death list on board the cruiser Pamyat Azova included Capt. Sosinsky, two lieutenants, the chief engineer and the junior engineer, the surgeon, a midshipman and the chief petty officer. Captain of the Second-class Mozyroff was mortally wounded. A priest and two lieutenants were slightly wounded. About fifty sailors were killed or wounded.

Three petty officers who organized the loyal sailors to retake possession of the ship have been singled out for imperial commendation. The mutineers will be court-martialed at Reval.

MUTINEERS CONTROLLED UNTIL SHIPS ARRIVED.

Splintered Flagstaffs Show That Targets Were Made of the Colors.

Helsingfors, Aug. 3.—11:30 p. m.—The correspondent of The Associated Press was permitted to-day to look over the fortress on the main island as well as all the other fortifications overlooking the town, although the officials who complied with his request were careful not to allow him to see the guns.

The scenes proved the truth of the statements previously cabled that the mutineers had the upper hand in practically all the fortresses until the arrival of the warships.

Escorted by an officer, the correspondent was shown all the minor barracks and fortifications and the wharf and neighboring quays, which bristled with machine guns. Flagstaffs had been splintered as if the mutineers had tried to shoot away the Russian colors. The most severe fire from the fortress was directed on the headquarters of the Commander, who on the second day of the trouble was forced to seek shelter in a better protected place.

The barracks in the vicinity showed plainly the effects of the fighting. They are to-day nothing more than tottering ruins, upheld by iron girders. The church in which hangs the memorials of the French and English bombardment of 1855, was struck several times, but it is evident that the mutineers did not wish to destroy the building, in spite of the fact that none of its windows remain whole.

Results of the firing were seen on every hand, fragments of shrapnel, chain shot and shells littering all the walkways. The fortress itself bore many signs of the bombardment, great rents in the walls, holes in the roofs and destroyed windows telling their own tales. The correspondent was not permitted to examine in detail the fortifications held by the rebels, as these form part of the national defense and are secret. There is no question that until the warships came up the Government was powerless adequately to reply to the mutineers and was simply able to hold its position. The commander had scarcely fled from his headquarters, leaving them a heap of fallen ruins when the warships crept up the coast and opened fire. Taken unawares, without leaders and with but little food, the mutineers gave up.

It now transpires that there were two officers among the mutinous men, Lieut. Kohonsky and Lieut. Emiljanoff. The latter was wounded. Kohonsky gave himself up to the Bogatyr and asked pardon.

A special court is coming here from St. Petersburg next week to try the prisoners. One thousand men are confined in Helsingfors and Skatudden.

The total of the casualties is not yet known, but 650 men are missing. It is impossible to say how many are wounded. As previously cabled in these dispatches, only five officers were killed.

BATTLESHIPS PURSUE THE PAMYAT AZOVA.

Helsingfors, Aug. 3.—The armored cruiser Pamyat Azova, whose crew mutinied off the Esthonian coast, spoke the steamer Salinea between this port and Reval. The mutineers of the Pamyat Azova ordered the Salinea to stop and asked for news from Sveaborg, evidently with the intention of going there to help the mutineers, but when informed that the mutiny at Sveaborg was over the Pamyat Azova was headed for Reval.

The battleships Slava and Czarevitch were sent from here in pursuit of the Pamyat Azova.

Dissatisfaction In Regiment.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 3.—It is circumstantially asserted that there is overt dissatisfaction among the Moscow regiment of the guards quartered in St. Petersburg. The demands formulated by the men are both economic and political. Cassacks have been sent to the barracks of this regiment.

Governor of City Killed.

Samara, Russia, Aug. 3.—The Governor of this city was instantly killed to-day by a bomb thrown by an assassin, who was subsequently arrested. The Governor's head and feet were torn off by the explosion.

Put Down Mutiny.

Helsingfors, Aug. 3, 11:17 p. m.—An incipient mutiny broke out to-day on the Russian cruiser Bogatyr. It was immediately put down in the arrest of 200 sailors.

FIRST TEST OF NEW PRIMARY

To Be Made To-day By the Voters of Illinois.

Three Parties To Take Part In Election.

Candidate For Senator Will Be Chosen.

TWO STATE OFFICES AT STAKE

Chicago, Aug. 3.—The first test of the new Illinois primary law passed at a special session of the Legislature this year, enabling voters to name party nominees, will be given to-morrow after one of the liveliest primary campaigns ever waged in this State. Every voter in three parties—Republican, Democratic and Socialist—will be called on to vote directly for candidates for office and delegates to the conventions. Prohibitionists will not participate in to-morrow's election, the voters of that party having made their State and county nominations under the old law prior to July 1, when the new law went into effect.

Candidates to be voted upon are representatives in Congress, members of the Legislature, State Treasurer and Superintendent of Public Instruction. Delegates will be elected to the State, Congressional, Legislative, county, sanitary district and municipal conventions.

* * *

Vote For Senator.

The vote to-morrow will also establish party sentiment on United States Senator. The Democratic party has no candidate for United States Senator. Interest in this direction centers in the contest between former Governor Richard Yates and Senator Shelby M. Cullom, who is seeking renomination.

Lively campaigns have been conducted by State Senator Francis W. Parker, candidate for Representative from the Second district, against Congressman James R. Mann, and by Luther P. Friestedt for the seat of Congressman William R. Lorimer.

The only State offices at stake are Treasurer and Superintendent of Public Instruction, as the new primary law excepts trustees of the State University from the direct vote provision.

In Cook county the Democrats have a much more spirited contest than the Republicans. The nominations for Sheriff and County Judge are being given most attention.

* * *

The Plurality Vote.

The vote for establishing the sentiment of the voters of the various parties is not altogether obligatory, but the general opinion is that no party organization or convention will consider it good policy to disregard this vote. There is therefore just as strenuous efforts on the part of the candidates to obtain a plurality at this time as if the plurality vote was binding on the convention, or was in fact a direct nomination. If the plurality vote of any candidate gives to him the majority of the delegates to a convention, the law requires the delegates to vote for him on the first ballot, thus insuring his nomination. But if a candidate, who has the plurality, fails to get a majority of the delegates, the convention is at liberty to nominate whomsoever it pleases.

OFFICIAL COUNT

Will Be Required To Decide Contest For Sheriff.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The hottest shrievalty election ever held in Davidson county has ended in both sides claiming a majority, and not until the Election Commission canvasses the returns on Monday will it be known whether Cartwright, the Democratic nominee, or Johns, the independent anti-gambling candidate, has been elected. In a vote of over 10,000 Johns claims a majority of seventy-three, while Cartwright claims to have won by seventy-nine. If Johns is declared elected it is all over with gambling and Sunday saloons in Nashville. The balance of the county Democratic ticket had no serious opposition.

Lincoln Will Celebrate.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 3.—When William J. Bryan returns to his home he will be given a reception that will have more of friendship and neighborliness in it than the great meeting that is to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York. The Bryan home at Fairview, two miles east of Lincoln, will be the Mecca of the people of Lincoln that day and of thousands of others who will come here to help celebrate the return of the traveler.

No Choice In Primary.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 3.—Incomplete returns from the several counties comprising the Tenth Congressional district indicate that no nomination was made in yesterday's Democratic primaries. Gen. George W. Gordon and John W. Appleson, the leading candidates, will therefore enter a run-off on August 11, when a special election will be held.

Declines Nomination.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 3.—Mayor Rush Culver, of this city, nominated at Detroit for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket, said that he would not accept the nomination because he is entirely out of politics. Business affairs demanding his entire attention.

Republicans Chose Delegates.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The Republicans of Vanderburg county met to-night, and selected delegates to the senatorial convention to be held at Boonville, Ind., to-morrow afternoon. The delegation will vote for Clem Pelzer, of Boonville, for State Senator, the personal choice of United States Senator James A. Hemenway. The district is composed of Vanderburg, Warrick and Spencer counties.

Follows President's Example.

New York, Aug. 3.—Gov. Higgins sent his dollar yesterday to the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee. With it he sent this letter to Representative Sherman, of the committee:

"Permit me to follow the splendid example of President Roosevelt and to inclose my dollar as a contribution to the campaign fund which the committee is raising."

Making Socialist Speeches.

Stanton, Ky., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—George M. Jackson, who was formerly a citizen of Powell county, but who of late has lived in St. Louis, has made arrangements to spend the next two years in the eastern portion of the State advocating the Socialist cause.

Candidates Announced.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 3.—The Hon. Frank Avent, of Rutherford county, and ex-Speaker Edward Sea, of Sumner, are candidates for the railroad commissionership made vacant by Neil McKenzie's death.

To Attend Bryan Reception For South In Louisville.

All Express Pleasure In Their Replies.

HEADQUARTERS TO BE OPENED

Acceptances to invitations to participate in the welcome for the Southern States to William Jennings Bryan on his return from his trip around the world, which will be given in Louisville in the early part of September, are being received in large numbers by John W. Vreeland, chairman of the Executive Committee. The invitations have been sent to the Governors, United States Senators, Congressmen and other leading officials and Democrats throughout the South. In most all instances the writers take occasion to speak a word of praise for Mr. Bryan, and express gratification at being able to honor him.

Gov. J. M. Terrell, of Georgia, in his letter of acceptance, says that he will attend the reception.

Gov. John I. Cox, of Tennessee, says that he will be on hand, and adds that Mr. Bryan is the greatest living Democrat and that he is sure to be the next President.

Gov. S. W. T. Lanham, of Austin, Tex., says that he will come if his health will permit, but that in all events he is in sympathy with the movement.

Gov. James K. Vardaman, of Mississippi, says that it will afford him great pleasure to be in Louisville at the reception tendered the great Democrat.

H. D. Money, United States Senator from Mississippi, says that he accepts the invitation to attend the welcome with great pleasure.

Robert L. Taylor, former Governor and Senator-elect of Tennessee, writes that he certainly will be on hand.

Senator Joseph W. Bailey, of Texas, says that he accepts the invitation with pleasure.

* * *

McLaurin Enthusiastic.

Senator A. J. McLaurin, of Mississippi, writes:

"As to character, ability and fidelity to principle, I do not think there is a greater living man than Mr. Bryan. I feel therefore doubly honored in being associated with the gentlemen who compose the committee."

Senator Charles A. Culberson, of Texas, writes that he will be present at the reception.

Isador Rayner, United States Senator from Maryland, says he accepts if the date will admit of his attendance.

J. B. Frazier, United States Senator from Tennessee, writes that he will attend the reception, as does Senator A. S. Clay, of Georgia; Senator Lee S. Overman, of North Carolina, and Senator A. C. Latimer, of South Carolina.

Fred Whitcomb, secretary of the Jackson County Democratic Committee, of Seymour, Ind., has written to Mr. Vreeland that he will bring 500 Bryan Democrats from Seymour and Jackson county.

The reception will be held in the new Armory building. Headquarters will be opened by the Executive Committee Monday in room 404, Equitable building. The mail has become heavy and this step has been taken in order that all business may be attended to expeditiously. Someone will be on duty there at all times. Later all the clubs in Louisville will be asked to take part in the parade.

COUNTRY IN GREATEST PERIL

Senator La Follette Arraigns Money Powers.

Says Government Is Controlled By Big Interests.

Opening Day of Chautauqua At Glenwood.

BIG CROWD IN ATTENDANCE.

"Our country is confronted to-day by a greater peril than ever before assailed it," said Senator Robert M. LaFollette, former Governor of Wisconsin, last night, in his lecture delivered before fully 5,000 people at the third annual assembly of the Jeffersonville and New Albany Chautauqua Association, which began in New Albany yesterday afternoon. He said that during the past few years a new work had been coined in America to express the existing state of affairs.

"That word is 'graft,' he said, "and it is having a dire effect upon our Government."

Congressman Charles A. Towne spoke yesterday afternoon.

Senator LaFollette began by stating that it was his intention to speak in an earnest, honest way about "Our Country." After dwelling on the remarkable growth of America, and setting forth the many great advantages offered to people of the United States, he launched into the real discussion of his subject, setting forth the dangers that beset the American Government.

"I am here to ask you," said Senator La Follette, "the question: 'Have we the Government to-day that our forefathers, the drafters of the original Constitution, intended us to have?'

"I started trouble in Wisconsin some six years ago by stating that the basic principal of our Government is the will of the people. For that statement, I was censured all over the country. I asked the people to remember the words of Madison to the effect that the people are the only legitimate foundation of power.

"I reminded them of the words of Alexander Hamilton to the effect that the American Empire ought to rest on the consent of the governed.

"The will of the people must be the law of the land, or the Government established for us in the beginning will perish.

* * *

Commerce Controls Government.

"I think that the Government, from a legislative standpoint, already has passed beyond the control of the people. Turn to the Councils of your cities; turn to the State Legislatures. Is it not a fact that the Government is under the control of the great commercial interests of the country? Turn to the machinery of government at Washington. Is it not turn that great corporations control the United States Senate and Congress?

"In the last thirty years there have been but two sessions of the United States legislative bodies that the railroads have failed to control.

"Seventy-five years ago an English historian, writing of America, said that he had never heard of a man in the United States who spent his wealth to corrupt the people. While that may have been true seventy-five years ago, things have now changed.

"Since then things have changed, until now the great and powerful interests of the country have almost captured the law-making bodies of our nation.

"I believe there is a great danger before this country, and I want you to see it. It isn't often you have access to the correspondence of grafters.

"I went to Congress at the age of twenty-four years, and while there I saw a man whom I shall never forget. His name was Collis P. Huntington, and he was president of one of the Pacific railroads. He was there to control the legislation in the interest of his railroad. At the same time he had an organization at work in California.

"At that time there was competition between the railroads. There is nothing like that now, however. Eight men at the head of eight railroad systems control 0 per cent. of the mileage in the United States to-day. Evidence to this effect is everywhere. You can see it in the raising of rates on the same article on the same day. But at the time of which I was speaking, there was a contest on between the railroads.

"The chief strife was between a Mr. Scott, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and Mr. Huntington, of one of the Pacific roads. Each was striving to outdo the other.

* * *

The Huntington Letters.

"Huntington wrote letters to a man named Colton, who was managing his organization in California. Colton died ad his wife wrote to Huntington demanding pay for her husband's services. Huntington refused to pay and Mrs. Colton sued him in the California courts. She submitted as evidence letters that had passed between her husband and Huntington, and there were made a matter of record.

FIVE BIG MINES SHUT DOWN BY STRIKE.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 3.—The five mines of the Boston and Montana Company shut down at 6 o'clock this evening, the men being notified that the properties would remain inactive until the strike of the smelter men at the Great Falls smelting plant of the company had been settled. CHILDREN KILLED IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 3.—In a runaway accident near Lehigh, Ia., to-day, two children of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Johnson were killed, and two more children and the mother are badly injured. The accident happened on a big hill, down which Mrs. Johnson and her children were driving. The dashboard gave way, throwing the mother and two children who were killed, under the horses.

POSSE LOOKING FOR AN UNKNOWN NEGRO.

Sixteen-Year-Old Girl Assaulted At Free Henry Ford, Near Madisonville.

Madisonville, Ky., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Word was received here to-day that Miss Myrtle Fugate, the sixteen-year-old daughter of George Fugate, eight miles from here, had been criminally assaulted by an unknown negro. Miss Fugate was in the orchard near her home gathering apples when the assault is reported to have occurred. A telephone message was received by Sheriff Jennings, of this city, requesting him to come to the scene at once. Two deputy sheriffs left for that place. A posse of seventy-five men is searching for the negro, but at a late hour to-night they have not succeeded in capturing him. It is the general belief that there will be a hanging if the negro is caught.

The order further directs the company to show cause why the committee shall not be permitted to use stencils which the insurance company is now alleged to be using in addressing its policyholders.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 3.—The directors of the General Paper Company held a meeting behind closed doors this afternoon with a view of winding up the affairs as a corporation in compliance with the decision handed down a few months ago by the United States Circuit Court. Secretary M. L. Alexander stated after the meeting that the company had ceased to exist, but that one or two more meetings would probably be held before the final details of dissolution were completed.

I., and who is occupying the Lorillard-Spencer villa on Harrison avenue this season. Also the young wife of J. B. Haggin, of Kentucky, and New York, would like to purchase the estate, said by judges to be the finest country residence in America. The estate by the last valuation is assessed at $272,600.

HIGH PRAISE FOR MR. BRYAN

Charles A. Towne Says He Is Man of the Hour.

Thinks Roosevelt Only Hope of Republicans.

There Is No Need of Free Silver Now.

TALKS OF THE SITUATION.

Full of enthusiasm over the Bryan boom, Congressman Charles Arnette Towne, of New York, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for Vice President on the Democratic ticket in 1908, arrived in Louisville yesterday afternoon. He was on his way to the Chautauqua at Glenwood Park, between New Albany and Jeffersonville, Ind., where he spoke. He was met at the Tenth-street station by Adam Heimberger, of New Albany, who accompanied him to the Chautauqua.

"While I am not a declared candidate for the Democratic nomination for Vice President, I am profoundly gratified by the compliment which connects my name with that of Mr. Bryan. He is undoubtedly the man of the hour, and upon his arrival in this country from Europe, August 20, he will receive such an ovation and such a welcome as has seldom been received by any man," said Congressman Towne.

"Since 1900 there has been more or less talk about nominating me for the office of Vice President on the Democratic ticket. There was no use of my talking about it then, and there is still no use. I am devoted to Mr. Bryan and the cause he represents. He will undoubtedly be the next Democratic nominee for President, and in my opinion he will sweep the country. So far as I am concerned, whatever is best to the success of the ticket will please me.

Thinks Roosevelt Will Run.

"I have several reasons for believing that Mr. Roosevelt will make the race for President again, but do not care to give voice to them at the present time. My reasons might reflect on the sincerity of President Roosevelt, and I do not want to do that. He is the only logical candidate the Republican party can put forth with any hope of defeating Mr. Bryan, however, and there are other reasons why I believe he will get the nomination and make the race."

"Who do you think will be Mr. Roosevelt's opponent for the nomination?" was asked.

"Do you mean who will be the runner-up?" asked Congressman Towne. "If that is what you mean I shall reply by stating that Fairbanks may be the man. It is perfectly natural that he should be the Republican nominee for President. He is of presidential timber, but I do not believe that he will consent to have his name mentioned in connection with the nomination provided Roosevelt determines to make the race again. Fairbanks is a splendid man and is well fitted to make the race for the presidency.

"There is so much good available timber that it is hard to tell just who will be chosen for the Republican nomination of Vice President," he continued. "It is probable that Mr. Fairbanks will be willing to receive the nomination and make the race again. Senator Beveridge is in the limelight, and he too might be prevailed upon to receive the nomination."

"Are you still an advocate of free silver?" was asked.

No Need of Free Silver.

"I have expressed myself so often upon that subject that I think it useless for me to do so now," he replied. "I think everybody understands my position on the question of free silver. At the time I so strongly advocated 16 to 1, it was needed. Conditions have changed materially since then. There is plenty of gold, and that being the case, what need have we now for more silver than we have?"

Referring again to Mr. Bryan, Congressman Towne said he is one of the most remarkable men this country ever produced.

"It is a rare thing for a man who has twice met defeat as the standard-bearer of a great political party to again be in the running as prominently as is Mr. Bryan. He is the man of the hour in American politics, and millions of people are waiting to welcome him again to this country. He is a man who is not only courageous, but who stands for honesty. Being both honest and courageous, he represents a principle, and the people are only awaiting an opportunity when they can place him in a position to carry out this principle.

* * *

"Bryan Superior To Roosevelt."

"There are those," he continued, "who think President Roosevelt the same caliber of man as W. J. Bryan, but they are mistaken. They have the wrong 'dope,' using a slang phrase. They think Mr. Roosevelt courageous and honest, but he is not the man Mr. Bryan is. He has been the recipient of many ovations, and I have always been glad of the fact, because the people who tendered these ovations thought he was all he should be. When Mr. Bryan returns to America, though, an ovation will be witnessed in this country the like of which was never known before."

Mr. Towne was asked for his opinion as to how the fact that Mr. Roosevelt already has served almost two terms as President will affect his chances, provided he decides to make another race.

"If nothing else will defeat him, that will," he replied. "But he is the only hope the Republican party has. Republicans realize that, with Mr. Roosevelt out of the way, Mr. Bryan will sweep the country. He will do that in any event, but the Republicans don't like to think so."

REFUSE TO FORGIVE GEN. M. C. BUTLER

CULPEPER MINUTE MEN MAY NOT ATTEND REUNION.

SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR VETERAN PUBLISHES A CARD.

EXPECT LARGE ATTENDANCE.

Washington, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A reunion of the survivors of those who took part in the great cavalry fight that occurred in Culpeper county, Virginia, during the Civil War, will be held at Brandy Station next Thursday. This was the biggest cavalry fight during the terrible conflict. Gen. M. C. Butler, formerly United States Senator from South Carolina, lost a leg in the battle, and has been invited to be present as one of the honored guests. It will also be recalled that Gen. Butler was a high officer in the Spanish-American War, having been appointed by President McKinley at the same time that he appointed the late Gens. Fitzhugh Lee and Joe Wheeler, and Gen. Ortes, of Alabama. Gen. Butler was stationed at Camp Alger, and was high in authority at that camp, which was located in Virginia not many miles from Washington. He had to haul over the coals some of the companies of the Third Virginia regiment, which was a part of the force at Camp Alger. There was a serious clash, and at one time it looked as if there would be a personal difficulty between Gen. Butler and some officers of the Virginia troops.

The Culpeper Enterprise of to-day contains a card signed by a Spanish-American veteran, in which he says:

The Culpeper Minute Men (an organization that has been preserved since the Revolution) will not accept the invitation to attend the reunion at Brandy on the 9th, if Gen. Butler, who caused the arrest and otherwise traduced and vilified the Third Virginia regiment while at Camp Alger in 1898, is present as an invited guest. Virginia soldiers will not mix with any man who tried to traduce the honor of a Virginia regiment. The members of the old Third have not forgotten old Butler, and the veterans of the Third Virginia congratulate the minute men upon their refusal to be present under the circumstances.

A large attendance of the blue and gray is expected at the Brandy reunion, but if Gen. Butler hears that the "Culpeper Minute Men" are still so resentful, he may not enjoy meeting his old comrades as much as if the above card had not been hurled at him.

MAYOR JOHNSON NOT GUILTY OF CONTEMPT.

Director of Public Service Fined $100 and Costs In Common Pleas Court.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 3.—Judge Kennedy, of the Common Pleas Court, today decided that Mayor Johnson was not guilty of contempt of court as charged in connection with the tearing up of the tracks of the Cleveland Electric Railway Company last week, in Fulton street. The court held that W. J. Springborn, Director of Public Service, had violated the temporary injunction issued by Judge Ford in the case. Springborn was fined $100 and costs. An application for a new trial was at once filed by the attorneys for Springborn.

ATTEMPT TO KILL ASBERRY SPICER.

Jackson, Ky., Aug. 3.—Asberry Spicer was fired upon from ambush near his home, on Jett's creek, late yesterday afternoon. The man who did the shooting was concealed in the bushes, and, as he was not recognized, his identity is not known. His gun was a box Winchester, according to Spicer's description of the shot and the report. After passing through the top of his shoulder, the bullet went through an eighteen-inch post. The assassin, who was shooting at long range, was unable to get more than one shot at Spicer, as three bounds around the edge of the bluff put him out of sight.

FORMER LORD MAYOR DIES IN LONDON.

London, Aug. 3.—Sir Sidney Hedley Waterlow, who was Lord Mayor of London 1872-3, is dead. He was born in 1822.

"NO TROUBLE"
To Change From Coffee To Postum.

"Postum has done a world of good for me," writes an Ills. man.

"I've had indigestion nearly all my life, but never dreamed coffee was the cause of my trouble until last spring I got so bad I was in misery all the time.

"A coffee drinker for 30 years, it irritated my stomach and nerves, yet I was just crazy for it. After drinking it with my meals, I would leave the table, go out and lose my meal and the coffee, too. Then I'd be as hungry as ever.

"A friend advised me to quit coffee and use Postum—said it cured him. Since taking his advice I retain my food and get all the good out of it, and don't have those awful hungry spells.

"I changed from coffee to Postum without any trouble whatever, felt better from the first day I drank it. I am well now and give the credit to Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

DEMOCRATS FOR HOPKINS

A Large Majority Will Be Given Him.

Defeated Candidates For the Nominee.

Republicans Want Judge O'Rear To Run.

JUDGE KIRK IS MENTIONED.

Pikeville, Ky., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Standing solidly behind Frank Hopkins and ready to support him for all they are worth, the Democrats of the Tenth congressional district will go to the polls on election day determined to give the nominee of the convention which adjourned yesterday afternoon the largest majority ever given a candidate for Congress in the Tenth district. No soreness results from the convention. Judge J. E. Cooper and Amos Davis, the defeated candidates, expressed themselves this morning as satisfied to support the nominee, and each has advised his friends to do the same. At first there was some feeling on the part of the Davis delegation, as he had the nomination won, on the last ballot, until the counties began changing their votes, but all this has passed away with the night, and when the train left here this morning, bearing the delegates back to their homes, there was only one feeling and expression. Judge Cooper expressed this when he said:

"I am for party principles and for a Democrat first, and I will support Hopkins to the best of my ability. I will tell all of my friends to vote for him, and we will carry the election by a large majority."

* * *

Break Between Delegations.

The nomination of Hopkins was the result of a break between the delegations from Montgomery and Clark. Clark was fighting for Byrd, and at the afternoon session believed that Montgomery would change to Byrd if the issue came between Davis and Byrd. Hopkins, who had never been nominated as a candidate, had had strong men working for him, and they believed, up to noon, that they could win. Then it seemed that Hopkins would not be able to land the requisite number of ballots and the Hopkins vote went to Davis, it being understood that he would be nominated when the final ballot came. Hopkins himself expected Davis to be nominated, and thought that he was out of it.

When the eighteenth ballot was reached, on the call of the counties, Pike asked to be passed for consultation. The delegation retired to a jury room to talk it over. While Pike was out the roll was completed, with the exception of that county. It was seen that Davis would win over Byrd unless something happened quickly. It happened. Judge Benton, of Clark, laid a trap for the Montgomery delegation. He changed the vote of Clark from Byrd to Hopkins. Montgomery then changed to Byrd. Believing that the change was not an actual one, Judge Benton then changed the vote of Clark back to Byrd. If Montgomery had actually been for Byrd he might have been nominated, but the delegation was not for him, and when they saw he might be nominated, they promptly changed back to Davis.

Judge Benton then said:

* * *

Laid a Trap.

"We laid a trap for you and you fell into it. Now we will cast the vote of Clark county for Hopkins, and it will stick."

Lee county was recognized and changed to Hopkins. Floyd county, which was for Hopkins all the time, promptly changed from Davis to Hopkins. Other counties fell in line as fast as they could get recognition from the chair, and it was seen that Hopkins would be the nominee. Someone near the chairman's seat changed the vote of Breathitt county to Hopkins, but the Breathitt delegation let out a howl and announced that they did not approve of the change. They stuck to Davis to the last, as did Montgomery, Elliott and Morgan. While all these changes were in progress the Pike county delegation, which has held frequent conferences, filed into the hall and the crowd quieted down long enough to hear what the chairman would have to say. Pike cast her votes for Hopkins and the thing was all over.

The delegates to the convention came away from Pikeville greatly pleased with the way they were treated by the people of that thriving little mountain city. The delegates and the candidates threatened to swamp the place at first, and there were enough of them to fill up the average sized town, with its usual accommodations. To help out the hotels the hospitable people opened up their houses and many of the private families took in delegates, practically as their guests. Everybody was given the best accommodations, and the convention was enjoyed by all those who attended, except the workers for the various candidates who had too much to do to have any time left for enjoyment. The new hotel there was found to be the equal of any in the State outside of the larger cities, and while those who preferred to be at the hotel were somewhat crowded, there was no cause for complaint.

Who Will Oppose Him?

The subject discussed this morning was, who would be the nominee of the Republicans when they hold their convention here on August 22. Various men were mentioned, but it is confidently stated that the first man asked to stand for the nomination will be Judge Ed O'Rear, of the Court of Appeals. He is a popular man, and it was thought by the Republicans that he will make a hard race out of it, even with Hopkins for the nominee of the Democrats. Judge O'Rear will be offered the nomination; this is almost certain, and it is said to be almost as certain that he will decline. The next choice of the Republicans, it is said, is Judge Kirk, of Morgan county. It is said that he also will not run, and the Republicans are talking of nominating John Langley, who now lives in Washington, but calls the Tenth district home. W. G. Blair is also mentioned, and none of the Democrats seem to think that he will be the nominee.

A. Floyd Byrd came out of the convention one of the strongest men in the district, and he made a great many friends during the convention by the gameness of his fight and his pluck in losing. It looked for a time like he would land the nomination, but the forces against him were too strong. He carried himself coolly and well, and it is believed now that he will have no opposition for the nomination two years from now, when he will be a candidate again. The fight on Byrd was a hard one, being led in the main by Judge James Hargis. But Byrd gained new friends in every county in the district, and is now one of the strongest men in it. He bears no malice toward those who defeated him, and will support the nominee.

CONTRACTOR KILLS HIMSELF AT HUNTINGTON.

Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 3.—William Weber, a prominent Government contractor, who took opium with suicidal intent yesterday, died at a local hospital this morning. Weber's wife committed suicide by drowning herself in the Sabine river at Beaumont, Tex., two months ago, and grief over her death is supposed to have caused his suicide.

Weber's home was at Beaumont, Tex. He had the contracts for the United States building being erected here, the one at McKeesport, Pa., and has only recently been awarded the contract for the new Government building at Los Angeles, Cal.

BREACH OF FAITH

CHARGED AGAINST PRIME MINISTER BANNERMAN.

Exciting Debate During Which Balfour and His Followers Walk Out.

London, Aug. 4.—The Trades Dispute Bill passed the committee stage in the House of Commons this morning and was reported to the House, amid ministerial cheering. Considerable excitement marked the debate, during which several amendments opposed by the Government were defeated by narrow majorities, in one case the Government being saved from defeat by a few Unionist votes.

There was a somewhat extraordinary scene after midnight, following on Prime Minister Campbell-Bannerman's refusal to accept Lord Robert Cecil's motion to report progress, Lord Roberts saying that the Prime Minister had pledged himself that the debate should not continue after 11 o'clock. When the motion was defeated by a Government majority of 212, Mr. Balfour accused the Prime Minister of deliberately breaking his pledge. He declined to take further part in the proceedings and invited his followers to leave the House. The invitation of the former Prime Minister was accepted by all of the three-score members of the opposition, amid ironical Ministerial, Nationalist and Laborite cheering. A few of those who left the chamber returned subsequently, but the front opposition bench remained empty, and several Liberals and Radicals took seats on it, amid Radical cheering.

The debate then proceeded without interest to its close.

A beautiful gavel was presented to the association by the Rev. J. W. Sturdivant, of Millersburg, which was made from a piece of wood cut from Lookout Mountain.

The meeting of the Bracken Association will be held next year at Maysilck.

UNKNOWN PASSENGER KILLED BY POSSE

While Arresting Two Highwaymen On a Train In Oklahoma.

El Reno, Okla., Aug. 3.—Two highwaymen held up and robbed Samuel Roland and Miss Corrine Jones, of Dallas, Tex., at a railroad station near El Reno to-day, assaulted the woman and were captured by a posse after a pursuit, in which an unknown man was killed. Roland and Miss Jones, who are young people, were waiting for a train at the station, when two men with pistols robbed them of money and valuables, assaulted Miss Jones and fled. Roland sent word to El Reno, and a posse started after the robbers.

After the train on which the two men attempted to escape was surrounded, and during the search, a stranger started to run. On refusing to heed a call to stop he was shot down.

The two prisoners were positively identified by Miss Jones and Roland. The dead man has not been identified.

WILL HAVE TO EXPLAIN ALLEGED SHORTAGE.

New York, Aug. 3.—The arrest in Tampico, Mex., of Raoul Auerbach, wanted in New York to explain an alleged shortage of $33,000 in his books at the wholesale drug house of Inman & Kemp, where he was formerly employed as a confidential bookkeeper, was made known to the District Attorney's office to-day. As soon as extradition papers are prepared a detective will be sent to Tampico to bring Auerbach to New York.

Y., Aug. 3.—Fire to-day practically destroyed the mammoth flour house owned by Henry Russell, of this city, the Eastern distributing agent for one of the largest flour mills in the United States. The building was 129 feet long and 35 feet wide with a capacity of 35,000 barrels. About 8,000 barrels of flour was destroyed. Mr. Russell was unable to state just what his loss would be.

ONLY ONE SIDE MAY BE HEARD

Board of Public Safety To Investigate.

Evidence Will Be Taken In Executive Session.

Dr. Menefee Will Join In Public Hearing Only.

SAYS HE WILL NOT ATTEND.

It appears that the investigation by the Board of Public Safety into the charges of mismanagement of the City Hospital as preferred by Dr. Jouett Menefee, an interne, who recently resigned, will be conducted without the complainant. The board has declared that this investigation shall be behind closed doors, as is the custom of all investigations before that body. On the other hand, Dr. Menefee declares that he will not offer any evidence or take part in any proceedings that are not open to the public.

James B. Smith, chairman of the Board of Safety, yesterday afternoon announced that the charges of mismanagement of the hospital would be taken up by the Board of Public Safety at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and that all evidence would be heard in executive session. This announcement was made after a consultation between James B. Smith and John D. Wakefield, of the Board of Public Safety, and J. C. Vogt, superintendent of the City Hospital.

"We will be ready to try the case at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon," said Mr. Smith, of the Board of Public Safety. "Mr. Vogt says he will have his witnesses here, and we have sent a communication to-day to Dr. Jouett Menefee asking him to send in a list of witnesses he desires to have summoned to appear before the board."

"Suppose Dr. Menefee refuses to produce evidence or take part in the investigation behind closed doors?" was asked.

"That makes no difference," replied Mr. Smith. "We will go on with the investigation. We have set the time, and will give Dr. Menefee all the opportunity he desires to substantiate the charges he has made. If he is not there, we will hear Superintendent Vogt's side and render a decision in accordance with the testimony. We propose to give every one concerned a fair showing."

"What about the proposed public investigation of the charges by the General Council?" was asked.

"We have nothing to do with what the Council proposes to do," said Mr. Smith. "The law prescribes the duties of the members of the Board of Safety, and we propose to perform our duties. We have charge of the hospital and must see that everything is all right. The resolution that passed the lower board of the General Council may not pass the Board of Aldermen. At the same time the General Council can do whatever it pleases. That is their affair. I expect John M. Settle, the third member of the Board of Public Safety, to return from his vacation Monday, so as to be here to meet the board during the investigation. We intended to wait until the Mayor returned from his trip before we took up the matter, but concluded that we had better settle the matter at once."

* * *

Dr. Menefee Will Not Appear.

Dr. Jouett Menefee, who preferred the charges of mismanagement, said yesterday afternoon, when apprised that the Board of Public Safety had set a date for the hearing of the case, that he would have no part in a closed investigation. Said he:

"I will not pay any attention to their request for a list of witnesses unless the members of the board announce that everything shall be done in the open so that the public may have the benefit of what is brought out at the hearing. I would not take witnesses before a board in secret session after the members have expressed opinions as the members of the Board of Public Safety have in regard to the case. They already have prejudged the case and their decision would be a foregone conclusion. Secret sessions are for the purpose of whitewashing. I was delighted at the resolution adopted by the members of the lower board of the General Council, and I will do everything in my power to aid the committee, if it is appointed, to get at the exact state of affairs at the City Hospital. I think the investigation should be conducted at the hospital from the fact that it would be a matter of impossibility to take all the nurses away from the institution to testify. In that case the patients would be left without care."

EXCESSIVE HEAT CAUSES BLINDNESS.

Walter Sears, of Bowling Green, Loses His Sight Suddenly At Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Walter Sears, of Bowling Green, Ky., was stricken suddenly blind while at work in this city to-day. It is believed his blindness was caused by the excessive heat.

CONDUCTOR KILLED AND FOUR MEN INJURED.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 3.—Conductor Myron L. Bradley, of this city, was killed, and four of the train's crew injured to-day at Hartsdale, a few miles from here, in a wreck on the Michigan Central railroad. Bradley's train crashed into a cut of coal cars which had moved by their own momentum from a siding onto the main track. Engineer Tarinor and Fireman Warner were buried under the engine for several hours, but were not seriously injured. Brakemen Olvaney and Arndt, of this city, were painfully hurt.

TWO CANDIDATES FOR GENERAL OVERSEER.

John Alexander Dowie Announces That He Is Not In the Running.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Two candidates filed their certificates of nomination for the office of general overseer of the Christian Apostolic Catholic Church in Zion City in the United States Circuit Court to-day. The candidates are Wilbur Glen Voliva, who took charge of the church and Zion City after John Alexander Dowie had been suspended, and Alfred E. Bills, a former adherent of Dowie's, who claims to have opposed Voliva. Dowie through his attorneys disclaims any connection with Bills. Bills is said to be a large property-owner in Zion City, and has lived in that city for five years.

Dowie, through his attorneys, to-day for the second time announced that he would not be a candidate.

TWO MEN ADRIFT

ON GULF OF MEXICO WITHOUT FOOD OR WATER.

Tow Line Breaks In Storm and the Scows Are Left At Mercy of Waves.

New Orleans, Aug. 3.—News that two men are adrift in the Gulf of Mexico on scows without food or water was received here to-day by agents of the ocean-going tug B. W. Wilmot. Four days ago these men were cast adrift in a storm, which broke the tow line between the Wilmot and four scows, which the castaways were tending. The tug was then sixty miles out from Mobile, which port she left last Monday. When the seas broke the tow line, those on the tug were forced to watch their comrades drift away frantically signaling, but helpless before the storm. No assistance could be given by the Wilmot, because she was also towing a dredge, which did not break loose, and on which there was also a crew.

Hampered by this dredge and fearing that to cut it loose in a chase for the scows might mean death to those on the dredge, the tug's captain began a race against time toward Pensacola, Fla., intending to leave the dredge there and put back to sea for the scows. Yesterday the Wilmot, having brought the dredge safely to port, began this search. The dredge and scows came from Vicksburg, Miss., passing down the Mississippi river last week.

JUDGE MURDEROUSLY ATTACKED BY FOOTPADS.

Relieved of Watch and Money and Left Lying Unconscious In Street.

Pittsburg, Aug. 3.—It was not learned until to-day that Judge W. G. Hawkins, Jr., of the Orphans' Court, was the victim of a murderous assault by footpads near his home on Wednesday night, and left unconscious on the street, but later regained his senses and managed to make his way home. Robbery was undoubtedly the motive, as Judge Hawkins was relieved of a gold watch of much value and a sum of money. He is in a critical condition.

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS TO MEET IN COPENHAGEN.

Copenhagen, Aug. 3.—The third conference of the International League of Woman Suffragists will meet here from August 7 to 11.

A brilliant succession of excursions and fetes has been arranged. The Queen of Denmark to-day granted an audience of one hour to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, of New York, president of the league.

HANGED HERSELF WITH A TOWEL.

Rochester, Ind., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Catherine Vandorsen, seventy-eight years old, told her family last night that she was tired of life and then hanged herself with a towel in the yard of her daughter's home, just north of this city.

Two years ago Mrs. Vandorsen's husband died and since then she had grieved and fretted a great deal.

Wednesday was the woman's birthday and it was observed that she was more than usually despondent.

INDIANA MAN PAROLED FROM PRISON.

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 3.—Howard Gates, of this city, was paroled to-day from the Indiana prison at Michigan City according to word received last night from Warden Reed. Gates was convicted of embezzlement of a ward's funds two years ago. Six years ago Gates was prominent in politics and served as assistant secretary of the Indiana Democratic Committee.

TIRED OUT, BUT HAPPY

Were the Courier-Journal Tourists At Glasgow.

Pleasant But Foggy Voyage On the Columbia.

Unusual Events Break Monotony of Trip.

SOME SPECIMENS OF GRAFT.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.]

Glasgow, Scotland, July 22.—It was a tired bevy of Kentucky and Indiana girls that reached the Windsor Hotel here at 8 o'clock to-night, after a voyage of eight days through a fog that started after passing Sandy Hook and ended when the emerald coast of Ireland was sighted at 8 o'clock this morning. But weariness put no damper on their enthusiasm, and after a 9 o'clock dinner they were ready for a trip of sight-seeing. Unfortunately, there is absolutely nothing to see in this tightly closed town after 9 o'clock Sunday, or, for that matter, at any time on Sunday, so all retired early to get a good rest for a strenuous day in the Trossachs to-morrow.

* * *

The voyage over in the Columbia was a most pleasant one, despite the fog that prevailed from start almost to finish. At 3 o'clock Sunday morning last the fog-horn began its doleful cry of warning, and from that time until this morning, once each minute, the sound forced its way through the thick white bank until it became almost maddening by its monotony. Captain Wadsworth did not leave the bridge except for catnaps of ten or fifteen minutes during the entire voyage. Only one observation was possible during the trip, and this was at noon Thursday. But so carefully was the good ship steered by dead reckoning that she was only one mile out of her course when this observation was taken. Despite the fog, the sea was as smooth as a river nearly all the time. Only five or six of the party were seasick, and these had slight attacks. For obvious reasons they shall not be named.

* * *

The usual whales were sighted Monday morning, and all the girls of the Courier-Journal party were enthusiastic over the said-to-be unusual sight, until the first officer stated bluntly that there had not been a whale in that part of the Atlantic in twenty years. Then they were willing to admit that it might have been a playful porpoise that caused the splash and supposed spout of water.

* * *

On Tuesday there were two unusual things that furnished topics for talk for many hours. About 9 o'clock in the morning the thermometer began to fall rapidly and in an hour steamer rugs were a necessity. A delegation called on Purser Brown to learn the cause of the sudden change, and he reported that there might be an iceberg in the vicinity. At 11 o'clock a dim speck appeared miles ahead, and field glasses were hauled from trunks and suit cases for a better look. Slowly the speck grew larger, and the lookout in the crow's nest called "iceberg ahead!" Then there was excitement and expectancy. We drew nearer (and became colder) until we were within about five miles of the berg. It was a most beautiful sight, as the cold dissipated the fog for a time. The berg was reported to be about twelve hundred feet in length, and equally as wide. When the sun struck it for a few minutes it glistened and sparkled like a great bank of snow, and all the rainbow colors were discernible.

* * *

The second unusual happening was about 9 o'clock at night. Far ahead in the fog a flash of light was seen, followed by a muffled roar. Another flash, and another roar followed. "We're attacked by pirates!" shouted one excited Kentucky girl, and she hastened below to her cabin to secure her valuables and have them ready. There were other flashes and roars, and the report gained currency that a ship was on fire. The Columbia changed her course and drew near the place from whence the signals came. Excitement died when the cause of the trouble was found to be a fishing smack strayed from her course in the fog; and when her captain saw the Columbia approaching, he feared he might be run down, and had fired his gun to warn us to keep off. We had fresh fish for breakfast next morning.

* * *

The northern coast of Ireland was sighted Sunday morning, and never was a sight of the Emerald Isle more welcome. To please the Courier-Journal "Cookies" (we are now "Cookies," according to the English papers) old Sol came from behind the clouds and spread his rays over the beautiful green hills. No one in the party would admit that he or she was tired of old ocean, but when land came in view, there was a most noticeable rising in spirits of all. The trip up the Firth of Clyde was enjoyable, and the scenery almost sublime. All were willing to leave the ship when Greenock was touched, and after the usual vexatious delays over the identification and searching of baggage, the train was taken for Glasgow. The ride was enjoyable, and the dinner that awaited us at the Windsor was thoroughly appreciated.

* * *

To-morrow (Monday) we start on real sight-seeing, going through the Trossachs, winding up at Edinburgh at night, spending Tuesday there, then on to the home of Shakespeare, then to London.

* * *

While the officers of the Columbia were pleasant and courteous in every way, there was evident a spirit of graft that is not pleasant to a plain, everyday tourist. For instance, when it becomes necessary to change your money into English, you are given one pound for five dollars, or two shillings (forty-eight cents) for half a dollar. When you pay a bill on the ship you are charged United States money, and if paid in English coin, it is necessary to add the difference. It looks like a gouge, and it grates on a true American. Then the table waiters, or stewards, and the bedroom stewards and the deck stewards and the smoking-room stewards have a set amount for their tips, and woe to the man or woman who deviates from this scale. These hirelings evidently stand in with the custom officers at Greenock, and probably elsewhere, and they can put a mark on your baggage that will call for a humiliating search and delay that is exasperating. The Courier-Journal party had little of this trouble, but it was because they had been properly advised, or warned, and submitted to the extortion. The average tip for each steward is $2.50 a passenger.

CHAUTAUQUA AT ITS HEIGHT.

Between Ten and Twelve Thousand Visitors On the Grounds—Visit of the Governor and Maj. Gen. Howard—Literature, Music and Manners at the Great Assembly.

Considering their heterogeneous elements the huge audiences that now gather hourly in the lecture halls are remarkable in point of attention and manners. As a rule they are orderly, good-natured, courteous. Chautauquans have had years of training and in mass offer as great a number of rapt listeners as ever flattered a lecturer. Only the newcomers have to be broken in and assimilated every year. These, indeed, have much to learn, but every season shows less and less to offend.

Things that were common four years ago in the amphitheater would not now be tolerated. I remember seeing one woman with her teacher taking a lesson in embroidery during a fervent discourse on Savanarola; another was shelling peas from her apron and dropping them tinkling into a tin pan; others, men and women, were reading, sleeping, talking. Why they came to a lecture was a puzzling question. But these with other lusory lapses have been so decried from the platform and so ridiculed in print that they are now restricted to the very thoughtless or to the ignorant newly arrived.

Four years ago choir and audience in the amphitheater encored "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth" and threw bouquets at the conclusion of the "Hallelujah Chorus," throughout which they had listened sitting. At the splendid performance Friday every soul rose at the first note of the glorious burst of praise and stood to the end. To be sure they had applauded wildly each preceding number, but the offense, with us so inexcusable in sacred music, it seems is not so considered in the North, and in this instance the choir itself had set the example by clapping loudly after each solo. Perhaps it is too much to ask that each of six hundred singers should be capable of feeling the height of religious emotion that Handel can inspire.

But is it being too exacting to require that the soloists should feel some of the sacredness of the words of the immortal "Messiah?" A decolette white gown trimmed with huge glittering silver sequins, artificial flowers and a gratified smile are hardly consonant with the solemn strains of "He Was Despised and Rejected of Men," and one should not wonder that the audience clapped vociferously or that the sparkling soloist wearer responded with gracious and impartial bows.

At this same performance the children were as usual out in full and unattended force, the front rows being crowded with a squirming mass of youngsters. I discovered that wintergreen lozenges of concentrated force are in high and strong favor and flavor with the infant Chautauquan, as are likewise rubber balls with a string attachment which played a continuous and lively accompaniment to "He Shall Feed His Flock" and "All We Like Sheep." Children are wellsprings of delight in their place, which is not at a grand evening performance of "The Messiah."

The literary attractions of the past week have been far above the ordinary. Mr. S. H. Clark's rendition of "Elaine" on Wednesday was something to be remembered. The almost-forgotten lines gained in sweetness and pathos with his interpretation. He re-kindled my first enthusiasm over the exquisitely refined beauty of the verse. Mr. Clark is at his best this summer. He seems to have brought fresh endeavor and inspiration to his work, his voice is the same, smooth, resonant organ that has charmed Chautauquans for many years. Of masterpieces possessing the pure loveliness found in Tennyson and calling for controlled emotion he is easily the finest interpreter ever heard on this platform.

Dr. W. J. Dawson and Dr. S. C. Schumucker began their special courses in literature this week. Mr. Edward Howard Griggs is advertised for August 6-17. His subjects are "A Study of the Poetry and Philosophy of Tennyson," and "A Study of the Poetry and Philosophy of Browning."

The National Army Day exercises brought a crowd of grizzled veterans and much show of flags and singing of national anthems. "Dixie" was enthusiastically applauded, and South and North alike arose at the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner." The opening address was by Gov. Higgins, of New York. He is an earnest, unaffected, youthful-looking man, who, realizing that nature had never intended him for an orator, had the good taste to write out his address of welcome and read it inside of ten minutes. His platitudes and his brevity were received with boundless enthusiasm.

Quite different was the address of Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard, the hero of forty-three battles, who, with his pathetic empty sleeve, his strong face, his good bearing, looked the typical old soldier. His subject was "Heroes of the Civil War." These he said were neither the soldiers of the North nor the South, though both held high places—they were the women of America. Gen. Howard is a fine speaker—one who feels the mood and gains the immediate attention of his audience. Several of his anecdotes brought tears to many eyes. The general was graduated from West Point and was an intimate friend and classmate of Gen. "Jeb" Stuart and other officers of the Confederacy. He bears his seventy-six years lightly. E. S. B.

New Staff of the American Magazine.

The Phillips Publishing Company has taken over the American Magazine and promises something exceptional in the way of a monthly. The officers and editorial board show an array of talented writers and editors. John S. Phillips, Lincoln Steffens, Miss Ida M. Tarbell, Finley Peter Dunne, William Allen White are names of both promise and performance.

The president of the new company was associated editorially and commercially with the management of both McClure's syndicate and McClure's Magazine, besides being an active member of the publishing house of McClure, Phillips & Co. ever since its organization. In their prospectus the new firm says:

We believe that with such an editorial staff and contributors we can make the American Magazine not only interesting and important in a public way, but also the most stirring and delightful monthly book of fiction, humor, sentiment and joyous reading that is anywhere issued. It will reflect a happy, struggling, fighting world, in which, as we believe, good people are coming out on top. There is no field of human activity in which we are not interested. Our magazine will be wholesome, stimulating, uplifting, and, above all, it will have a human interest on every page, whether expressed in fiction or articles or comments or editorials.

In the work which we are undertaking we want the co-operation of all writers. We want the best fiction, short stories and serials; the most beautiful and impressive poetry and pictures. We want editorial suggestions and criticisms. We shall be gratified to examine manuscripts, to consider subjects and to discuss plans. Particularly do we desire to see the work of new writers.

We want the hearty co-operation of our subscribers. Their criticisms and suggestions cannot but be of assistance in our efforts to make a vigorous, wholesome magazine.

Charming Novel Criticising American Life and Manners.

"Lady Betty Across the Water" is not merely a breezy love story, refreshingly told, but an amiable, perspicacious arraignment of English and American society. In this study of contrasting habits, manners and morals the authors of the "Lightning Conductor" give no great credit to either nation, but if read aright, teach valuable lessons to both.

Lady Betty is a young English girl not yet "out," who because she is beautiful, must be kept in the background until her plainer, elder sister is provided with a husband. Accordingly, she is sent to visit a rich American widow in New York and Newport. In other words, she is banished until her sister, Victoria, can safely land a duke.

The wonders of New York and Newport as seen through the eyes of the innocent, frank English girl, are presented in a series of happenings at once amusing and astonishing. The ways of thought and the daily lives of the poor millionaires who are obliged to resort to the most bizarre entertainments to attain the end and aim of their vacuous lives—which is to outshine their neighbors and intimates—their mean little revenges, squabbles and pettinesses are nakedly exposed. The innocence and good nature of Betty, who tells the story, relieves the criticisms from any suspicion of spite and envy. The English aristocracy is shown in quite as bad a light, and neither can prove the arraignment false or exaggerated.

The triumph of the book comes in the sketch of the true American aristocracy as seen in the simple life on a farm in Ohio. This is one of the truest pictures of life imaginable. The healthful sweetness of the daily routine, the plentiful, plain food, the rational hours, the unaffected sympathy, the free play of tender emotions as contrasted with Newport's artificial strenuosity, offer one of the best criticisms of national character ever written, one of the most impressive lessons in life and manners ever taught.

LADY BETTY ACROSS THE WATER. By C. N. and A. M. Williamson. Published by McClure, Phillips & Co., New York City.

The Bottom of the Well.

Though this novel has among its good points an original and somewhat unexpected climax, its lack of consistency mars the work as a whole. The characters are not true to their creator's first plan, but change name, nature, body, mind and soul with an utter lack of reason. The first impressions the reader receives are overturned and a remodeling of the point of view, a reversal of judgment, become imperative.

The strenuous hero is a waif of the sea, called Mascot by his supposed father, one Jake Stark, a smuggler, rough, brave and wicked enough to suit the most bloodthirsty demands of the innocent and peaceful reader, who adores cutthroats provided they are kept between the covers of a book.

The first scenes of the book belong to the sea, and the reader settles himself for a story of jolly, marauding tars. But a landing takes place in which the hero, captured with the old smugglers, is torn away from the life on the ocean wave and introduced into high society, where by his many graces of mind and person he attracts an English Admiral to the point of adoption and rechristening. Thus all the taint of early environment is overcome and the way paved for the many events that follow.

Mascot, formerly Joseph Stark, now Stanley Deane, goes to New York after the death of his adopted father and becomes mixed up with great affairs in the Socialist world, casting his lot with the oppressed, shedding his sympathy on the laborer in a somewhat vague but highly laudable conservatism which leads him to be in but not of the world of anarchists. A plot is formed to blow up a selfish, grasping millionaire employer in his laboratory, and Mascot (Joseph Stark, or Stanley Deane) is arrested and charged with the murder. His first father, Jake Stark, turns up, and brings his true father, one John S. Morse, of ante-Mayflower lineage and emigration, to save him. This not preventing conviction, the author has recourse to the original climax before mentioned, and Stanley Deane, now John S. Morse, comes to his own at last. It is not every hero that can have four real names and three real and adopted fathers in one book.

The story takes its title from the highly appropriate and felicitous name of a club where semi-anarchists, socialists, labor agitators and detectives meet to exchange thoughts and plans and perfect schemes for their own and others' undoing.

THE BOTTOM OF THE WELL. By Frederick Upham Adams. Published by G. W. Dillingham Company, New York.

A Summary and Interpretation of Socialistic Principles.

The author of this book, named Socialism, announces as his aim to show that the Socialist ideal is far from being the net-work of laws commonly immagined, or the mechanical arrangement of human relations devised by Utopian romancers. If the Socialist propaganda of to-day consists of the advocacy of laws, these are to ameliorate conditions in the existing social system. For, says he, the ideal state of the future is not a life enmeshed in a network of government, but a life controlled by government as little as possible; "a maximum of personal freedom, with a minimum of restraint." Not Tolstoi, Ibsen and Zola are to be received as types of Socialists, but those whose principles find classic expression in the Communist Manifesto, and to the attainment of which their political programmes are directed.

After specifying then, what is not Socialism, what is not a socialist, sketches of Robert Owen, briefer sketches of Fourier, Saint Simon, and again more exhaustive pictures of Angels, Marx, Cabet, Weitling and others, give the positive side of the question. In the modern scientific sense socialism is, says Mr. Spargo, a theory of social evolution, its hopes resting on the forces of historical development, springing from economic necessity as the culmination of epochs of industrial evolution. Economic fatalism, however, does not enter into this theory. The history of labor is traced down to the present conditions of capitalists, and of the workings of the law of concentration. The Marxian prophecy is shown to be fulfilled, the theory that competition would become self-destructive and that the inevitable result of the competitive process is to produce monopoly, either through the crushing of the weak by the strong, or the combination of units as a result of a conscious recognition of the wastes of competition and the advantages of co-operation.

The insistence of modern socialism upon its doctrine of the class struggle, is criticised as responsible for keeping many people outside the ranks. If, says the author, the socialists would repudiate the doctrine that socialism is a class movement, and make their appeal to the intelligence and conscience of all, instead of to the interests of a class, they would probably double their numerical strength at once. However, the writer has struck the root of the matter here, he also sees the socialist's side that such a doctrine is perforce a pivotal point of socialist philosophy. Optimism pervades the author's picture of the conquest of society, by a social democracy in which all the names of common life are owned and controlled by the people in common, according to the hopes, we venture to remark, of the despised Utopian romancer.

An appendix is included in the National Platform of the Socialist Party, of America. Adopted by the Chicago Convention, May 8, 1904.

FOIBLES OF THE BENCH. By Henry S. Wilson, of the Chicago bar. Publishers, Legal Literature Co., Chicago.

The author forswears any intention of impaling local or present incumbents on the bench. He claims that his characters, Knowall, Wasp, Fearful, Judge Graft, Wabbler, are eternal and ubiquitous types. Defects, abuses, weaknesses, observed for nearly fifty years, are held up for criticism with the hope that they may be corrected. A common error exists, says the author, that a judge is called upon to discharge a function of Deity. The blaze of glory customarily surrounding these officers of law has tended to puff them up and to intimidate others. Egotism, such as makes the judge a law unto himself, and is responsible for his straying into court when he chooses, while the attorneys and witnesses wait in patience or impatience, is excoriated. The author hints it is the game of draw poker the night before that detains the judge in the morning. And it is slyly suggested that if any form of reading has caused his delay seldom is it legal literature. Here is the picture of the egotistic Judge Knowall: "A tall, angular man, straight as an arrow, with high cheek bones, a closely cropped and bristly beard and stiff hair which stands on his head like the bristles of a scrubbing brush. He has a reckless audacity and will dip into anything. Like the bold corsair of the deep, he strides into the court room." A sorry picture is presented by the demure-looking captives, the meek, bald-headed barrister, the long-suffering jury, all at the conscienceless mercy of this overbearing, arbitrary master of the court. Under the chapter headings, Pugnacity, Corruption, Courage, Abuses, similar subjects, other exponents of judicial foibles are held up to scorn on the author's rapier point.

THE LIFE OF GEN. HUGH MERCER. By John T. Goolrick. Published by the Neale Publishing Co., Washington and New York.

This book contains not only a sketch of Gen. Mercer's life, but a gallery of his friends and associates—Washington, John Paul Jones, Gen. George Weeden, James Monroe and Mrs. Mary Ball Washington. Also are included a sketch of Lodge No. 4, A. F. and A. M., to which Washington and Gen. Mercer belonged, and a genealogical table of the Mercer family. The sketches of Gen. Mercer's friends are necessarily brief, as for that matter is the one about him—though not so brief as the others. His was a most interesting career. Born in Scotland, graduated from one of its medical schools, he took part in the battle of Culloden, fighting for the bonnie prince. Having eluded the vigilance of the "Bloody Butcher," he sailed to America, living as a country doctor in Pennsylvania till, as captain in Braddock's army, he began again his career of arms, which he laid down so gloriously on the field of Princeton. It will be remembered that Lafayette arrived in America after the battle of Princeton, but he once remarked: "I found the army and the whole country so full of Mercer's name that an impression has always been left upon my mind that I was personally acquainted with him." With much zeal the present biographer has built up the various phases of Mercer's character as soldier, physician, scholar, patriot, Christian, "self-sacrificing and true," which, with Lafayette and posterity, have so firmly established his enviable reputation.

THE HARMONY OF THE BEAUTIFUL. By Edward Albert Parker. Published by Mayhew Publishing Co., Boston, Mass.

The sub-title of this book is "A treatise tending towards the correlation of the Fine Arts in respect to their ethical significance." And the author's preface gives it a still more special character as aiming to trace the relation between Euphony, the Music of Verse, and the other great branches of Art, Music, Painting, viewed in the light of their emotional and ethical effect. The contents are divided into two parts, the former devoted to color harmonies, with separate brief chapters on Michael Angelo, Tintoretto, Hurillo, Dore and Mosler. The second part takes up the author's work proper, the nature of verbal harmony, with discussions of such subjects as assonance, alliteration, verbal tone color, metre, truth and beauty. The book is a little "young." It is the outcome of class-room discussions. But the book deserves much commendation. It reveals a genuine feeling for the best, especially in poetry, an excellent judgment, a wide and ardent acquaintance with the master singers and with authorities on other arts. And if sometimes the touch of the not profoundly matured expositor of aesthetics appear, the book is to be welcomed as an attempt in the right, if the difficult, direction—toward a scientific understanding and appreciation of art such as build up and foster standards needed in America. The author follows somewhat Lanier's Science of English verse, though this is merely the result of a coincidence, as he says he had not seen Lanier's book till his own was planned. Mr. Parker is a Ph. B. of Colgate University, Hamilton, New York. Since 1901 he has held a professorship of English literature and rhetoric in the schools of Manila, and he signs his prefatory note from San Fernando Union, Philippine Islands.

MR. CAWEIN'S UNIQUE VOLUME OF NATURE-NOTES IN PROSE AND VERSE.

If through cross-fertilization or other mysterious process one of our familiar ash trees should suddenly some spring morning hang out ruby tassels of the maple the phenomenon would be, to say the least, arresting. A similar nine-days' wonder has befallen. Punctually, year by year, out of the particular plot of the Muses' garden he has been tilling, Mr. Madison Cawein has harvested a sheaf of poems. Now for the first time the Cawein field has borne prose, and the occasion is one for friends and foes to stand close, with scrutiny sharpened to its utmost, to see if perchance the ash had not been wiser in remaining faithful to its familiar form of burgeoning, or perhaps to find themselves inspired to such an amenity as the poet Swinburne pays to himself in that most complacent piece of writing the world has ever seen, the preface to his edition of last year, wherein he quotes a compliment Victor Hugo once sent him when he had tried some new poetic form: "Occupy the two summits; to you alone is it granted!"

Prone as Kentuckians are to admire each other, even to such a degree of "godlike generosity," the canons of reserve prescribed to Anglo-Saxon literary critics forbid any similar effusion of approval even to a Kentucky poet. But at least it is permitted straightway and heartily to say that in the present case the ash wears decorously and engagingly the adornments of the maple.

Mr. Cawein's new volume, bearing the title, "Nature-Notes," consists chiefly of several years' immediate, unelaborated impressions of that world which is his muse's happy hunting ground—the woods, fields and hills of the lovely Kentucky landscapes. Occasionally his Pegasus, unused to restraint, breaks through the leashes of prose and runs free in spontaneous lyrics, rhymed or unrhymed, if sometimes only through the short space of a couplet. But for the most part the work is in prose paragraphs, whose ardor, accuracy and range of observation solicit place for Mr. Cawein with Thoreau, Burroughs and other writers of the now multitudinous books on nature—the journals of happy Adams in happy Edens.

To this general American literature of the outdoors these nature-notes belong. But they have, moreover, a unique local value, as they transport to literature this particular section of the country, whose worth as background Mr. Allen has recognized, but which remains comparatively untouched, considering the wealth of beauty and inspiration it offers. As Mr. Cawein says:

"Oh, my Kentucky, forest old!
Where Beauty dwells, the stalwart child
Of Love and Life, where I behold
The dreams still glow that long beguiled
The marble and the bronze of men,
Whose art made fair the world of old,
Yet never held, of classic ken,
A form like thine which I would mould."

For this general rich beauty just beyond our doors Mr. Cawein's present volume might serve as a Baedeker. His knowledge is so far-reaching and so sure as sometimes to seem intuitive. His observation is a kind of divining rod for all the butterflies, flowers, birds, sweep of hills, clouds, music of streams and the other wildwood charms that make, as Thoreau said, Olympus but the outside of the world everywhere.

To this observation, shared to a great degree with the ubiquitous students of nature and writers about it, Mr. Cawein brings qualities which make the chief value and distinction of his book. These qualities are: A fancy of exquisite fiber, an ardor and an imagination of rare vitality and exuberance, an exceptional sensibility to color, a marvelous sense of its gradations from the pale tint of the bluet to the profound azure of noon, from the glint on the wing of the butterfly to the flames in the depths of the sunset, and an astonishing vocabulary to record these gradations.

At a glance these will be recognized as poetic qualities. Only a Hibernian paradox can accurately describe these prose notes, which are really poetry. Here admirers of Mr. Cawein's previous work may well take alarm, as poetic prose, despite its occasional attractive manifestations, is so much oftener to be dreaded—a kind of two-natured monster, neither fish nor fowl, nor good red herring. But for some reason this particular poetic prose is attractive. It riots in no "purple patches" of the conventional variety wherein dilettante authors and neurotic damsels love to stray. And the reason is to be found in the vitality and distinction of Mr. Cawein's poetic equipment, and in the hale and virile, if delicate and tender, regard with which he approaches nature. The elevation of his fancy and other gifts, his hale love, free from the simperings and vaporings of what sometimes passes for, but distinctly is not, poetry, may be found in such sentences as these:

"Here in the April woods what poetry addresses me in the voices of the wind! What does it say, rushing and roaring by, tossing and tumbling, until, distracted, the heads of the towering trees on Kenwood's hilltop, within their fibrous hearts the responding timbre of a mighty music. Voices of jubilation, of acclaim, epic, elemental, shouting their message over the barriers of the world, bidding it prepare for the advent of loveliness. . . . April is here, smelling spicily as does the young gold green of the gummy velvet sheaths that hold the leaves of the hickory trees, her hair gay with apple blossoms, odorous of rain, she comes, a sunny and showery presence down the orchard ways.

"Cobwebs, iridescent in the sunlight, streamed by, the tattered and rent remnants of the banners of elfdom.

"The trees were perfect clerestories for the birds, whence the bluebird, the robin, the wren, the sap-sucker, sparrow, catbird and redbird chorused their songs to which the meadow lark, like a priest before the altar celebrating the high mass of spring, antiphoned responses."

Aut Cawein, aut diabolus, must be said of such passages as these.

Here his hallmarks as a poet are manifest in their distinctive essence—his poetic ardor, love of color, his fancy. Sometimes, however, when his imagination is in play, his prose differs noticeably from what his lyric extemporization on the same theme had been, giving to those interested in artistic processes a few revelations as to the part reflection and art play in work begun in observation and inspiration among the fields. For instance, in these prose paragraphs, fauns, dryads and similar idealizations appear now and then with convincing spontaneity, proving that Mr. Cawein's imagination belongs to that naive Hellenic order which necessarily gives form to the fleeting visions of beauty in nature. But these fair creatures do not linger in the prose and absorb Mr. Cawein's imagination as they do in his poetry, wherein he gives them their mysterious beguiling will. Appearing less often, they leave more chance for the appeal of another of Mr. Cawein's characteristic gifts, his power of picturing the familiar, the homely "old chestnut groves, the haunt of drowsy cows," "lanes where the wild rose blooms, murmurous with bees," or some such memory as this to which the little grey flower of the life everlasting is the key:

"Its fragrance, quiet and unintrusive, scents with sadness and rest the idle fields, filling the heart with oldtime memories of happy places, country attics, ramshackle rafters, old, homely lofts of boyhood days on the farm, where the wasp and mud-dauber buzzed and built, and where were stored for winter use all the sunlight and warmth of the summer fields in such simples as this fragrant life-everlasting, and herbs and dried fruits of the garden; apple-scented places full of rustic peace and plenty, where our boyhood passed like a dream."

The poetry in Nature-Notes, as the prose, follows the channels made by Mr. Cawein's previous work. In "Catkins" the familiar supple fancy of the poet is at play in the world of dream—it is a delightful vernal lyric to the tune of "Awake! Awake!

For the young spring's sake,
O little brown bees in hive and brake!"

In similar ecstatic vein is "When Spring Comes Down the Wildwood Way"—in contrast to the graver melody of "Autumn Etchings" of days when the "great blurs of woodland waved with wind, gray paths down which October came." All these poems purport to have been elaborated very little, to have sprung fullfledged from the poet's heart in the wood. They bear the marks of spontaneity. Many are vivid and impressive—doubtless because of their first-hand quality. "The Charcoal Burner's Hut" is an example of this, illustrating also Mr. Cawein's genius for the picturesque in his native landscape:

"Deep in the valley, green with ancient beech,
And wandered through of one small silent stream,
Whose bear-grass banks bristled with brush and burr,
Tick tre-foil and the thorny marigold,
Bush-clover and the wahoo, hung with pods,
And mass on mass of bugled jewel-weed,
Horsemint and doddered rag-weed dense, unkempt."

The lines on the Ohio, Mendicants, In Clay and Winter Rain, also illustrate this power of virile vizualization.

Besides the interest Mr. Cawein's book may have for the general or the local public, perhaps may be mentioned its interest for a more critical minority who take a book not only for what it appears, but for its relation to other work of its author, as showing decadence or growth. This critical minority may judge that some of the earlier notes should have been condensed. Vestiges of the poetic technique sometimes remain in a profusion too prodigal for a perfect prose. Those who have come to expect the artistic elaboration Mr. Cawein has been giving his poems may perhaps desire a few more touches to certain verses, even at the expense of the absolute spontaneity the author claims for them. On the other hand, a distinct development is to be marked between the earlier and latter portions of the volume. The play of fancy, losing none of its delicacy and young exuberance, has grown steadier, less bizarre. The author's vision has become distincter, seeking with a more evident tenderness and breadth its inspirations and gratifications—which indeed seem to be inexhaustible, whether the author's vision turns to the ideal world of beauty, or to that nearer and dearer region at our doors: "The Greeks claimed that the most fragrant roses grew in Cyrene. * * * * Now I will venture again to say that no Cyrenian rose could smell sweeter than the brier-rose I have found blooming on our own hills and in our own valleys, by the streamside and the roadside in May and June. And no violet and no crocus of Greece ever attained to such elusive and scent as does our wild crabapple blossom."

THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS A "BAR SINISTER."

English Heraldry Expert Says There Is No Justification Whatever For the Term That Heretofore Has Been Commonly Used By Writers To Signify Illegitimacy—"Grateful Reader" Bequeaths $3,000 To An Italian Newspaper—Much Edited Official History of Boer War Published At Last—Literary Gossip of London.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.]

London, July 13.—There is no such thing and, in fact, never has been any such thing, as a "bar sinister." That is the disconcerting statement that has just been made by a prominent British authority on heraldic matters, and no wonder his dictum has caused surprise, for if there is one phrase that has been beloved of scribblers ever since the business of writing began it is this grim and supposedly authoritative one that almost invariably has been employed to signify illegitimacy.

It must have been used some hundreds of thousands of times, but always without the slightest justification, according to Somerville Gibney, who has just been speaking his mind on the subject. Presumably, too, Mr. Gibney knows whereof he speaks, for he is the editor of "Lodge's Peerage," as well as a recognized expert on all subjects connected with armorial bearings, crests and such. He has been moved to make his protest by reading a recent novel which is called "The Bar Sinister," a title which, he says, "sets the teeth of every herald on edge, seeing that there can be no such thing as a bar sinister." And though his explanation is a little involved to the lay mind, it amounts to this, that a "bar" is a band of color, metal or fur crossing a shield horizontally, and therefore cannot be either "sinister" or "dexter," these heraldic terms having reference to bands that start from either one of the top corners of a shield, which are themselves known as either "dexter" or "sinister."

* * *

Gibney says it is probably through the confusion of the terms "bend" and "bar" that the error has sprung into being, the "bend" being also a band of color, metal or fur crossing the shield, but in a diagonal direction from dexter to sinister, or vice versa. But he adds that the band sinister is "an absolutely honorable charge," and it seems that it is only when its width is reduced to a quarter and its extremities do not reach the confines of the shield that it is regarded as a mark of illegitimacy. Then, moreover, it is called a "baton," so it appears that the expression that should be used is "baton sinister," and as a matter of fact, Mr. Gibney says, the book he criticises carries on its cover a representation of an armorial shield, quartered and charged with a baton sinister, though bearing the title "The Bar Sinister."

It is likely, however, that the general reader, and the writer for the general reader, will continue to stick to the "bar sinister," no matter how technically wrong the expression may be, or how many heralds' teeth it sets on edge.

The first volume of the laggard "official" history of the Boer War has just been issued. It might be more correctly described as the history of the Boer War, "written to suit officials." It has been five years in preparation. The late Colonel Henderson, whose book on "Stonewall" Jackson, revealed him as a military historian of the first class, was first entrusted with the editorship of it, and soon had the first volume in hand. It was brilliantly done, but it hadn't been written to suit the old fogies of the War Office, and when the proofs fell into their hands, they raised cain, and insisted that it should be revised in accordance with their notions of how official history should be written. Colonel Henderson, in effect, told them that he would see them elswhere before he would change a line of it to please them, or submit to having it emasculated by their blue pencils. Probably he would have had his way in the long run, for he was a man with a backbone, but unfortunately he was summoned to a region where War Office officials cease from troubling before the matter was settled. Major General Sir Frederick Maurice was then given charge of the work, presumably on satisfactory assurances being received that he would prove a more pliant editor. Anyhow, the War Office blue pencil wielders have since had their own way with it, much to the disgust of some of the most brilliant officers, who have contributed chapters to the work. The "history" will run to four volumes. If any publisher could get hold of the first volume compiled by Colonel Henderson, which the War Office suppressed, there would be a big sale of it. But in the official history, the general public will take little interest.

At last something unique in the way of legacies has been achieved. An Italian woman has bequeathed $3,000 to a newspaper "in recognition of my gratitude for having been so often entertained by it." People who are not a bit grateful often sign their communications to newspapers, "Grateful Reader," because they have a notion that will help secure the publication of their letters, but this is the first instance on record that a "grateful reader's" gratitude has been demonstrated in a substantial form. It is to be hoped that the example will be imitated. There would then be fewer premature gray heads among the editorial fraternity.

The fiction number of Scribner's Magazine is made notable by a complete novelette by the author of "The House of Mirth." Mrs. Wharton's story is entitled "Madame de Treymes," and the setting of it is in Paris and has to do with the wrongs of an American woman who married into the French aristocracy.

* * *

Gelett Burgess has never written a more striking piece of work than "The White Cat," the novel which opens the August number of The Smart Set. It is a story dealing with dual personality, and the unforeseen denouement is reached after chapters of exciting interest. It is a wholly new vein for Mr. Burgess, and he is to be congratulated upon his brilliant achievement.

A wealth of suggestions for summer gowns is to be found in the August Delineator, which is interesting, not only from the standpoint of fashion, but for its reading as well. In fiction is the second installment of "The Chauffeur and the Chaperon," the delightful motor-boat romance by the Williamsons, authors of many automobile stories; also two entertaining short stories by Carroll Watson Rankin and Marvin Dana. Carolyn Wells contributes the "Rubaiyat of Summer Khayyam," written in her inimitable style.

* * *

"A Gas Tale of Two Cities," by Sherman Morse, in the American Magazine for August, is an illuminating account of the gas situation in New York and Indianapolis. It shows in a curiously interesting manner how far apart two cities can be. Another important contribution to this number is a collection of opinions on "The Single Woman's Problem." Those who give their ideas are Dorothy Canfield, Mrs. L. H. Harris, Charlotte Perkins Gilman and Mary Schenck Woolman.

Ten short stories, all of the first quality, are included in that remarkable "fiction number," the August Everybody's. Some readers want a love story; others prefer one with adventure, excitement, danger. Lloyd Osbourne has combined both elements in his "automobile love story," "Three Speeds Forward," a masterpiece of humor, vivacity and adroit incident.

One of the important articles in The Nautilus (Holyoke, Mass.) for August, is Prof. Edgar L. Larkin's description of the scene of the most important geological event of ages, the forming of the great Salton Sea by the breaking loose of the Colorado river.

Agnes Repplier and Andrew S. Draper make a strange contrast, as they discuss two phases of the educational problem in Appleton's Magazine for August. Yet it is hard to say which is the more cheerful reading, Miss Repplier's sparkling irony which makes us glad to have escaped from the past, or Dr. Draper's superb optimism which makes us proud of the present and hopeful of the future.

The August issue of 10 Story Book is adorned with a breezy seaside cover, constructed along the lines characteristic of that magazine. The stories inside are distinctively hot-weather reading.

* * *

Up-to-date interest is the unfailing characteristic of The World To-day, and the August issue is no exception. This fifteen-cent magazine is also lavishly illustrated. Several full-page pictures and portraits are at the forefront. There is an interesting article by Grant Foreman on "The New State of Oklahoma," with several good illustrations.

* * *

A vacation number would be incomplete without stories, and plenty of them; and these the August St. Nicholas has in full. "The Wars of the Roses," by Margaret Johnson, is a pretty story of summer resort happenings; Ellis Parker Butler has a humorous tale of "The Dog That Returned to Mexico;" and there is abundance of verse and pictures, besides new chapters of the four serials, and the departments.

* * *

It will be good news that Rebecca, Mrs. Wiggin's most delightful creation, will re-appear in Scribner's in a series of short stories; the first one, "Jack-o'-Lantern," will be in the Fiction Number.

* * *

Gunter's for August contains a large assortment of vividly entertaining complete stories especially appropriate for midsummer reading; also a great article on "Speculation in Copper Stocks."

* * *

The ancient alchemists were not all charlatans, writes Prof. R. A. Millikan in Technical World Magazine for August. They were simply men who were striving—most of them earnestly and seriously—to find the secret of producing any desired transformation of matter. They were trying to convert one substance into another by varying the proportions of the constituent elements.

Five humorous stories are among the nine masterly tales in the August Harper's. The writers are Mark Twain, James Branch Cabell, Alice Brown, Joseph Conrad, W. D. Howells, Grace MacGowan Cooke, Sarah Barnwell Elliott, Margaret Cameron and Jeanette Lee.

The first edition of the Overland Monthly (on the San Francisco fire) was exhausted inside of a week. The old publishing house is now on the second 100,000 edition. Such a demand for a Western magazine was never before created by any event. The Overland Monthly published two editions of the Bret Harte number years ago, but this edition did not reach anywhere near the amount of the "Fire Number." The article by Mr. P. N. Beringer is one of the best pieces of descriptive writing of the times. Mr. Beringer is an ex-war correspondent and was for a long time editor of the Overland Monthly. He is now editor of the San Francisco News Letter.

The August Metropolitan Magazine is unusually strong in seasonable fiction. Open it at almost any page and you will find a story that will charm you from the first page to the last. As befits the month, it is a number to carry to a hammock under the trees or to a shawl spread on the seashore.

Accompanying the August Century's reproduction in color of scenes at Vesuvius and San Francisco made from nature during recent days of disaster, will be accounts of personal experiences in those trying days. William P. Andrews has written of the causes and characteristics of the eruption of Vesuvius, making interesting comparisons with the great eruption of A. D. 79. The pictures are by Charles Caryl Coleman.

A somewhat novel institution has been established in connection with the editorial department of Success Magazine. It is called the Editor's Cabinet, and consists of a board of prominent men and women, experts in various phases of human endeavor, whose duty is to answer the questions that shall be asked by the readers of the magazine. Every editor knows that his publication is looked upon as a clearing-house for all manner of puzzling queries, which are hurled at it by an impatient public. Success Magazine announces that it has been requested to answer so many questions of a diversified nature that, in order to give its readers the best possible service, it organized the Editor's Cabinet.

Collier's says:

When a Russian reader sees a page blacked out by the censor, he knows by that sign that he is deprived of truth. An American reader is treated more insidiously. For him often truth is skillfully adulterated. A text-book for public schools, for example, was adorned with a picture of the cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born; for the Southern trade, the label which identified the picture with Lincoln was removed, and it was marked, "A typical log cabin." In prohibition communities text-books on physiology must advocate temperance with more false and exaggerated statements concerning the effect of alcohol than the liquor interests ever told in behalf of their cause. For the Southern trade text-books which deal with the Civil War give an account of that contest which must make Southern children, when they grow up, surprised to learn that the capital of their country is not at Richmond, Va., and at a loss to account for the fact that the soldiers of their country wear blue uniforms. In New York, as in other communities that have a large Jewish population, school text-books frequently keep clear of any mention of Jesus Christ. In Russia some knowledge is considered dangerous. In our own fair land some knowledge is deemed unwelcome.

THE SHADOWS.

BY CHARLOTTE BECKER.

A Joy danced gayly down the way,
Light as a wind-blown leaf.
Ah! strange, that as she passed, there fell
The shadow of a grief.

A Grief crept sadly down the way,
Scorned as Love's broken toy.
Yet, from her drooping wings, she cast
The shadow of a joy.

Delightful Tour Through Spain.

Edward Hutton's volume on "The Cities of Spain" is an excellent example of the rich results to be obtained when an author is completely in sympathy with his subject. Sympathy of an intimate personal kind is an admirable, if not a requisite, torch wherewith to visit the cities of the old world where age on age has heaped such riches, such distinctive character as demand not only cold pedantic observation, but that vital interpretation of the Spirit of Place (to borrow Mrs. Meynell's charming formula), which in the work of Symons, Hutton and others has come to form almost a special department of literature. One might almost venture to say that Mr. Hutton brings something resembling sentimentality to his present task. Yet his ardor is far from being blind, and he sets down what was censurable in the past or what is disagreeable in the Spain of to-day without extenuation, with the truth of a realist.

He enters Spain by way of Irun, that "classic gateway through which many of our fathers on their way to the wars in defense of Don Carlos or some other adventurer that called them forth out of the dreamy North, have passed into Castile." Following his description of Irun are glowing pictures of Burgos, Salamanca, Madrid, Seville, Granada, Barcelona and all those other cities whose names are synonymous for the picturesque and the romantic. Fuentarabia, the Mayor of the Sea, with its quiet streets, so old and so silent, is typical of many of the romantic places whose names send a thrill to the imagination.

History, especially of the romantic past, vignettes of the colorful life of to-day as it is found so various and distinctive in the different provinces, presented with much feeling and keen observation, help to wake the interest of Mr. Hutton's pages; Spanish treasures of art by native genius or such specimens of Titian, Raphael and others who enrich the Spanish galleries, are eloquently described and criticised at length; Murillo, Velasquez, Goya and others are intimately studied. The great cathedrals particularly appeal to two senses which Mr. Hutton eminently possesses—the art sense and the religious sense. Miraflores, Burgos, the churches of Avila and Toledo inspire fervent paragraphs.

Twenty-four colored illustrations and twenty monotones by A. Wallace Rimmington contribute to the text on the land which so irresistibly solicits the brush.

"Business."

Friday Evening, Aug. 3.—The New York stock market opened strong, with an inclination to center the buying on a few favorite issues. This caused heavy liquidation and there were slight reactions. However, the market, generally speaking, kept its strength, and the close was satisfactory to the bull interests.

Money on call was steady at 2¾ to 3½ per cent., with the ruling rate at 2¾. The closing bid was 2 with money offering at 2½. Time loans were firm at unchanged rates, and exchange tended to firmness.

Estimates of large outputs in certain sections weakened the Chicago wheat market some, and September opened ⅛c to ¼c weaker, selling as low as 73¼. Corn was strong, closing at 49⅝c. Oats were firm and closed at 31c.

Cotton opened steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points, but weakened as the day's developments came. It broke badly following the Government report.

The Chicago cattle, hog and sheep market was steady all day, with a tendency to fractional advances.

Col. George Croghan.

The reburial of the remains of George Croghan at Fremont, O., on Thursday, on which occasion Vice President Fairbanks and Gov. Harris made addresses, calls attention to a great Kentuckian whose exploits made him a national figure. George Croghan was born near Louisville, November 15, 1791. His father, Col. William Croghan, served in the Revolution, and his mother was a sister of George Rogers Clark. He was graduated at William and Mary College in 1810, and shortly afterward entered the army. He was at the battle of Tippecanoe in 1811, serving as an aide to Col. William Boyd. He became a Captain in 1812, and in 1813 was on the staff of Gen. W. H. Harrison, with the rank of Major. In the same year, on August 1 and 2, he won national renown by his heroic defense of Fort Stephenson, at Old Sandusky, now Fremont, O. The assailing forces, under Proctor, consisted of 500 British regulars and 700 to 1,000 Indians.

Fort Stephenson was at the head of navigation on the Sandusky river. Gen. Harrison had his headquarters at Fort Seneca, ten miles higher up. Croghan had only 160 men, and when Gen. Harrison learned that Proctor was about to assail the position he sent word to Croghan to burn the fort and return. The messenger lost his way and did not reach the fort till next day. Croghan sent word that the order reached him too late to be carried out, and that the fort could be held. Harrison did not like this, relieved Maj. Croghan and ordered him to his headquarters. His explanation of his conduct on the night of July 30 was satisfactory and he was permitted to return. On the afternoon of August 1 the British opened fire on the fort, and continued the attack next day. Croghan had one gun, a six-pounder, which he shifted from place to place, as circumstances dictated. He noticed that the British fire was being concentrated on the northwest corner of the stockade, and correctly divined that that was to be the place of the assault. He placed his gun, "Old Betsy," as it was called, so as to rake a ditch at this point, loaded it with leaden slugs and masked it. The assault was made as anticipated, and when the ditch was full the gun was fired at the British at a range of thirty feet. The British fled with a loss of 150 men, including Col. Short. Croghan's loss was one killed and seven slightly wounded. Proctor then abandoned the field and started back to Canada.

The signal victory achieved by a young subaltern made a great sensation. Croghan was promoted to be Lieutenant Colonel for gallantry and a gold medal was voted him by Congress. He was the hero of the day and his renown has survived to the present time. He resigned in 1817, and in 1824 was postmaster at New Orleans. In 1825 he was made Inspector General with the rank of Colonel. He served with credit in the Mexican War, and died at New Orleans of cholera on January 8, 1849. He was buried at Locust Grove, this county, whence his remains have recently been removed to the scene of his greatest exploit.

Many of the older citizens of Louisville will remember the Croghan House, that stood on the site of the present Willard Hotel, which was doubtless named for Col. Croghan or some member of the family. His renown has long been precious to Kentuckians, many of whom will regret the removal of his remains, though he made his greatest reputation as an officer of the United States army.

Whilst We Wait.

Whether the President be the candidate of his party for re-election in 1908, or not, from now onward the play of party forces in the United States will become largely a duel between Theodore Roosevelt and William Jennings Bryan.

"He hasn't stolen all my wearing apparel," Mr. Bryan said the other day of Roosevelt, "and those pieces he has stolen don't fit him."

Among the practical politicians of our time Theodore Roosevelt stands easily the foremost. He joins to the knowledge of political machinery a knowledge of political philosophies, and is possessed by a keen sense of the operations of public opinion. He is an intelligent opportunist. He is an intrepid navigator. The dare-devil in him appeals to the popular imagination. The absence of conviction removes from his sea-way all theoretical and conscientious obstructions. He steers East, or West, or North or South, as his fancy listeth, or his eye and experience point the way; but, his fancy is not made up out of the cobwebs of the dreamer, whilst he brings to the helm the accretions of twenty years in rough-riding politics.

Tyrannous in the exercise of power, when he thinks he has it, keeping faith only where it is profitable and convenient, he bears all the familiar earmarks of the Egotists of History, who conceived their will to be the law and saw nothing except through the selfish medium of their own ambition.

Men like this make good, or bad rulers, in the proportion that they are held in check, or given loose rein. Thus far, in the main, the influence of Theodore Roosevelt has made for good, not bad. He is a clean, an able and a brave man, who loves his country only second to himself, and, for righteous ends, would recreate the public service after his own image. The people in general like that kind of a man, and hence the President retains a very large measure of his popularity.

With the unerring instinct of a genius for affairs, Mr. Roosevelt saw, after the last national election, that the Republican party must, as the saying is, "loosen up a bit." It could not afford to go the gaits it had been going. It could not afford to stand pat on certain abuses which were becoming too obvious as well as too oppressive. The party had been the friend of corporate wealth, the beneficiary of criminal wealth, the organ of organized rapacity. The Tariff Schedules, the Railway Service, the Insurance Companies, all welded together in a community of interest and a common system of pillage, were adjusted to play High Finance whilst they piled up Republican majorities. Having used the ladder of Monopoly to climb to the top, just as he had used the ladder of Civil Service Reform to command the party machinery, he thought himself strong enough to kick the ladder away and to get down again upon terra firma. First, he began to play to the galleries. The galleries applauded. Then he began to put the screws to the recalcitrants in Congress. They winced and cried aloud, but men in close quarters cannot be very obdurate and the average politician is never very squeamish. A growl or two came from the Gray Wolves of the Senate; but Mr. Speaker Cannon, and his docile Rules Committee, danced to the music of the new fiddler for dear life. Thus the Slogan "Roosevelt and Prosperity."

So far so good. The President still has his party in the hollow of his hand. He can do with it as he will. In 1908 he may be its nominee. In any event, unless the party repudiates him, he will be its sole logical expression and in case he is not its nominee, he will be our best witness; because the Republican party without Theodore Roosevelt is a moribund affair, an elephant in an iron cage, with one foot bound by Tariff thongs and another strapped to its own tail, whilst the same old voracious trunk reaches vainly out after the familiar sustenance of criminal wealth, formerly poured in with such abundance by the Insurance Companies, the Railways and the Banks, to say nothing about the fat fried out of the Protected interests.

The President has played a clever game. He has sought to cut the ground from under Mr. Bryan's feet. He has thought, however, too little of the ground beneath his own. The difference between them is the difference between the spurious and the true. Mr. Bryan's clothes do not fit Mr. Roosevelt. If Mr. Roosevelt be the candidate in 1908 he will have to face the third-term proposition. If he be not, we put him on the stand as our star performer.

Can a walrus waltz to the music of "the beautiful blue Danube?" Can the elephant dance a jig without his fiddler? As little can the Republican party, honeycombed with abuses, the author of all our commercialized policies and our lowered moral conditions, prance round as a real Reformer.

But, on the other hand, if Mr. Roosevelt be indeed an angel and not a mortal—as the New York Sun claims him to be—he may fling ambition to the winds and go in for results, "doing his uttermost at the bat whilst he has the chance," to quote Harper's Weekly, and, in that event, the day of our complete redemption might be deferred, some of the worse abuses having been actually mended.

We would do the President no injustice. Respecting the office he holds—though not magnifying its dignity—conceiving its occupant the first citizen merely, yet still a citizen—the servant, the very body-servant, of the people—we entertain for the personality of Theodore Roosevelt the consideration which his character and his deeds have the right to command of his countrymen. Yet, to be equally just to ourselves, we should discriminate between the man, as he is, in his private and domestic stockings, and the same man in jack-boots, mounted and riding for a wager, hot with the passions of combat and ambition. Already he has swung the pendulum too far in the direction of Centralized power. We need to swing it back. Who shall say that too much dominancy may not degenerate into absolutism? And, then what?

Mr. Bryan is the true, the original, Moses. Mr. Roosevelt merely impersonates the part. The house is yet dark and half-empty. We must wait awhile for the curtain to rise, for the lights to be turned on, and for the performance to begin.

Sunday Observance In France.

The agitation for enforced Sunday observance in Canada and the movement so pronounced in certain parts of the United States for a similar practice legally required make the law just passed by the French Chamber of Deputies one of peculiar interest. The intensity of the feeling on the subject may be inferred from the fact that the vote stood 575 in favor of the bill and only one against it. At first there was a considerable opposition to the measure from the anti-clericals, who contended that it signified another union of church and State, and from others, who argued that such a law would interfere with many institutions which public necessity demands, but all opposition went down in defeat at last, as the vote testifies. So France is to have a Sunday law of most rigid terms. By its provisions no industrial or commercial establishment of any kind, whether public or private, lay or religious, even of those for education or benevolence, is permitted to work an employe more than six days a week. There must be a weekly period of rest of twenty-four consecutive hours and the period must be on Sunday. In such cases where the complete closing of an establishment on Sunday would be prejudicial to the interests of the public, the weekly rest may be given for part or all of the year in one of the following ways:

On some other day of the week for the whole personnel of the establishment;

From Sunday noon to Monday noon;

Sunday afternoon, with a compensatory holiday every fortnight, or by shifts in rotation of part or all the employes. The day of rest by rotation is permitted only to the following establishments: Hotels and restaurants; shops for the sale of tobacco and fresh flowers; hospitals, asylums and drugstores; baths; newspapers, museums, theaters and libraries; waterworks, gasworks and power plants; transportation, other than railroads; industries dealing with perishable materials or products. In the case of public works of an urgent nature, such as the prevention or repair of accidents, it is permissible to waive the day of rest for the workman needed. As regards railroads and steamships, it may be remarked that they are provided for in another law.

The drastic character of the French law is obvious. The idea in making it so was to compel an improvement in the condition of the working classes. The motive was not religious, but social and economic. Sunday was chosen as the day of rest because it was the day most convenient to the whole people, and not because it was the Christian Sabbath. The designation and appointment of the day made for uniformity, moreover, which was desirable in such a matter.

It will be instructive to note with what degree of success the law operates; also, whether other nations of the earth will catch the fever and enact legislation equally stringent. It is a far cry from the present Sabbath to that on which every man, woman and child is idle, serene and pious, when the whir of business is completely gone and the atmosphere of quietude, somnolence and prayer rests everywhere.

Another Big Deficit.

It is not unusual for the fiscal year to start out with a deficit, but that for last month is a large one. The receipts were $52,298,852, and the expenditures $65,813,721, showing a deficiency of revenue of $13,514,869.

This result, as usual, is given with an apology or an attempted explanation. Last year a payment made by the Central Pacific railroad, amounting to about two millions and three quarters, was made in July; this year it goes over to August. It is also said that the expenditures this month were larger, principally on account of the Panama canal. Now the payments on the canal account could not have been very large, and, besides, no account is as yet taken of thirty millions increase in the bonded debt, which also goes over till August.

There was a great parade over the surplus that was shown for the preceding fiscal year. No doubt this showing was largely forced by holding up payments until after the close of the year, with the result that July shows a deficit much larger than it should, while the past fiscal year gets the benefit of the better showing. It is pointed out that the receipts last month were at the rate of $627,000,000 a year, an enormous amount taken from the pockets of the people, but still not enough to prevent an immense deficit. What the country wants is greater economy, and not ingenious treasury statements, to explain the bad showing made by the figures actually submitted. The people are pouring mammoth sums into the treasury, but the prodigality of appropriations is so great that we start off with a deficit for one month one-fourth as large as the total annual receipts of the Government less than half a century ago. The population has increased less than three times since 1860, but expenditures have increased more than ten times.

Canadian Annexation Made Easy.

A correspondent writes to one of the Eastern newspapers to explain how simple it would be for the United States to absorb Canada—a peaceful, blissful, serene absorption; a benevolent assimilation, without the firing of a gun.

"There are not to exceed 750,000 inhabitants in Canada west of Ontario," he premises. "Many of them are Indians and half-breeds who have no vote. Many of them are Americans and Americanized Canadians who are ready and anxious for political union. There are not to exceed 125,000 electors in Canada west of Ontario."

With that beginning he diagrams his process of assimilation:

"A citizen of Canada who is assessed for $500 in realty can reside here, and vote in Canada, or be elected a member of Parliament if assessed for $4,000. He is not compelled to forswear allegiance to this republic to become a citizen of Canada. He can cast a vote for member of Parliament in every riding in which he is assessed if he can get to the polls on election day. I have known men to vote in four ridings in one day by driving at a high speed all day. There are 20,000,000 electors in this republic, and 200,000 more come to us yearly. We can spare 100,000. At least 50 per cent. of the electors of Canada west of Ontario are ready for political union, so that less than 100,000 Americans acting with them can control the elections in all of the provinces west of Ontario for members of the provincial and Dominion Parliaments. Therefore to Americanize Western Canada is a very simple matter.

"Quebec will act with the Northwest in this matter beyond all question, as well as the majority in many ridings in Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. The vast majority of the electors of Newfoundland are anxious for continental union."

Undoubtedly the scheme proposed is unique and daring. The architect of the plan goes further and avers that it "is lawful, peaceful and honorable." In his enthusiasm he says it would be in accordance with the ideas of Secretary Seward, who gave as one of his reasons for purchasing Alaska the desire "to place British Columbia between two American States, so as to hasten her Americanization and entrance into the Union." Canada would be a delicious tid-bit for Uncle Sam. The prospect of swallowing her sharpens the appetite. The correspondent knows how to please.

But!—

The theorist overlooks Great Britain. Does he expect Great Britain, that voracious gourmand of territory, to sit supinely by while we accomplish the absorption? Does he suppose King Edward's Government will offer us the Bermudas as dessert and then say, "My dear Jonathan, do have another help?"

Over in South Africa there was a country styled the Transvaal Republic. By pouring English subjects into this territory and swamping the Dutch by carrying the elections and controlling the machinery of the Government Great Britain planned to absorb the republic. The war between the Boers and the British is history—and so is the result.

In his address before the Pan-American Congress Secretary Root had the difficult task of saying something that sounded profound and yet was not, of tickling the Latins without exaggerating their virtues, of extolling the supremacy of law without insinuating that revolutions were reprehensible, of walking the verbal tightrope and doing a turn in rhetorical jugglery. That was his task, and the reports of his address indicate that he acquitted himself brilliantly. He dealt in generalities, he dwelt upon ideals and he said the very things calculated to please and cheer. He thus summed up, in the only concrete, specific paragraph of his address, the purpose of the conference:

"According to the programme there is no great, no impressive, single thing to be done by you. No political questions are to be discussed; no controversies are to be settled and no judgment is to be passed upon the conduct of any State; but many subjects are to be considered which afford the possibility of removing the barriers to intercourse and ascertaining, for the common benefit, the advances that have been made by each nation in knowledge, experience, enterprise and the solution of difficult questions of government. You are to deal with the ethical standards of perfecting knowledge of each other; of doing away with misconception and misunderstanding and resultant prejudices."

Up in North America we should call such a function as this a "love feast." A "love feast" Secretary Root apparently hopes to make the Pan-American Conference. And if everybody present follows his lead, they'll all "take sugar in their'n."

"The spectacle of a Congress campaign," says the New York Sun, "mainly directed from the seat of Executive power would be a novelty in American politics. There is nothing in the Constitution, however, which prevents the President of the United States from assuming the entire care and responsibility for the maintenance of his party's majority in the House of Representatives. If other Presidents have not taken upon themselves this extra work it is probably because they have never thought of it, or, thinking of it, have not regarded it as necessary." But what is there in this for cavil? President Roosevelt insists on directing Congress; why should he not direct the election of Congress?

Shot in the back from ambush—Asberry Spicer, one of the chief witnesses against the Hargis gang; only wounded this time, but—well, the old methods are not yet obsolete in Breathitt.

HEART-TO-HEART

Talks With Thirty-eight Youthful Offenders.

JUDGE WILSON CONFRONTED BY UNIQUE PROBLEM.

PECULIAR DEFENSES PRESENTED TO THE COURT.

REMARKABLE EXPLANATIONS.

Thirty-eight heart-to-heart talks with incipient offenders were scheduled for Judge Charles A. Wilson when the Juvenile Court convened yesterday morning. The County Court room, out of which opens the chamber where the sessions of the Juvenile Court are held, was filled with delinquents of tender age, their parents and many probation officers. The small room itself was crowded and hot.

Two boys were taken in to stand beside the Judge. They had admitted taking clothing and smaller articles of more value from traveling bags of guests at a hotel.

"Tell me about it," said the Judge.

One at a time, shamefacedly, they told of their part in the robberies. The stolen property has been recovered. The hotel has agreed to return one of the boys to his former post. The Judge agreed. The other boy, fifteen years of age, and a year younger than his partner, promised to go to school and be good, and he was assigned to report to a probation officer.

A big-eyed, very solemn little negro stood by the Judge, and a large, dangerous looking revolver was laid on the desk. The eight-year-old boy had only "shot it in de ground," and hadn't tried to hit anybody. He got it "outen de drawer" while his parents were away.

"Has your father whipped you for it?" asked the Judge.

"Not yit," was the stolid answer, and the Judge rapped for order.

The boy was found to be usually good. The father and mother got the most of the reprimanding, and were advised to dispose of the weapon at a second-hand store.

* * *

"Angelface" In Trouble.

"I know you pretty well," said the court to the next boy, sixteen years of age and under indictment for harness stealing. "You and I used to be neighbors. I remember the boys used to call you 'Angelface' because you could do underhanded things with such an innocent look that nobody ever suspected you. I am going to give you a chance to start over and to save you from the penitentiary will let you go to the School of Reform. You will stay there until you are twenty-one years of age."

After the session was over several people went to the court and pleaded for clemency for "Angelface." Judge Wilson would not hear of it.

"That boy is almost a hopeless case," he said, "and the only thing for him is the reform school or the penitentiary."

With an afternoon paper under his arm a small newsboy was brought in. He was charged with begging. He had sold the Judge a weekly magazine on the street a day or so before, saying that he had to have a dollar to take home or he would be whipped. He began to tell of other boys who were worse than he—boys who stole, even.

"You are a 'welcher,'" said the court.

The boy was listless and didn't know what it meant. He was talked to about how little better than stealing was begging, and put under probation.

A mother and her twelve-year-old daughter were taken into court. It was the result of proceedings by the father for the custody of the child.

"I stopped work at The Seelbach," the mother said, "because my girl wanted me to stay at home with her. I take in work. Look at my hands, Judge," she said, as she spread work-roughened hands before him.

The mother was told to keep the child and the father was severely reprimanded for his course. He had failed to pay alimony and was ordered to do so.

* * *

Promise Not To Steal Grapes.

Six boys admitted that they had made too free with the vineyard of a neighbor, and that they had used her front porch as a skating rink. They were frank, open-faced boys.

"If I let you go will you promise not to steal any more grapes?" asked the court.

"Yes, sir," came in a chorus.

"And won't skate on the front porch?"

"Yes, sirs" and "No, sirs" were mixed.

"Which?" asked the court.

"No, sir," altogether.

"And will be good boys?"

"Yes, sir," they replied as they filed through the door.

The next boy had a blank look.

"Tell me all about it," said the court as he patted him on the shoulder. The boy couldn't hear well. He was German. His mother repeated the query.

* * *

"Hit Mit Egg."

"Hit a little girl mit an egg in the face," was the somewhat startling response.

He told how he found a puppy that chased a neighbor's hens. He found an egg in the alley one day, and when the several children of the neighbor called him bad names, he threw it at them.

"Did you take a bicycle?" asked the court of a twelve-year-old boy, tow-headed and blue-eyed.

"I made a pair of stilts for him," was the explanation, "to ride the wheel and I didn't take it back." He promised to be good.

One ten-year-old negro boy confessed to a startling scheme he had of stealing bicycles and selling them on the installment plan. The last wheel he took he sold to a white boy for five cents on the first payment, and appointed regular dates to collect more on the sale. He was arrested just as he called at another place to collect payment on a wheel delivered some time ago. The mother said she could do nothing with him, and the court selected the Industrial School for a year, after which the young financier may be given another chance.

KENTUCKIAN MARRIES NEWARK GIRL.

Miss Stoeckel Met Mr. Carpenter While Visiting a Friend In Catlettsburg.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The marriage of Miss Bessie May Stoeckel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Stoeckel, to David Heckman Carpenter, of Catlettsburg, Ky., at the home of the bride's parents, 128 Seymour avenue, here yesterday, was the culmination of a romance which began this spring when the young woman was on a visit to a friend in the Kentucky town. She returned home late in June and announced her engagement. The groom is president of a bank and a merchant in Catlettsburg. Until recently the bride was the soprano soloist in the Clinton avenue Reformed church, and is well known in local musical circles.

The couple left immediately after the ceremony for a visit to Cape May and Atlantic City. They will be at home in Catlettsburg after September 15.

ABATTOIR

On Large Scale Proposed For Louisville.

HEALTHFUL TO PEOPLE AND PROFITABLE TO BUTCHERS.

DANIEL W. LOWENSTEIN AT HEAD OF THE PROJECT.

WILL COST ABOUT $100,000.

Daniel W. Lowenstein, butcher and meat dealer on Jefferson street, near First street, is agitating among the leading butchers of the city a project to erect a modern and commodious abattoir in Louisville. Mr. Lowenstein said yesterday afternoon that he had the project well enough in hand to promise that by the first of next year Louisville's butchers would be killing live stock for the local market in a large slaughter-house of their own. Mr. Lowenstein came to Louisville a year ago from Cincinnati, where he had a large part to do in the erection of the abattoir there and is familiar with the proposition.

Several weeks ago he began a discussion of the question with other butchers of the city, as well as with some of the local packers. He has plans well in hand for the organization of a stock company to build and operate an abattoir which will cost something under $100,000. Stock in the concern will be taken by local meat handlers. The greatest advantage Mr. Lowenstein urges in favor of the project is the saving in the by-products, which now are wasted.

* * *

Stop a Big Leak.

"We will stop this rolling of gold dollars into the Ohio river," he said yesterday.

"I can assure you that the abattoir is to be built. It is bound to come some day, and I have pledges from almost enough butchers and packers to mean the taking of all the stock," he said. "I have prepared estimates on one of the finest plants that can be built. Modern, commodious and sanitary in every respect. I am not up to the hour on the prices of the machinery which will be needed in the utilization of the by-products and so have made rather liberal estimates.

"More than 700 head of cattle are killed in Louisville for the local market every week. With the exception of the number that are killed by the representatives of the trust, the by-products of all these animals are thrown into the Ohio and are wasted. If you allow $2 a head, which is a moderate estimate for the marketable value of the by-products of a beef, you can immediately see what money is wasted in Louisville every year.

"It is purely a commercial enterprise that we are working out. The public slaughter-house must pay. Those butchers who hold stock in the concern will get their beef killed at reduced rates, and fixed charges will be made to those Louisville meat dealers who do not have an interest in the enterprise. I have been assured by a number of the largest butchers and by some of the owners of the packing-houses that they are for it and that they will go in for it. Sanitary and modern methods of handling fresh meats will so commend themselves to the retail dealers that they will be glad to advertise that their meat is killed by the abattoir.

No Government Inspectors Needed.

"Aside from the advantage it will mean to the butchers, it will mean a great deal to the public and to the officials of the Health Department of the city. The killing of beef, hogs, sheep and other live stock will, for the most part, be done in the abattoir. This will mean that the city inspector of meat will be able to see that the product is up to the required standard much more easily than if the slaughter-houses were scattered all over the city, as they are now. No Government inspectors will be needed, because we will not attempt to do an interstate business.

"My plans include the establishment of a concern of several departments, one of the most important of which will be the cold storage and the ice-making department. Meat that can be placed in cold air immediately after killing can be kept in a wholesome condition much more easily. Our ice plant, as I have planned it, will have an output of about 100 tons a day. About half will be used in the handling of the meat as it is killed, and the rest will be sold to the stockholders and members of the company, who will use large quantities at their own stores.

"The by-products of the concern will be an important one, and will be the one that will make the investment a profitable one. Abattoirs in Cincinnati, Nashville, Chattanooga, New Orleans and Evansville have been conducted at a profit from the start. Some of them pay dividends of 35 per cent. The meat industry is one of the few which has been developed to the limit. Every bit of the animal that is killed is turned into commercial products, and at a profit. We will have soap, glue, fertilizing departments and departments to make use of the horn. Casings are large items in the profit side.

Live Stock Center.

"Louisville is one of the live stock centers of the country. Chicago packing houses buy stock here; ship it to their plants, pack it and send it back to the Louisville market to be sold. The same is done by the Cincinnati packing houses. Louisville is going to be a great city, and, instead of depending on other cities for its meat supply, should begin to supply them. I have studied it out, and find no reason why we cannot kill and dress our own meats, to the confusion of the Chicago packers. We are almost ready to make final plans for the organization of the company. Sixty days will see that accomplished, and the first of the year will see the abattoir in operation. As soon as we get organized we will look around for a site for the house."

Mr. Lowenstein is an enthusiast about the future of Louisville. He came here a year ago and liked the looks of the city so well that he brought his family and opened his business. He and his family have been in the meat-packing business for fifty years. He was interested in the establishment of an abattoir at Cincinnati, and is sanguine about the future of his present plans. The proposition to establish a public slaughtering house has been approved by the Health Officers of the city.

ON THE FUNNY BONE.

Souvenirs.

I'm looking o'er the little store
Of trinkets I have had for ages;
But which is what, I have forgot
And blank are all my mental pages.

This dainty fan! Did lovely Ann
Misplace the toy between the dances
While sitting out at some old rout,
Or did I get the thing from Frances?

And here's a rose, but goodness knows
To name the girl I am not able.
Alack-a-day, I cannot say
If it was worn by Maud or Mabel.

This little shoe, a number two—
Is it a souvenir of Flora?
Was it fair Jean's, or Angeline's,
Or did it once belong to Dora?

What winsome dove once wore this glove?
Did I purloin the thing from Jenny,
Or did I steal it from Lucille?
Alas, poor girl, she hadn't many.

This bit of lace! Did pretty Grace
Bestow it on me as a token?
Or did I beg the shred from Meg
Before our tender ties were broken?

These souvenirs bring back the years
When one arrives at life's September.
I have a lot, but which is what,
Or what is which, I can't remember.

More Like Him.

"I wish my husband pictured in a characteristic attitude," sighed the millionaire's widow.

"Then," said the artist, "I'll portray him in the act of signing a check."

"I hardly think that would be the thing. Better portray him in the act of depositing a check."

* * *

Scenery.

"I understand the scenery in Colorado is on a grand scale."

"It is. I saw one liver pill sign which contained 1,800 square feet of pine boarding."

* * *

Woman's Way.

Her enemies she may not like—
She's much as other misses—
But when she chances one to strike
How cordially she kisses!

* * *

Quite Likely.

"In the language of the Eskimo, 'Univlfig ssaerntdluinaleffimajungnarsigujak' means 'I love you.'"

"And I suppose the time required to say it is considered about the right length for an engagement in Arctic circles."

* * *

Her Little Play.

"You know that original Floradora sextet?" inquired the chorus girl.

"Yes," answered the manager wearily. "There wasn't a chanst on earth for me to get into it."

This is what got her, however, a quite desirable engagement.

FINE RECORD

MADE BY THE PORTLAND BRANCH LIBRARY.

In the Seven Months of Its Existence the Patronage Has Grown Wonderfully.

During seven months of existence, the Portland branch of the Louisville Free Public Library, which was opened early in December, has experienced a remarkable growth of patrons and interest of readers. According to the report of the branch for the month of July, which was received by Librarian William F. Yust yesterday, 2,529 books were issued to cardholders, and the attendance at the branch numbered 2,827 for the month. This showing is in spite of the fact that the library was closed three days in the month for cleaning and papering and one day on account of a holiday.

There are now 1,545 registered cardholders at the branch, of which 853, or more than half the number, are children under fourteen years of age. The report of the librarian shows a larger attendance and a larger circulation for July than for June.

The first investigation of the library made since its institution discloses but seven volumes missing from the shelves out of a total of 2,258 books. Of these, three volumes can be accounted for, according to Librarian Yust, leaving but four volumes of which no trace can be obtained. This is considered a remarkable showing, in view of the difficulties experienced at the time the branch was instituted, and the fact that each cardholder has access to every book in the library, owing to the construction of the shelves and the library room, which differs from the main branch of the library in that respect, not permitting cardholders to choose books at will from the shelves of the library. During the time the Portland branch has been opened the total circulation of books has been 22,895, which means that every volume in the library has circulated on an average of ten and one-half times.

WILL BE GIVEN UNTIL MONDAY TO RETURN.

Striking Lithographers' Places Will Be Filled Then By the Employers.

According to the position taken yesterday by two prominent local lithographing establishments affected by the strike of transferers and pressmen, they and the National Association of Employing Lithographers, with which they are affiliated, have severed all relations with the striking workmen, and have given notice that unless the strikers return to work by Monday an open shop will be declared, and they will hire men without regard to their union affiliations. A member of a local firm employing lithographers said last night that he would wait until Monday before taking any steps toward filling the places of the men who had walked out. He did not believe that his business would be crippled for any length of time by the strike, as with competent foremen at high salaries it would be possible to teach the trade to young men in short order.

MISS MARY LINCOLN IN DANGEROUS CONDITION.

Miss Mary Lincoln, who was badly burned Thursday night while trying to extinguish the flames that had enveloped her mother, is in a very critical condition at the home of her uncle, J. J. Keane, at Thirteenth and Main streets, and the attending physician, Dr. C. W. McIntyre, holds out little hope for her recovery. The upper part of her body is one solid mass of burns, and it is thought that blood poison will set in. Mrs. Lincoln, who was saved from possibly fatal injuries by the bravery of her daughter, is greatly improved, and will be entirely recovered in a few days.

LIQUOR LAWS

Not Stringent Enough For Anti-Liquor League.

NICHOLSON BILL HAS PROVEN INADEQUATE TO DEMAND.

SEVERAL SITES OFFERED FOR NEW POST-OFFICE.

THE LAST DAY FOR BIDS.

The Anti-Liquor League of Indiana is maturing plans for having the next State Legislature modify the present liquor laws so that they will be more stringent in some respects. When the Nicholson Bill, which is now the law operated under, was passed, it was supposed to be constructed so that it could not be evaded. This requires the saloons to be closed on Sundays and certain other specified days, and from 11 p. m. to 5 a. m. There is a section that prohibits anyone except a member of the family of the person holding the license being in the saloon during the restricted times, and here is where the present trouble comes in.

J. E. Taggart, president of the Jeffersonville Board of Metropolitan Police Commissioners, has returned from a stay of two weeks at Winona, and he says that while gone he talked with several members of the Anti-Liquor League, and was told that the greatest trouble in enforcing the laws was found in the fact that the section regarding persons being in the saloons at restricted times was being violated. He was told that all over the State the saloons were connected with the residences of those who own them, and in the private apartments liquor is being dealt out on Sundays and other times.

FOR NEW POST-OFFICE.

Seven Pieces of Property Will Be Offered For Sale.

The limit for mailing bids to sell the Government a site for a post-office in Jeffersonville expires this evening, as the proposals will be opened in Washington on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. During the past few days considerable rivalry has developed in securing the site, and it is believed seven bids will be forwarded to-night, as follows:

Northwest corner of Pearl and Market streets, which is owned by John C. Zulauf and others.

Southeast corner of Spring and Market streets, owned by Patrick H. Gavin, German Savings and Loan Association, George H. Voigt, George Kuntz, Capt. J. T. Hopkins and Mrs. Sarah A. Ransom.

Northwest corner of Market and Wall streets, owned by Dr. John Loomis, Dr. Floyd Parks and others.

Northwest corner of Maple and Wall streets, owned by heirs of Frank Weigand and several others.

Southwest corner of Warder Park, Spring street and Court avenue, owned by the city, and in which the heirs of Judge James Read are said to hold a reversionary interest.

Northeast corner of Spring and Park streets, which is owned by a number of persons.

South side of Maple, beginning at the first alley back of Spring, owned by Charles A. Schimpff, Frank Herfel, Mrs. Amanda Wilcoxson and Charles S. Hay.

The amount appropriated to pay for the site is $10,000.

Parole Convict Arrested.

Information reached the Indiana Reformatory in Jeffersonville yesterday that Ora B. Sturgis, a paroled man from the institution, had been arrested at Columbus, Ind., on the charge of larceny. He was known there as William Smith, and was not identified until after his arrest. Sturgis originally came from Lebanon, Hamilton county, on a conviction to the charge of grand larceny. He was received on November 4, 1903, and at that time was but nineteen years old. His record was above the average as an inmate, and when a telegram was received that his mother was dying, Gov. Hanly granted Sturgis a parole for ten days, so that he might go home and be with his mother in her dying hours. At the expiration of the time he disappeared, and has been wanted since April 18, 1905.

Mr. Bare is one of the youngest preachers in the country, and was formerly pastor of the Advent Christian church in Jeffersonville.

COX CLUB

ORGANIZED BY HIS NEW ALBANY SUPPORTERS.

Committees Appointed To Secure Members To Club In the City and County.

Political matters are becoming interesting in New Albany and Floyd county, and the indications are that from now until the election the contest in the congressional race will be particularly exciting. A number of active and prominent Democrats of New Albany have organized the Cox Democratic Club, the object of which is to use concerted action in the interest of William E. Cox, of Jasper, in the congressional race. Officers have been elected as follows: President, Frank Beaucond; vice president, John Darneal; secretary, John Kraft; assistant secretary, John Horn; treasurer, Daniel Walsh. A committee composed of Thomas Hanlon, R. H. Willett and John Tegart was appointed to secure a hall for permanent headquarters and as a meeting place for members. A fund is being raised to meet the necessary expenses of the campaign, and a considerable sum has already been subscribed.

All the wards of the city were represented at the meeting called to effect the organization, and committees were appointed for each precinct of the city and county to secure members to the club. Capt. Thomas Hanlon, who has been for several years one of the most zealous adherents of Mr. Cox, is active in the work of organizing the club, and he says that over 1,000 Democrats of the county have signified their intention of becoming members, and the township auxiliary clubs will be formed as rapidly as possible. It is the intention to organize similar clubs in the other eight counties of the New Albany district. The contest between Mr. Cox and Judge W. T. Zenor, both claiming to have been regularly nominated as the Democratic candidate for Congress, is well known.

As Mr. Candler Sees It.

Congressman Candler, of Mississippi, is among the few Representatives now in the city. He thinks John Sharp Williams will easily be chosen the next United States Senator from his State over Gov. Vardaman, and that on account of the great sentiment for Bryan the Republicans will be forced to renominate Roosevelt in 1908. Mr. Candler in an interview also expressed the decided opinion that Bryan would be his party's nominee and would be elected.

A Distiller's Views.

J. W. McCulloch of Owensboro, one of the largest and best-known of Kentucky distillers, is here. He says that the report of Commissioner Yerkes, showing that the internal revenue receipts have heavily increased, proves that Kentucky has had her full share in the prevailing prosperity. While claiming not to be a politician, Mr. McCulloch told some people in the lobby of the Willard Hotel, where he is stopping, that the sentiment in Kentucky was for Secretary Taft so far as the next Republican nomination for the presidency is concerned.

Investigation Ordered.

Acting on a complaint filed by H. D. Perham, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, Acting Attorney General Russell to-day issued instructions to United States District Attorney Tinsley at Covington, Ky., to make an immediate investigation of charges that the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company has violated the law in the matter of threatening to discharge employes because of their membership in labor unions. District Attorney Tinsley is directed to bring the whole subject before the Federal grand jury in the event that he finds the charges borne out by the facts.

Dismissed From Service.

W. A. Miller, assistant foreman of the bindery of the Government Printing Office, who was suspended by the Public Printer on July 21 for insubordination and insolence, was dismissed from the Government service yesterday. Miller's former suspension in 1903 was the cause of President Roosevelt's order, declaring the Government Printing Office and all offices where workmen are employed by the Government to be open shop.

* * *

Milo Shanks Dismissed.

The Public Printer also dismissed Milo Shanks, foreman of the second typesetting division. The case of Shanks furnished the President another opportunity to again express himself regarding the conduct of the Government printery. Shanks had complained to the President that he had not received fair treatment, and Secretary Loeb wrote Mr. Stillings that inasmuch as he is charged with the administrative details of the office, the President would not interfere with him in his efforts to put the Government Printing Office on an economical and official basis, or in securing proper discipline among the employes. "What the President expects," says Secretary Loeb, "is results, and he will hold you responsible therefor. In the obtaining of the results you will not be interfered with."

MORE MONEY

Through License Tax Than Was Expected.

LEXINGTON INSPECTOR ENCOURAGED BY HIS SUCCESS.

MADDEN CHILDREN SENT TO NEW YORK.

ARE WITH THEIR FATHER.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Lexington's officials are confronted with the curious fact that the license tax collections for the year are already larger than the estimates made by the Council's Ways and Means Committee in planning the public revenue. The total license collections to date amount to $47,415, while the Ways and Means Committee had estimated but $45,000 as the possible collections from this source for the entire year. As there are still five months left of the year the license collections are now expected to aggregate at least $50,000. His success has stirred up the blood of License Inspector O'Reilly and he is now preparing a campaign for collecting the license tax of $10 against each of the local lawyers as soon as many members of the bar return from their vacations. The ordinance imposing this tax was recently upheld by a decision of the Court of Appeals.

He will take up his work at State College with the beginning of the fall term.

Madden Children In New York.

Joseph and Edward, the youthful sons of John E. Madden, the well-known turfman, whose divorced wife recently married L. U. Bell, quietly left Hamburg Place, their father's farm, near this city last Saturday night and proceeded to New York in accordance with orders which they had received from their father. There was much mystery surrounding the departure of the boys. Instead of coming to Lexington, which is within three miles of their home, to take the train, they were taken to Winchester, twenty miles away, in an automobile and boarded the Chesapeake and Ohio train for New York, which left here at 9:20 o'clock. It is supposed that the reason Mr. Madden had in spiriting them away was that he feared his former wife would make an effort to secure possession of them.

Her Condition Critical.

Mrs. Frances Shelton is dangerously ill at the home of her son, George Shelton, on East Third street, suffering from a broken hip. Mrs. Shelton is eighty-two years old, which fact makes her recovery extremely doubtful. She has remained in a stupor the greater part of it to-day, and it is feared that she cannot long survive. Mrs. Shelton, while trying to reach an article in her wardrobe, twisted her ankle and fell to the floor, fracturing her hip bone. Her suffering has been intense.

Visiting His Old Home.

For the first time since he left his boyhood home, more than half a century ago, Lieut. Estes Garrett, of the Lexington police force, left to-day for a visit to West Liberty, Morgan county, Ky., where he was reared. Lieut. Garrett left Morgan county when he was a mere lad, and afterward joined Gen. John H. Morgan's famous command, and served gallantly in the Confederate army throughout the Civil War. When the war was over he came to Lexington, where he has since made his home, and for about thirty years has been one of the best-known and most popular members of the police force. Lieut. Garrett's father built the first brick courthouse in West Liberty, and another member of the family was for many years County Clerk of Morgan county.

Stamp Savings Bank.

The Associated Charities of this city, under Mr. Byall, its new secretary, has inaugurated the stamp savings bank system, which is expected to inculcate principles of thrift and economy among the poor. It is expected to take charge of the dimes and nickels and even the pennies which may be deposited. Each person who desires it is given a card, and a collector, who calls regularly upon the holders of the cards, gives stamps of a denomination corresponding to the amount of money received, and these stamps are pasted on the back of the depositor's card, which thus becomes a bank book.

Negro Stopped Horse.

The parade of the United Brothers of Friendship, the negro organization which is holding its National Grand Lodge meeting here, came near causing a clash this morning between a number of white people and the negroes. As Stanley Frost, secretary of Merrick Lodge, I. O. O. F., of this city, accompanied by a friend, was driving in a buggy on Main street, he came upon the line of paraders marching in the same direction. A negro seized the bridle rein of Mr. Frost's horse and commanded him to halt. Mr. Frost attempted to drive on, but was prevented by the negro. A number of white men went to Mr. Frost's assistance, while the blacks gathered around in a threatening manner. At this juncture Policeman Downing interfered, dispersing the crowd and arresting the negro who had caused the trouble. He was taken to the station, where he gave the name of William Shannon, of Danville, Ky.

File Amended Petition.

O. R. Marshall and others, in their suit against W. J. Loughridge and others, as stockholders in the Southern Mutual Investment Company, in the Circuit Court, to-day filed through their attorneys, C. H. Sheild, B. F. Washer, H. W. Batson and A. M. Baker, an amended petition stating that in the original petition in which they ask to make the original stockholders of the Southern Mutual Investment Company each personally responsible for the indebtedness of the company to the amount of the par value of the stock each held, the statement that Kinzea Stone owned sixteen shares was erroneous, and that he was really the owner of fifty shares. Therefore, in the amended petition the plaintiffs ask that Stone be held liable to the par value of his stock; that is, to the amount of $5,000.

STEEPLECHASE HAD BAD LOOK

All Horses In Jumping Feature At Latonia Run Out But Two.

Wee Lass Proves One of the Best Things of the Long Meeting In the Third.

MUM PROVES A BIG SURPRISE.

LATONIA SELECTIONS.

Fourth Race—Col. Jim Douglas, Miltiades, Nonie Lucille.
Fifth Race—Lens, Zipango, Mildrene.

Seventh Race — Bullfinch, Shining Star, Intense.
The one best bet is Lens, fifth race.

LATONIA, Ky., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The intended feature of to-day's races, a steeplechase over the short course, developed into a farce. It caused many nasty remarks, and may cause official rulings that will put every boy who made a suspicious move in the race on the ground for a long time or the extreme racing penalty—"ruled off." The field was composed of a mediocre bunch of "leppers," to say the least. All of the horses except two took the wrong course at the second jump, and practically left the race to the heavily-backed Jim Bozeman. The race had a bad look, inasmuch as the erratic Jim Bozeman was allowed to go to the front going to the first jump, while every other horse was eased up. Then, too, the paddock judge laid a complaint against Garic, who rode Byrne of Rosecrae, as practically responsible for the trouble. The patrol judge said that, in his best judgment, the boy made no effort to stop his horse from running out nor from carrying the others with him. Subador, a very clever performer and one that has never been known to leave the course, was the first offender, and the balance followed as one horse, save Ohio King, which was twenty lengths away. The most profound demonstration was exhibited as the riders rode back to the judges' stand, each and everyone of whom was greeted with hisses and jeered as they dismounted. The judges, too, were hissed, but this was unwarranted, as, whether the race was "framed" or not, the officials took prompt action in the matter and had every boy on the carpet. While no official ruling was handed out, a "silent" investigation is still in progress.

Apart from the jumping race, the day was full of surrpises, the most noted of which was the victory of Wee Lass in the third, which was carded as the day's feature on the flat. The Hall & Marshall trick was played to the exclusion of the balance of the field by a select coterie. The smart filly was backed from 4s to 2s. There was no semblance of a contest to the race, Wee Lass towroping her field all the way and winning by five lengths. After the race Judge McFarlan had the filly's owner on the carpet, regarding which nothing official was announced.

Another surprise was sprung when Mum, at 25 to 1, took the measure of the odds-on choice Elastic. The latter was backed for thousands of dollars, and his defeat by the Smith trick was a sad blow to the talent and wise fish alike.

* * *

Chase Played the Fox.

The opening race of the day saw Scott Hudson put over Chase, his Futurity eligible, who has been knocking at the door for sometime. The conditions of the race allowed the Hudson trick in with 107 pounds, and, with T. Taylor to pilot him, proved a real good thing. Hudson took no pains to conceal the fact that this was the right spot to send in his checks on the speedy son of Kantaka and Rochelle and accordingly unloaded, with the consequence that the colt's price was forced down from 4s to 18 to 5. Breaking with the first division, the colt showed marked improved form, and, racing into a long lead in the first quarter, opened up such a commanding lead that the balance of the field was dizzy trying to overhaul him, winning with his head pulled sideways by four lengths. Alta McDonald, which was played for another good thing and which had the services of Nicol, overcame a lot of interference and closed strong, while Gabble, which was uncorked for a real good thing several weeks ago just managed to last long enough to get the short end.

Mum Knocked 'Em Speechless.

The second, at six furlongs, saw the talent go down with a dull and sickening thud. In this Elastic, which had the services of Nicol, was supposed to be the real jam and was heavily supported by both talent and wise paddock contingent alike. They figured the Corrigan trick as good as in. With the exception of Martius, which was supposed to be due to-day, the balance of the field went practically unbacked. Mum, which usually bobs up on these occasions and annexes a purse for her Lexington owners, turned the trick, and, what is more, with the lucrative odds of 25 to 1 against her. The Smith speed wonder as usual flashed to the front with the rise of the barrier and, opening up a big gap, turned for home with two lengths to the good. In the final drive she managed to last just long enough to snatch the long end from Elastic, which closed fast at the end and would have won in another stride. Frank Bill ran in suddenly improved form and, racing down Martius in the run home, dropped into the three hole with comparative ease. Nicol was criticised for his laxness in not keeping his mount closer up in the early stages, and there seemed some justification for this as there is hardly a question but what, the same way weighted, the Corrigan horse can go out to-morrow and give Mum a most decisive beating.

Wee Lass Proves Fast Miss.

The third, which was a condition affair at seven furlongs, was productive of the keenest upset of the afternoon and, incidentally, the means of a coup of considerable proportions. Wee Lass, which was dropped into the race with a feather of 88 pounds, was the trick that brought home the coonskins for a select coterie. The Hall & Marshall trick opened as good as 8 to 1, but there was very little money taken in on her at that figure, probably due to the fact that there were so many overanxious to get aboard that it drew the conclusion from the layers that someone was "in the can." Devout, although packing top weight, looked to be the logical favorite. Although the Dunne trick opend the public choice, the odds about him gradually receded until it was practically a case of write your own ticket. Kay Spence got aboard his good horse Matador at the fancy price of 30, 10, 5, sending into the ring a good, stiff commission for the place and show. Old Stone, too, was fancied, the price about the Goldblatt horse being hammered down a couple of points right at post call. The running of the race proved a joke. Wee Lass broke on her toes and, flashing into the lead, increased it with every stride until, rounding the far turn, she was fully eight lengths to the good, with Matador the runner up and the balance of the field well bunched. Preston, seeing that he had the race at his mercy, eased Wee Lass up through the final furlong. He was, however, five lengths to the good at the end. Matador, under a grueling drive at the hands of Nicol, lasted long enough to get the place from Old Stone, which closed very fast.

* * *

Ear Marks of Crooked Race.

The fourth, a steeplechase over the short course, proved a most disgraceful affair and illustrated to the rawest recruit to what lengths the "suicide club" will go to get "theirs." In this, the ring and outside poolrooms bore evidence of the fact that Jim Bozeman was the "nominee" for the race, the odds about the Noble trick being forced from 5s to 5 to 2. While this was done in the local ring, it was not a marker to what the "club" unloaded in the neighboring poolrooms.

The field "monkeyed" with the start until they forced the "nominee" to get off flying, and all taken back going to the first jump allowed the erratic "lepper" to sail along in front. Going to the second jump Subador, a well-known front runner and a horse also known to be fit to run the race of his life, took to the high brush, while the balance of the field took after him, with the exception of Ohio King, which was trailing last. This left only two horses in the course, and they went on and finished without any semblance of contest, Jim Bozeman winning as his rider pleased. The race had such a bad look that after the finish the vast throng in attendance hissed the riders roundly as they dismounted. In view of what was pulled off by the manipulators of this race, it is rumored that Judge MacFarlan will take drastic action.

St. Paris Wins Long Race.

The fifth, which was a long-distance affair over the one and one-eighth miles journey, brought out a fair field of "routers," of which St. Paris, on his previous good races, when he showed steady improvement, and with Nicol up to-day, always received the call. The Gadfly was the next in demand, but the Booker front, shaking off Frival and The Laurel odds about the latter receding from 3s to 9 to 2. Morendo found some paddock support, the odds about the latter being forced from 5s to 4s. With the drop of the flag Nicol took the track, and, making every post a winning one, sailed along in front, he shook off Frivol and The Laurel in the turn, and easily standing off the determined challenge of The Gadfly in the run home, won with lots to spare by two lengths. The Gadfly, under keen urging all of the final furlong, was an easy second, while Bernie Cramer came with an electric stretch rattle, dropping into the short end.

Postman Arrives In Time.

The string of surprises continued in the sixth, which was a cheap selling affair at one mile, and brought out nine shifty platers to the post. Marshal Ney, who was left at the post his last time out, was played for a real good thing. The big bettors, who had suffered considerable losses during the afternoon, strung to Nicol and Marshal Ney as the means of getting out, but the unexpected turned up in old Postman, which, under a very clever ride at the hands of Ted Robinson, managed to lost long enough to annex the long end. Lacene took the track when the barrier was released and essayed to make a runaway race of it. Going down the back stretch this one seemed in a fair way of winning, but rounding the far turn there was a general closing up, and, tiring in the run home, coupled with a very weak ride at the hands of Oregar, Lacene stopped badly. When Lacene chucked it up Postman took up the running, and racing into a comfortable lead entering the final furlong, won in a mild drive from Marshal Ney. The latter was a trifle slow to begin, but closed strong under a vigorous ride. Dudley was third.

When Josie's Jewel, the heavily-backed favorite, was left at the post in the closing race of the day, it seemed to be the fitting climax of one of those days of sport that leave a bad avor in the mouths of talent and wise set alike. Thrown in with but 88 pounds, the Newman filly seemed to be so much the best that stable connections and talent set in the works in the hope of retrieving previous losses. Uncle Henry, favored by having Nicol in the pilot house, was next in demand. When the start came Josie's Jewel was left standing sideways, while Uncle Henry was off well in motion. The latter trick showed the way right to the final furlong, where he hung out the signal of distress, and, although responding gamely to keen urging, was passed out in the final stride, being beaten a scant nose on the wire by Docile, a despised outsider, about which 10 to 1 was freely quoted. Amberita came from a long way back in the stretch to annex the short end. Josie's Jewel probably ran the best race of the party, and with an equal break would have won.

Chase ran as if much the best and led unextended all the way, winning with much in reserve. Alta McDonald, well ridden, came from a long way back, after saving ground into stretch, and finished going strongly. Gabble was close up all the way, and better handled would have been second. Bon Vivant ran a good race and went wide all the way. Arguer closed up a god gap and will improve. Bitter Anne ran a winning race and had to overcome a lot of interference.

547—SECOND RACE—Six furlongs; purse $400; for three-year-olds and upward; selling. Start bad. Won driving; second and third same. Winner, W. A. Smith's ch. f., 4, by Freemason—Miss Boaz; trained by owner. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :24 2-5, :48 1-5, 1:14 3-5.

Mum showed sudden improved form and, running into a long lead from the start, held others safe in final drive. Elastic ran forwardly from the start and finished going fast; would have won in another stride. Frank Bill ran a good race for him and held on well in final drive. Martius was away in a tangle and closed up a big gap. Terns Rod ran a bad race and can do much better.

548—THIRD RACE—Seven furlongs; purse $500; for three-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; second and third driving. Winner, Hall & Marshall's ch. f., 3, by Albert—Scotch Lassie; trained by L. Hall. Value to winner, $400. Fractional time: :24, :47 4-5, 1:13 4-5, 1:27.

......	Chief Milliken	100	6	2..½	2.1¼	4...h	7	7	Perkins	30-1	50-1	20-1

The winner ran as if best and tiptoed the field all the way, winning eased to a canter near end. Matador ran in much improved form and stood a hard drive gamely. Old Stone, badly handled, closed up a good gap from a poor beginning and finished going strongly. Granada was well up for the first half and hung on well in final drive. White Plume would not extend herself fully. Devout ran a poor race and can do much better. Chief Milliken showed a lot of speed and will about win in the mud, which he favors.

549—FOURTH RACE—Steeplechase; short course. Purse $400. For three-year-olds and up; handicap. Start bad; won easily; second and third driving. Winner, L. Noble's b. g. a., by Major Ban—Bessie. Trained by C. Nolte. Value to winner, $300. Time: 3:04 4-5.

......	Byrne of Roscrea	128	3	Ran out					Garic	12-1	6-1	2-1

Jim Bozeman had slight opposition after Subador, Profitable, Billy Wake and Byrne of Roscrea ran out. Jim Bozeman showed good speed and won all the way. Ohio King was hard restrained all the way and seemingly could have passed Bozeman at will had his rider so elected. He made a feeble effort at driving hard in the stretch run when Jim Bozeman had the race safely won. Subador and Profitable were taken back into the course; the former was best, but overconfidence forced him to be driven out at the end for third place.

550—FIFTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse $400. For four-year-olds and up; selling. Start good; won easily; second and third driving. Winner, A. L. Kirby & Co.'s br. h., 5, by Hindoo—Sappho. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :24 2-5, :48 3-5, 1:15, 1:41 3-5, 1:54 2-5.

St. Paris ran as if best and tiptoed the others all the way, winning eased up to a canter in the final furlong. The Gadfly had no mishaps and finished going fast from a slow beginning. Bernie Cramer, badly handled, ran a good race, and, better handled, would have been much closer up. The Laurel tired after going a half and can do better. Labor and Dr. Hart ran dull races. Morendo closed up a fair gap. Frivol broke down.

551—SIXTH RACE—One mile; purse $400; for three-year-olds and up; selling. Start good. Won driving; second and third same. Winner, K. G. Baldwin & Co.'s ch. g., a., Fenelon—Elora. Trained by W. P. Reardon. Value to winner $300. Time, :24 3-5, :49 1-5, 1:15 1-5, 1:41 2-5.

Docile, lucky all the way, ran to his best form, and after saving ground into the stretch outlasted Uncle Henry. The latter had no mishaps, was clear of interference all the way, and but for bearing out through the stretch would have won. Amberita had a rough trip and finished fast. Josie's Jewel closed up big gap from a poor beginning and finished fast. Bitter Brown was almost thrown down several times and ran a good race. Banposal had scant chance with the interference and can do better.

Louisville Jockey Who Is Making Good In East

CHARLIE KOERNER.

Koerner is nineteen years old, and weighs 95 pounds. He is under contract to Wayne Joplin, of Elizabethtown, Ky. Joplin recently leased his services to Harry Payne Whitney, for whom he will have all light-weight mounts this season. Koerner has a brother Theodore, who is an apprentice boy this season, who promises to make good. Koerner is a brother-in-law to the local restaurateur, Henry Hackmann. His good ride in landing Coy Maid, a long shot, winner in the Test Handicap at Brighton Beach last week brought him into the limelight with Eastern racegoers.

HARRY PULLIAM WILL NOT BE A MAGNATE.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—President Harry Pulliam, of the National League, came here to-day hopeful of being able to purchase the Boston National League club. After a conference with the owners he announced that the price they demanded, although reasonable, in his estimation, was in excess of what he could pay, and that he has, therefore relinquished all intention of becoming a baseball magnate in this city.

SWIMMING CONTEST.

Missouri Athletic Offers $250 Trophy For Amateurs.

Through the efforts of Mr. John C. Meyers, a swimmer of national reputation, the West and St. Louis in particular, is rapidly coming to the front as the home of good swimmers. He now invites swimmers from every part of the country to take part in a ten-mile endurance swim in the Mississippi river August 25 for a $250 trophy and other valuable prizes.

To encourage all ordinary swimmers to enter, the event is a handicap one. It is said that a good swimmer can negotiate the distance in two hours and a half, being assisted by the current of the river. Entry blanks and other information regarding this swim, open to amateurs only, may be had from Mr. John C. Meyers, of the Missouri Athletic Club, St. Louis.

If more than that number are listed, however, a qualifying round will be played.

THE BRONCHO SETS NEW MARKS

Little Racing Mare Breaks Three World's Records at Glenville Track.

WINS FREE-FOR-ALL PACE.

Takes Every Heat In Such Hollow Style That Race Looks Like a Parade.

RESULTS OF OTHER EVENTS.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Getaway day at the Glenville track was a memorable one in the trotting horse world. The programme consisted of three events, the Merchants and Manufacturers' Consolation, the 2:19 Class Pacing and the Free-for-all Pace. Three world's records were shattered by that fleet-foot pacer, The Broncho. This little daughter of Stormcliffe, who was recently purchased by Rochon & Doble, of Winnipeg, for $10,000, won the three heats of the free-for-all pace in 2:03, 2:03¼ and 2:03¾, thereby breaking the world's record for three consecutive heats by a quarter of a second, the world's record for pacing mares in a race and the world's record for the fastest third in a race. Both owners were present to see the mare go, and they were the happiest horsemen at the track. Charley Dean, The Broncho's driver, took her away fast and in each heat was so far ahead of the other four starters that it looked like a parade.

In the Merchants and Manufacturers' Consolation Czarina Dawson won in straight heats, never being headed during the race.

Vance Nuckols with W. P. Murphy's Italia won the 2:19 Class Pacing in straight heats from a field of eight. Summaries:

HART TO FIGHT SCHRECK THIS MONTH.

TERRE HAUTE, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Like Cincinnatus, Marvin Hart has been called from the plow, and will meet Mike Schreck in this city for ten rounds, Marquis of Queensberry rules, at some date the latter part of this month.

Following the departure of Jack O'Brien for Europe, who had about closed a deal with local boxing promoters to fight Schreck, Marvin Hart accepted the same terms offered O'Brien. Hart notified the club to-day, and the match is on.

WISE FISH WIN ON ANGLER

Jack Odom's Horse Captures Brighton Beach Feature In Handy Style.

SIXTH CONSECUTIVE WIN.

Bad Spill In Closing Event In Which Jockey Walsh Sustains Broken Collar Bone.

ACCOUNTANT FOR THE DERBY.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Three favorites, a third choice and two long shots divided the money at Brighton Beach to-day. The track was still heavy.

The mile and an eighth handicap, fourth on the card, served as the feature of the afternoon. The many withdrawals reduced it to a four-horse event. It went to the favorite, around which a stiff play was made at odds of 9 to 5. The race signalized the sixth straight win for the consistent Angler, which is a cast-off from the stable of Woodford Clay. The horse belongs to the father of Jockey Odom. Sailor Boy, at 8 to 1, nipped second position from Corrigan, the well-backed second choice in the betting, at 2 to 1. Garnish was the only other starter and ran far below his work.

The smart set was treated to a severe jolt in the third event, when Sonoma Belle, a 15 to 1 shot, took the measure of the favorite, Tyron, heavily backed to 8 to 5. Little Scout, at 6 to 1 in the betting, managed to secure the show money.

Belle of Pequest, which was scratched from the main event, captured the fifth, which was at a mile. The price against her was 9 to 5. The Clown and Mollie Donohue finished in the money in the order named.

Eight promising two-year-olds went the five and a half furlongs route in the second race. The winner turned up in Botanist, against whom the books laid 4 to 1. Laura A., at the even better price of 7 to 1, with Koerner, the Louisville boy, up, took the place from the heavily-played favorite, Fantastic.

Sally K. and Thomas Hoy fell soon after the start in the last race. J. J. Walsh, who rode Thomas Hoy, had his collarbone broken and Sewell was unhurt.

Breckinridge Castleman, president of the new Douglas Park track at Louisville, was at Brighton to-day.

William Murray has been re-engaged as starter for the week's racing at Hamilton, Ont., which commences on September 25.

Jockey L. Smith has been set down for the remainder of the meeting by Starter Dade.

It was rumored that the running of the two-year-old George S. Davis in Wednesday's Sunshine Stakes is receiving official attention. The Sombrero colt's extremely bad race was, it is alleged, anticipated in the stewards' stand.

Billy Garth shipped two carloads of horses to his farm in Virginia to rest up during the Saratoga meeting. He will come back for the local fall meetings.

"My horses are for sale to anyone who wants to pay the price," said Alex Shields in the paddock at Brighton to-day. "That is not saying that I am going to race abroad, but simply that I have good horses and that there is a price on each and every one of them. I think I have the best distance horse in training in Go Between and the best sprinter in Halifax. Go Between will carry any weight and run as far as horses are asked to go these days. Halifax worked so fast for me that I am convinced he is absolutely the fastest horse in the world. Prices? Well, no one has tried to buy either of them, but if they pass out of my possession I will be worth $50,000 more than I am now. Go Between is worth $30,000 and the little horse two-thirds of that amount."

Accountant is the tip for the Brighton Derby to-morrow. The clockers and rail-birds who have had a close eye on the Brady colt claim he is a "spread" for the Derby to-morrw. Summaries:

DEAD HEAT AT FORT ERIE.

Judges Unable To Separate Chanida and Dolinda.

Fort Erie, Can., Aug. 3.—The feature race, a long-distance affair at a mile and a half, resulted in the first dead heat of the season on the Canadian circuit. It had a big crowd of racegoers on tiptoe all through the stretch run, when Hogg, on Chanida, and H. Jackson, on Dolinda, were putting up a terrific battle, such as has seldom been seen here. They passed the imaginary wire hooked together and the crowd began to yell "dead heat." The judges were unable to separate them. George Vivian, second choice in the betting, was given third money.

The second race, five-eighths of a mile for a fairly good bunch of two-year-olds, proved an exciting finish, when Miss Martha nosed out the favorite, Bath Maria. Pedro, a consistent colt, got the feed end of the purse. In the running Bath Maria and Miss Martha set all the pace, with Lady Bateman, a long shot, close up. The latter weakened, however, in the stretch, Pedro catching her in the last few strides.

Grace Curtis, in the opening event at six furlongs, led all the way, barely lasting long enough to stall off Fire Fang, second, and Lady Carol, third. It was a beautiful finish, with the three horses necks apart. Lady Kispar was a contender at all stages. Summaries:

NEW PITCHER FOR COLONELS

George Tebeau Accepts the Terms of Elmer Duggan, Who Is Now At Nashville—Said To Be Good Twirler.

IT is very probable that a new pitcher—and a most promising youngster—will soon be wearing a Louisville uniform. Elmer Duggan is the twirler whom Owner George Tebeau is now trying to get. He recently accepted Duggan's terms, and wired Secretary Farrell to that effect, but lost sight of the twirler and has just learned that he is now pitching for the Nashville team in the Southern League.

Duggan has had a real experience this season. He was with the Fort Wayne team when that league quit business. He wrote to Tebeau for a place on the Louisville line up and his terms were accepted. That was the last heard of him until the news came that he was in Nashville. Duggan was wanted by several of the Southern League teams, and for a while pitched in Atlanta. Then he was awarded to Mike Finn, manager for Nashville, and went to that city.

Owner Tebeau, of the Louisville team, was asked if the report that he was after Duggan was true. He was not inclined to discuss the matter at first, but finally admitted that he had accepted Duggan's terms and had notified Secretary Farrell to that effect. Asked if he would try to secure Duggan for Louisville he said:

"I accepted his terms, and my understanding is that he belongs to Louisville. Doesn't that answer you?"

Harvard Crew In England.

Queenstown, Aug. 3.—The Harvard eight-oared crew, which is to row Cambridge University in The Thames September 8, arrived here to-night on the White Star Line steamer Cedric. The men enjoyed the trip over and exercised on board ship as much as possible. They are in splendid health.

Asked what they thought of their prospects of success in the forthcoming race, they declared they would not have crossed the ocean if they did not expect to make some showing. They knew, however, that they had to meet some of the world's most famous oarsmen, but hope for the best.

OPEN SATURDAYS UNTIL 10 O'CLOCK.

Trousers to Order
"99c a leg" $1.98 a pair
Or Better - $2.60 a pair

What are you going to buy this Saturday, readymade markdowns of doubtful age and less certain fit, or get your clothes made to order and pay no more than "good" readymade would cost?

Instance these trouserings—remnants and short ends but of good grades and good patterns. Any other tailor would get double or more, any clothier as much or more—and between guess-fits and made-to-measure there's only one sensible choice.

Light, medium and heavy weights—patterns for all needs, including blacks and blues—good assortment but not an unlimited quantity. Better buy now.

Following our custom of past Trousers Sales, we will make and present a pair of these trousers free with every order for a suit at $15 or over, provided only that the suit be not of staple black or blue goods.

SCHEDULE OF SATURDAY AFTERNOON LEAGUE.

At the last regular meeting the resignation of the Fetter team was accepted and arrangements were made with the Bryant & Stratton team, one of the strongest independent teams in the city, to take their place. It is unfortunate that Bryant & Stratton will be compelled to shoulder the standing of the Fetter team, as they doubtless would have made a strong bid for the pennant had they entered at the beginning of the season. The team is under the management of Mr. Dehart, who is determined to win the majority of his games in order that his team will find a place near the top at the close of the season.

At Dusty Rhodes Park the Equitable Life Insurance Company and Bryant & Stratton will line up this afternoon. Dougherty will twirl for the insurance men and the college boys will be represented by Dehart.

Y. M. H. A. and Bradley & Gilbert Company will contest at High School Park. The only defeat suffered this season by the leaders was at the hands of the Y. M. H. A., and they will make a strenuous effort to wipe out the stain. It is expected that Barrett, the printers' crack twirler, who has been out of the game for some time, will be in the box to-day. Y. M. H. A. will be ably represented in the box by Graham, their premier twirler.

At Morning Star grounds Robinson, Norton & Co. and Y. M. C. A. will cross bats. The Tigers are making a strong bid for the pennant and will present their strongest line up to oppose the Association boys. Big Eggers will appear on the slab for them. E. B. Jenkins, the speedy twirler for the Y. M. C. A., will represent them.

The game between Mother's Bread and the Courier-Journal Job Printing Company at Reccius Park will doubtless prove a very interesting contest. Since the reorganization of the Courier team they have been playing championship ball and on form should make the bakers extend themselves to win. With Hikes in the box Mother's Bread are predicting a victory. Goodman will doubtless twirl for the Courier-Journal team.

Sutcliffe and Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. will clash at Reccius Park. The sporting goods men will be greatly strengthened by the return of their star twirler, Chief Leathers, and the addition of Hannigan at third, recently returned from I. I. I. League. Mathis, the insurance men's best pitcher, will be on the slab for them.

Following is the standing of the clubs:

BREWERS TAKE SECOND GAME

They Get Decision, Despite a Fine Finish By the Colonels.

WIN BY A SCORE OF 8 TO 6.

Stecher and Elliott Both Hit Hard At Times When Swats Meant Runs.

DOUGHERTY VERY EFFECTIVE.

ALTHOUGH the Louisville Colonels made a grand rally in the ninth inning of yesterday's game at Eclipse Park, the decision went to the visiting Brewers by a score of 8 to 6. There were just two good reasons for Louisville's loss of this game — lack of pitching and lack of stickwork when hits were needed. And it might also be added that Perry Werden gave about as rank an exhibition of umpiring as has happened here this season. A fair ball from Quinlan's bat he called a foul, and balls over Louisville batters' heads, in frequent instances, were strikes according to his pigeon-toed dope.

Half a dozen good chances to score were thrown away by the Colonels. One time, when Kenna was on third, a high bounder was hit to the pitcher. Dougherty could not get it in time to catch Stecher running from home to first, but he did grab it soon enough to throw to Roth and catch Kenna at the plate when a little sliding would have hung up another run for Louisville. It was a combination of hard-luck circumstances and bad plays on the part of some of the Colonels, for their errors contributed to a considerable extent in giving Milwaukee the decision.

Yesterday was ladies' day, and there was a splendid throng of spectators at the park. The Colonels started right, for Billy Hallman got over the plate in safety after the Brewers had been blanked. But Joe Cantillion worked the combination in the second. Two of the Brewers trekked into Countingville, and three more pairs of runs were added in the fifth, the seventh and the eighth.

With the score 8 to 1 in the eighth, Hallman tripled to right field, and came home after two were down on Stovall's infield hit. But they touched off the fireworks in the ninth. Larry Quinlan led off with a neat single. Kerwin went in to bat for Elliott and flied out to Green. Hallman walked, and Woodruff hit for three sacks, scoring Quinlan and Hallman. Sullivan doubled and Woodruff scored, and Sully came home when Stovall placed one in safe ground in right. This ended the run-getting, as Kenna flied out to McChesney in center, retiring the side and leaving the score 8 to 6.

The Brewers hit Stecher opportunely, and he was retired in the sixth, Elliott going in the box. But the Brewers continued to pile up the runs with disheartening regularity. Dougherty was on the firing line for the visitors and, while the Colonels hit him with nobody on bases, they could not connect with his slants and benders when even a single would have meant one run or more.

There will be a double-header this afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. This will be Milwaukee's last visit to Louisville this season, and it looks like it will be a fight to a finish at Eclipse Park to-day. The score:

"Heine" Krahrer, of the Cherokees, who has played in seven games here this season, has won the admiration of the local fans for his fairness and gentlemanly conduct on all occasions.

TWO SENSATIONS IN BASEBALL.

Rumors That Magnates of American Association Will Split and Form New Circuit.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Are the magnates of the American Association preparing for a split and a general reorganization of the circuit? The trend of events the past few days leads to that conclusion. In response to a telegram from Joe Cantillion, manager of the Milwaukee team of the American Association and president of the Des Moines Club, Mike Cantillion, manager of the Champions, went to Chicago and attended the important meeting of the American Association magnates Wednesday. At the rate organized baseball is growing and expanding stranger things have happened than Denver becoming a part and parcel of the American Association circuit. Denver is clamoring for this recognition and as long as George Tebeau now has two clubs in the American Association he might as well add another. Des Moines' claim to this recognition is quickly stated. The attendance at its ball games warrants it and the team the Cantillions put there this and last year are the class. This would counteract any similar move on the part of the Watkins faction in the Association.

"Cy" Seymour Refuses To Play With Giants Until Part of His Purchase Money Is Paid Him.

New York, Aug. 3.—"Cy" Seymour, the center fielder for whose release the New York National League Club paid $10,000 recently to the Cincinnati Club and who has been playing with the local team for some time, refused to don a uniform here to-day in the game at the Polo grounds. Seymour claims that he is entitled to a share of the money paid by New York's management to Cincinnati for his release and until this is done he says he will not play any longer with the New Yorks nor with any other club. The management of the local club cannot do anything in the case, as they have nothing to say as to what arrangement or agreement the player may have made with the Cincinnati management.

Seymour says he has nothing to complain of so far as the New York Club is concerned and he has repeated this statement to President John T. Brush. At the same time he refused to put on a uniform and walked out of the grounds just as the game began. The local club is chagrined at the loss of Seymour's services just on the eve of the series with Chicago, which begins here to-morrow.

BARBERS COMPLYING READILY WITH LAW.

John Young, a member of the State Board of Barber Examiners, returned to Louisville yesterday from a trip with the other members of the board through the western section of the State. He reports that barbers throughout the State have manifested much interest in the work, and the majority of them who did not have licenses have taken them out. Monday the board will start on a tour of the eastern part of the State, and a week will be spent in examinations, which will practically wind up the work.

SHAM BATTLES AT THREE CAMPS

PRACTICAL EXERCISES AT FORT BENJAMIN HARRISON.

GEN. CARTER IN CHARGE OF THE MANEUVERS.

BIG CROWDS SEE BATTLES.

Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 3.—The practical exercises in connection with the camp of instruction began to-day. The exercises to-day were not of a pretentious nature.

The Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth infantry, and the Fourth infantry and a squadron of cavalry took part in the maneuvers to-day. The opposing forces were styled "blue" and "brown" army. Staff officers went with each to act as instructors. Each army established outposts and moved toward each other, presumably to engage in battle, and seeking to get a more advantageous position. Ninety rounds of ammunition was carried by each man. The maneuvers were excellently executed, the umpires, however, withholding their decision as to which side won. Brig. Gen. Carter, in command at Fort Benjamin Harrison, directed the maneuvers.

Brig. Gen. C. F. Humphrey, Quartermaster General of the United States army, and Brig. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, Chief of Staff, are here to inspect the camp. Both officers come from the West, where they have been inspecting Fort Leavenworth and Fort Riley. It is thought they will finish their work to-morrow, when they will leave for Washington. The Michigan National Guard will arrive to-morrow, and will rest Sunday.

Mimic Warfare.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 3.—The battle between the "Blues and Browns" at the Chickamauga National Military Park encampment began with the earliest dawn. Each "army" was composed of two regiments of infantry, half a regiment of cavalry and a battery of field artillery, and the fighting has been hot. To the Blues, under Col. Chase, of the Twelfth cavalry, was assigned the duty of holding historic Snodgrass Hill, the focal point in the second day's great battle in 1863. The firing was also to develop the enemy in its front. The Browns, under Col. Van Orstrand, of the Seventeenth United States Infantry, were in the assaulting company which was to advance and attack with modern methods, not in a charge, but in open order, with a firing line in front. An artillery duel was a natural accompaniment.

Large crowds saw the battle, which was a spectacular affair, as the movements of the troops could be followed in the open space where farms once were. The umpire will announce the result before the departure of the militia, which takes place to-morrow after they have been paid off.

At Camp Mabry.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 3.—The greater part of this morning at Camp Mabry was given over to a mimic war between the infantry forces on a plain immediately to the west of the grounds and the edge of the mountains, where part of the force was permitted to be driven back after a time into the mountain fastness, where they made a successful stand, repelling the forces from the plain. The entire cavalry squadron had a drill at 11 o'clock this morning. There were an unusually large number of visitors in camp to-day to see the drills and maneuvers.

Band concerts and baseball games represented much of the afternoon programme at Camp Mabry to-day. A considerable number of the camp reserve was called into action to-day to prepare for the coming of the State Volunteer Guard to-morrow. It is expected that the larger part of the State Volunteer Guard, 3,000 strong, will be in camp by Sunday morning, and with them will be the troops from Louisiana and New Mexico. This will likely complete the personnel of the troops, both volunteer and regular.

The work of the field telegraph during to-day's maneuvers was quite successful.

The church may be reached by taking the Floyd and N street cars out Second street to the Southern railway crossing, where they will connect with cars direct to the church; by the Louisville and Nashville train leaving the Tenth street and Broadway station at 8:10 a. m., and by the Fourth avenue park cars, via Third avenue to Beechmont, where conveyances will be in waiting at 9 and 9:30 o'clock.

ROUTE OF PARADE

ANNOUNCED BY LABOR DAY COMMITTEE.

Congressman A. O. Stanley Will Be Invited To Deliver Oration On Labor Day.

At a meeting of the Labor Day Committee of the Louisville Federation of Labor last night, Chief Marshal Frederick Rush, of the Leatherworkers' Union, made a report on the proposed route of the Labor day parade, which was accepted and the route adopted. The parade will form at the Haymarket, at Floyd and Jefferson streets, promptly at 11 a. m., and will proceed westerly along Jefferson street to Eighth, thence north to Market street and east to First street, thence north to Main street and west to Tenth street, where it will disband. All of the local unions are requested to report to Chief Marshal Rush on the morning of the parade.

The committee at the meeting last night voted to extend invitations to the Hon. A. O. Stanley, of Henderson, Congressman from the Second district, and to James M. Lynch, of Indianapolis, president of the International Typographical Union, to deliver the Labor-day addresses at Fontaine Ferry Park in the afternoon. It was also decided at the regular meeting of the committee, which will be held next Friday night, to form subcommittees for the purpose of visiting the various local unions in the interests of the Labor day parade.

From all indications, the committee believes that Labor day will see the greatest demonstration of its kind ever held in Louisville.

SOUTHERN BOYS ARE DEGENERATING.

Cigarettes, Late Hours and Other Bad Habits Responsible, Says Army Officer.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 3.—First Lieut. William E. Bennett, Twenty-fifth Infantry, U. S. A., in charge of the local recruiting office, sounds a note of warning to the boys and young men of New Orleans and other Southern cities, the occasion for this being the fact that out of a total of 106 applicants during July only twenty-nine men were found physically fit to enter the army. According to Lieut. Bennett's observations out of the same number of applicants in any of the new States west of the Mississippi river or in Ohio, Indiana or Kentucky, the number of enlistments out of so many applications would have been as high as 60 or 80. The reason for such an unsatisfactory condition in the South is ascribed by the officer to cigarette smoking, late hours and other bad habits.

Lieut. Bennett said "The bad habits of the boys of to-day are responsible for this order of things. I never saw so many cigarette smokers. Late hours, cigarettes and other bad habits stunt them. They are under weight or under size, sometimes under both. The regulations provide that a recruit shall not be less than five feet four inches tall, and with that height weigh not less than 128 pounds. It would seem that almost anybody ought to get past that, but they don't."

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT HIS COMPANION.

Wilbur Lloyd Playfully Pointed His Gun At William Freeman.

Bowling Green, Ky., Aug. 3.—William Freeman, sixteen years of age, was shot and instantly killed this morning by a boy companion, Wilbur Lloyd, about the same age. The two boys were hunting on the farm of Adam Rabold, about three miles from the city.

Young Lloyd says that he and Freeman had been shooting doves and had sat down to rest, but before doing so had drawn the shells from the guns, as he thought. He says that young Freeman playfully pointed his gun, and he in turn did the same thing. When he pulled the trigger the weapon which he thought was unloaded was discharged, the charge entering Freeman's head between the eyes, and death resulted almost instantly.

Freeman was a son of Arthur Freeman, a Louisville and Nashville engineer running between Louisville and Nashville. Lloyd is a son of Dr. W. F. Lloyd, pastor of the Southern Methodist church in this city, and formerly of Louisville.

YELLOW PERIL NOT THE SOLE DANGER.

Emperor William Alarmed By Rising Tide of Anarchy Throughout the World.

New York, Aug. 3.—A cable dispatch to a morning paper from Paris says:

"The Matin to-day publishes an interview had by its Berlin correspondent with Emperor William in which his Majesty said that the yellow peril was not the sole danger threatening the world, there also being the red danger. 'The heads of states,' the Emperor added, 'whether of absolute or constitutional monarchies or republics, hourly risk their lives. President Fallieres runs the same risks as the Czar, and President Roosevelt the same risks as King Alfonso. Those aiming at the abolition of all authority and order by Governments are thoroughly agreed, while those charged with the duty of making order respected are unfortunately disagreed.'"

The troops will move from here about Tuesday next, proceeding to Stanford, where the negroes are in jail for safe keeping, and accompany them to Barbourville. Capt. C. W. Longmire, of Lexington, will be in command of the Frankfort battery on the trip. A gatling gun will be taken.

No Trouble Expected.

Barbourville, Ky., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Jesse Fitzgerald and Annie Henson, alias Eva Sopher, will be indicted on four counts for the murder of Mrs. Robert Broughton. The charges will be conspiring, aiding and abetting and principal and accessory to the deed.

Everything is being got in readiness for the trials, but delay is expected. The chapel of the Barbourville Institute has been secured, the remodeling of the courthouse making its use impossible. Little trouble is anticipated, as the authorities will have the situation in perfect control. Danger of mob violence has greatly diminished, but speedy verdicts are expected.

In a confession Annie Henson said Fitzgerald told her Mrs. Broughton was the third white woman he had killed and robbed. Neither prisoner denies the crime, but each tries to put the blame on the other.

The grand and petit juries will be summoned Wednesday and the trials will be entered upon with as little delay as possible. The prisoners may try for a postponement.

HONORS CONFERRED ON YOUNG KENTUCKIAN

Prof. George F. Blessing Gets the Doctorate of Philosophy From Hanover College and a Professorship In Sibley College, Cornell University.

PROF. GEORGE F. BLESSING, M. E., PH. D.

At the recent commencement of Hanover College the degree of Doctor of Philosophy was conferred upon Prof. George F. Blessing, and now the announcement is made of his appointment to a professorship with the faculty of Cornell University.

Dr. Blessing is probably the youngest man that has ever received the degree of Ph. D. from this staid old Indiana college, and his appointment to Cornell is certainly evidence of his progress and success in the engineering and pedagogical fields. Dr. Blessing is purely a Kentucky product, having been reared at Carrollton and receiving his collegiate training at the Kentucky State College, where he was graduated in 1897 with the degree of B. M. E. and from the same institution in [illegible] he received, on merit course, the degree of M. E.

His professional career embraces work in both practical and theoretical engineering; in fact he is a splendid example of what the new school of technical education stands for, and aptly illustrates that the life of an up-to-date college professor is no longer the dreamy existence of a misty theorist, but a life strenuous enough to satisfy the most energetic.

Immediately after graduation Prof. Blessing accepted a position with the Snead Iron Works in Louisville, and after six months was engaged by the Brown-Ketchum Iron Works, of Indianapolis, where he remained until the fall of 1899, when he was called to the Nevada State University as associate professor of mechanical engineering. The following year he was given full professorship and still retains this position, although he has been East the past fifteen months on sabbatic leave. In accord with the idea of the new school he has spent this time in practical work; eight months being with the Platt Iron Works, of Dayton, O., where he did designing and research work on high speed and high pressure turbine pumps, and the last seven months he has been with the General Electric Company, of Lynn, Mass., where his work included designing in steam turbines, centrifugal pumps and compressors.

Besides this, every summer vacation since he began teaching has been spent in practical work.

It is not known whether Dr. Blessing intends to leave the Pacific coast, but if he does his successor will find a department in Nevada's University very wide awake and of an exceptionally high standard, if one may judge from the exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition.

Dr. Blessing also has the distinction of having started the first railroad apprentice school on the Pacific coast; this being at the shops of the Southern Pacific railroad at Sparks, Nevada, and under the supervision of the Nevada State University authorities.

But with all his honors young Blessing retains a modest bearing. In referring to his Ph. D. at the hand of Hanover College he said: "I shall endeavor to wear the honor worthily, but credit for its being conferred is largely due to my life-long friend and adviser, the Rev. W. W. Evans, D. D., of Walton, Ky. And as to the Cornell appointment it is certainly most gratifying to me to have the confidence of such a man as Director Smith. I know what he stands for in the educational world, and I believe in his policy; and if at the end of the year I shall have fulfilled his expectations and satisfied his requirements I shall then be ready to accept congratulations."

McCracken County Election.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 3.—The McCracken County Democratic Committee has been called to meet next Monday night to decide when and how to select nominees for six Councilmen, four Aldermen, six School Trustees and a Police Judge. The last office was made vacant by the death of Police Judge D. L. Sanders.

NOVEMBER TO BE TRIED ON PERJURY CHARGE.

Warrant Sworn Out By Persons Who Testified That He Violated the Sunday-Closing Law.

B. November, who conducts a grocery at 945 West Jefferson street, and who was arrested recently for violating the Sunday-closing law by keeping his place open on Sunday, was arrested yesterday on a charge of perjury.

The warrant for his arrest was sworn by several neighbors, who said in Magistrate Hoffman's court that they could provide ample proof showing that November kept his place open on Sunday, July 29. November had been tried for this offense last Thursday, and had sworn that he did not violate the law. His case for perjury will be tried this morning in Magistrate Hoffman's court.

When the cases of Charles I. Albus, W. B. Young and E. C. Frederick were called in Magistrate Hoffman's court yesterday morning pardons were presented and granted. Through an oversight William Voetler failed to produce a pardon and his case was tried. Attorney Chesley Searcy asked for a continuance in the case, but the Magistrate refused his request, and Voetler was fined $25. The fine will be held until this morning, however, in order, according to the Magistrate, to allow a pardon to be filed in the case.

DEFEATED CANDIDATE GOES ON WARPATH.

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 3.—Timothy J. Donahue, who was yesterday defeated for the office of Justice of the Peace in an election held in this city to-day met B. H. Cate and fired at him, but the bullet flew wide of the mark. Cate, who is a wholesale liquor dealer, is said to have opposed Donahue's election and this is believed to have been the cause of the attack. The two men have always been good friends.

RIVER TELEGRAMS.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Dam No. 5 in the Monongahela river will be closed August 11 instead of August 7, as the shipping interests of that region asked for a few days more. The lock at Dam No. 5 is one of the oldest in service, having been in use for probably half a century. The United States Government engineers have prepared plans for the rebuilding of the dam, and it is expected that the next session of Congress will appropriate the necessary funds. Dams Nos. 2 and 3 in the Monongahela river have been rebuilt, and Dam No. 5 will be the next one on which work will be started. A bridge will be built over the dam so that freight and passengers can be transferred from one boat to another during the closing of the lock. Harbor No. 25, Masters and Pilots' Association, will hold a meeting Monday morning in its headquarters in the Exchange building. Chief Engineer Schaff, of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, left Cairo yesterday for New Orleans on a tour of inspection. There was 2.5 feet at Davis Island dam to-night and the river was falling.

Wheeling, Aug. 3.—River 3 feet 6 inches, falling. Departed: Bessie Smith, Parkersburg.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—At 6 p. m. to-day the Ohio river at Cincinnati was 9. 9 feet and falling. To-day's arrivals of packets were: Greenland, from Maysville and return; Indiana, from Louisville and return. The Henry Lowery and one other boat are due Saturday with a tow of empties. The stage of the river is such that no boats can run but the lightest of towboats and packets. Cloudy and warm.

Madison, Ind., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—River 9.1 feet and falling. Hot.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 3.—River 8.3 feet, falling. Clear and hot.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 3.—River 18.5 and falling. Fair and warm. Arrived: Government boat Wm. R. King, St. Louis, 2 p. m. Departed: Wm. R. King, St. Louis, 2:15 p. m.; Fred Hartweg, lower Mississippi, 2:30 p. m.; Sadie Lee, Memphis, 6 p. m.

St. Louis, Aug. 3.—River 10.5, a fall of 3 inches in twenty-four hours. Departed: Stacker Lee, Memphis; City of Savannah, Tennessee river. Warm.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—River 14 feet, a fall of 6 tenths in twenty-four hours. Ferd Herold arrived from St. Louis with 2,800 packages of merchandise and left at noon with a good trip of passengers.

FOR SALE—At Auction—The late Judge W. B. Hoke's Farm on old Shepherdsville pike, 3½ miles from Louisville, at absolute auction on the premises, Monday, August 6, 4:30 p. m.; we will sell at positive auction the above-mentioned farm, in many respects one of the most famous in Jefferson county. There are 84 acres of choice lawn, garden, pasture and woodland. Beautifully situated on the southwesterly side of the old Shepherdsville pike, near the intersection of the Louisville Southern R. R., and about half a mile from Stine's Station. There is also an outlet to the Newburg road about one-quarter of a mile distant. A number of stately trees affords an abundance of shade, and the fruit is perhaps the finest and rarest in Kentucky, having been collected from all temperate zones. A never-failing spring and creek running through the entire farm, and two fine wells and cistern furnish abundance of water. The improvements consist of a two-story frame of 10 rooms with large porches, hall, closets, etc., splendid large barn with room for at least 50 head of stock and 30 tons of hay, corn crib, carriage and implement houses, servants' quarters and poultry house, all in good condition. The new interurban line will soon pass near the property, which will increase its value at least 100 per cent., so buy now. The present owners are determined to sell to settle the estate of the late Judge W. B. Hoke, and have, therefore, instructed us to sell absolutely without reserve, so don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime. Now open for inspection. CAMDEN LINES

Sold To Senator Sproul, of Pennsylvania.

DEAL INCLUDES LIGHTING PLANTS IN FIVE CITIES.

ASHLAND AND CATLETTSBURG INTERESTED.

PLANS OF NEW PURCHASER.

Philadelphia, Aug. 3.—Negotiations were closed here to-day by which the control of the Camden Interstate Railway Company of West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio passed to the hands of State Senator William C. Sproul, of Chester, Pa., and his associates. The Camden Interstate railway owns the electric lines and lighting plants in the cities of Huntington and Kenova, Va.; Catlettsburg and Ashland, Ky., and Ironton, O., together with the lines connecting those places. It operates about fifty miles of electric railway.

Senator Sproul is the president and principal owner of the Kanawha Valley Traction Company of Charleston, W. Va., and the purchase of the Camden system is said to have been in the interest of this company, with a view to connecting them by constructing a line from Barbourville, Va., to which point the Huntington line is being extended, and to St. Albans, to which point the Kanawha Valley road is building.

Court Denounces Labor Law.

New York, Aug. 3.—The State law of New York restricting the labor by women and children to ten hours a day and sixty hours a week, in a factory, was declared to-day by Justice Olmstead in a decision handed down in the Court of Special Sessions to be "an unwarranted invasion of constitutional rights." The ruling was concurred in by Justices McKean and Deuel. Judge Olmstead declared that the law was class legislation.

Toledo, O., Aug. 3.—Judge Babcock, in the Common Pleas Court, to-day handed down his decision in the ice cases, sustaining Judge Kinkade in every particular and exonerating him of having made any promise or suggestion of leniency, as claimed by the attorneys for the ice trust. The Judge declared the contention of the attorneys for the trust to be ridiculous, and should never have been brought into court.

VALUED AT $1,000.

MRS. HENRY P. SPEED ROBBED OF HER JEWELRY.

House Was Entered During the Day While the Family Was Absent.

Entrance was gained into the residence of Henry P. Speed, 1530 Brook street, some time during yesterday while the members of the family were absent, and the intruders made away with several pieces of jewelry estimated to be worth $1,000. The theft was committed some time between 10 o'clock in the morning and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, during which time both Mr. Speed and Mrs. Speed were away from their home.

According to Mrs. Speed the door of the kitchen was left open when she left her home yesterday morning in order that an old negro, who was working around the place, could have free access to it in case it was necessary. She had told the negro to lock the door when he had completed his work, but when she returned to her home that evening she was surprised to find that he had failed to comply with her request. After further investigation she ascertained that the door to the dining-room, which she had locked, had been pried open with some sharp tool. Thoroughly alarmed, she went through the house and discovered that she had been robbed of her jewelry.

The theft evidently was committed by a person who was familiar with the place, for Mrs. Speed had concealed the jewelry in a secret drawer in her room. This drawer had been opened and the package containing the jewelry had been taken, though nothing else was disturbed. The services of private detectives have been engaged to work on the case

ANGLER PROVES HANDY HORSE IN THE EAST

Wood Clay's Cast-off About Best of All-aged Division—Wins Six Consecutive Races.

ANGLER was not much of a racer last year. He managed to scramble into the first three on several occasions, but the best he could show for his season's work was a solitary winning race, and that a race for maidens at Brighton Beach July 5, in which he beat Chrysolite, Ismailian and some other lowly nonwinners, at a mile and a sixteenth, run in 1:48. However, that was last year and Angler has mended his manners and now runs as a brother of Macy should. He has shown himself to be a fast horse and a real stayer, but he has not as yet been asked to carry high weights, so until he has shown that he can meet that test satisfactorily he cannot be rightfully called a high-class racer, but at any rate he is more than useful and a credit to his dead sire, famous old Hindoo.

This year he ran his first three races as the property of W. Clay. His last eleven have been in the ownership of J. D. Odom. For Mr. Clay he captured one race. This was on the occasion of his first start in 1906. It was in a five and a half furlong dash, at the Lexington spring meeting, in which he defeated Dr. Wang, Charlie Eastman, Auroceiver, Robin Hood and Anne Stone in 1:07 3-5. Then he was taken East, and at Brooklyn ran third to Grenada and Consuelo, at a mile and a sixteenth, and second to Benevolent at the same distance; then became the property of Mr. Odom. His first four races for the latter were failures, although he twice finished third. Then he blossomed into good form, began to win and, but for a hopeless start in one race, would have been returned the winner of seven races in a row. As it was, he took six of the seven.

His first win for his new owner was at Sheepshead Bay, June 27, in a dash of a mile and a half over the grass course. He was a 15 to 1 outsider, carried 106 pounds and won cantering by four lengths in 2:33 2-5, with Glenecoe, 108; Huntington, 106; Lancastrian, 95; Leila, 99; Yorkshire Lad, 106; Jennie McCabe, 101; Purity, 101, and Snow King, 108, strung out behind him in the order named. Next he ran unplaced, July 3, in a mile and sixteenth race won by John Lyle, because he was nearly left at the post and had no chance from the outset. Since then his career has been one of unbroken and easily achieved success and from a selling plater he has advanced to the handicap division. The first of his line of five straight victories was at Sheepshead Bay, July 9, when he won at a mile and three-quarters in 3:04 by four lengths, with Leila second, Huntington third and Lancastrian, Woodsman and Priority unplaced. He carried 107 pounds. At Brighton Beach, July 12, he won at a mile and an eighth in 1:52 2-5, with 106 pounds up, defeating Lancastrian, 99; Red Friar, 107, and eight others. It was in every way an excellent performance.

At the same track and with the same weight, July 20, he ran a mile and a quarter in 2:05 and won in a canter from Tyron, Embarrassment and six more. The foregoing were all selling races, but he next came out, July 25, in a handicap at a mile and an eighth and, with 107 pounds, easily defeated Outcome, 112; Corrigan, 90; Tartan, 100; Cederstrome, 105, and Agile, 114, in 1:53. In a handicap at a mile and a quarter a few days ago with 112 pounds in the saddle, he cantered home in front of Corrigan, 94; Coy Maid, 110; Sailor Boy, 90; Agile, 100, and Lord Badge, 89, covering the distance in 2:05 2-5. His last start was yesterday at Brighton Beach in a handicap, which he won cleverly from a field of four with top impost, making his sixth consecutive win. It is to be regretted that this really good horse has no stake engagements at Saratoga, but he will no doubt be seen in action there in the overnight handicaps and condition races and a hard horse to beat.

ACTING CORONER TAKES CHARGE OF POSSESSIONS.

Frederick Ommon Left Several Insurance Policies and Bank Account.

The funeral services over the body of Frederick Omman, who died suddenly of heart disease in his room at 1813 Congress alley several days ago, will be held at the chapel of Schoppenhorst Bros., the undertakers, at Nineteenth and Market streets, this afternoon, and the burial will be in St. Stephen's cemetery. He is survived by three stepsons and one stepdaughter, who were not informed of his death until yesterday.

Magistrate Edward O'Connor, acting Coroner, has taken charge of the possessions of Mr. Omman, and will hold them until some disposition can be made of them. They consist of several insurance policies and a bank book. The old man was very reticent about his affairs, especially since his wife died several months ago. Although he had a nicely furnished house, he occupied only the two back rooms, leaving the others just as they were at his wife's death.

FIFTEEN SHOPS RECOGNIZE UNION

According To Cards Sent Out By Journeymen Horseshoers' Union.

The Journeymen Horseshoers' Union, now on a strike for a shorter workday, yesterday issued a card to the trade advising that fifteen of the city shops, which are mentioned, recognize the union and observe its hours.

The Executive Committee of the union expect by informing their friends in the trade of the condition of affairs to divert much of the work to the union shops, hence making additional places for union men now out of employment. But fifteen journeymen are now on strike, and they are drawing a weekly allowance from the union treasury.

The master horseshoers are daily securing new men to fill the places of the strikers, and declare that they will no longer recognize the union.

W. B. Shedd, acting chief clerk of the railway post-office, left last night for DeKoven, Henderson and Princeton, Ky., to examine several clerks in the railway postal service at those points, and also to establish a messenger service out of DeKoven.

SECRETARY MOSS FINDS THINGS IN GOOD SHAPE.

C. W. Moss, secretary of the Civil Service Commission of Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, with headquarters at Cincinnati, spent yesterday morning with Judge W. G. Dearing in inspecting the various departments of the Surveyor of the Port and custodian of the Customhouse. Judge Dearing states that everything was found in first-class condition, but recommendations in regard to some proposed minor changes in the departments will be made.

HYPNOTISM

FROM TOUCH OF COLD STEEL CAUSES EXCITEMENT.

Man Apparently Falls Dead In Barber Chair When Razor Is Used.

[Boyle County Herald.]

Heber McGrath, the well-known Danville barber, spent last week at Hustonville, and while there assisted Mr. Gillock, of that city. Thursday morning a well-dressed young man, looking the image of robust health, got into McGrath's chair and called for a hair trim. The moment the steel shears were put to his head he dropped forward, apparently a corpse.

Heber was terribly excited and threw up his hands in horror. Other people in the shop were also frightened and a general commotion ensued until the proprietor of the shop, who had shaved the young man upon numerous occasions, announced that there was nothing the matter with him, that the touch of steel to his esh had a hypnotic effect and put him into a deep slumber. He awakened after a few minutes and made a similar statement himself, but Heber wouldn't finish the job until a couple of men agreed to hold the customer in the chair.

He related a hair-breadth escape which he experienced as a bare-foot boy. His family lived near the Cincinnati Southern, and one day just after he had shed his shoes in the springtime he started to walk across the railroad, having forgotten that the touch of the steel ties to his feet would paralyze him. The moment his foot struck the tie he dropped to the road absolutely helpless. A tramp rescued him as a fast express was approaching. The gentleman is one of the best citizens in Hustonville and has many relatives among the most highly respected people of Danville.

BOYLE COUNTY HEN AN EQUESTRIENNE.

Barnyard Fowl Rides Astride and Is Fond of Spirited Horses.

[Boyle County Herald.]

Mr. Fred Vermilion brought his fine harness horse from the country to town the other day and placed him in the barn lot at Mr. John B. Stout's on Lexington avenue.

Mr. Stout owns a number of chickens and among the number is a Plymouth Rock hen, which appears to have the intelligence of an ordinary human being.

She took up with the horses when she was a mere pullet, and frequently dined in the same trough with them.

She rode Mr. Stout's buggy horse around the lot, but he wasn't very spirited and having been accustomed to the hen, wouldn't leave an ordinary jog, but when Mr. Vermilion brought his spirited country horse into town the hen came near riding him to death.

He had always been used to getting a move on himself when the spurs were put to his sides, and when the hen began to spur him he broke forth at high speed and whizzed around the lot until, when found, he had beaten down a path resembling a race course.

DEATH BY THOUSAND SMALL KNIFE WOUNDS.

Ghastly Scene At Chinese Execution—Punishment Called Ling-Chi.

The Chinese idea of justice, writes Letourneau, is quite utilitarian; it is unrefined, and not at all metaphysical. The description can certainly be applied to the diabolical measures taken in the name of justice against a gang of pirates at Wuchow a few days ago, says the London Tribune. The death inflicted on the pirates, by slowly cutting them to pieces, is known as "ling-chi," and though recognized still by the Board of Punishments at Peking, this cruel system is seldom resorted to. Amongst Europeans out here it is more expressively known as death by a thousand cuts.

Recognizing the impossibility of arresting these pirates in the ordinary way, the taotai of the district enticed them to his yamen by offering a free pardon, together with other inducements to cease their depredations.

The bait was swallowed, and seventeen of the gang presented themselves at the yamen. Sixteen were promptly seized by the troops, and, after being disarmed and stripped, were "ling-chi'd," whilst the excited populace clanged gongs, blew whistles, and shouted and cheered. The seventeenth man, suspecting a trap, fled from the door of the yamen, but he was pursued by the townspeople, who summarily cut him to pieces in the street.

It is hoped that this terrible example will have a deterrent effect on other pirates who have their lairs in the neighborhood of Wuchow.

MAKING NEW ROSES.

HOW FLORISTS CREATE SPECIAL VARIETIES.

One Quest Is to Get Flower of Blue With Natural Color.

This is the season of roses, and in every British garden worthy of the name roses are now the predominant feature, says the London Mail.

The city man has one in his coat, the market at the Covent garden is laden with rose fragrance, all the florists' shops have roses displayed in their windows, and competitive exhibitions of roses are being held almost every day.

Above the satisfaction of having produced a magnificent flower, there is that which comes from beating an equally enthusiastic antagonist engaged in the same pursuit.

The earliest roses were of red shades, as is implied by their name, which, being obtained from the word Rhos, means red.

The plant is a native of Europe and the temperate regions of Asia, Africa and America; but the great continent of Australasia is not a rose country.

We know from Chaucer that roses were cultivated in Britain in the Thirteenth century, and it is recorded that in the Fifteenth century they were cultivated for commercial purposes.

The moss rose, which is among the prettiest of all, was not introduced to England until the Eighteenth century, and is supposed to have originated in Provence.

Many explanations of the origin of the rosé have been made in mythology and legend, but none is more curious or less agreeable than the belief said to be held by the Turks that it sprang from the perspiration of Mahommed.

The extreme variation in roses at the present day is bewildering even to the specialist. There is a common expression that these have been obtained by the florist from the common dog rose, but this is fallacious.

There are many species involved in the parentage of the florist's varieties, but the development from these has been so great that, except in the case of what are termed garden roses, the cross-breeder rarely employs nowadays a true species, but prefers to cross the best varieties with each other.

This can be done so easily that the rosarian can, within certain limitations that ca nonly be determined by numerous experiments, obtain varieties that he thinks will meet with most appreciation by the public. He can, and does, convey the superior habit of growth of this variety to another that has the quality of producing better flowers. This is possible, because by artificially crossing two varieties a number of times with each other, many or few seedlings are obtained that combine in nearly equal proportions the qualities of both parents. Only one seedling in one thousand of those raised may prove to have superior qualities to those possessed by existing varieties.

An attempt has been made by a renowned Continental botanist to establish a system by which this process may be carried out on definite lines, and in a less wasteful manner.

By numberless experiments Mendel has proved certain facts in regard to inheritance, from which he has made deductions commonly known as Mendel's "Law of Inheritance," and although it would be premature to say that it may be accurately known beforehand the exact results will be when crossed and made in certain conditions, at the same time appearances indicate that with greater knowledge the cultivator may gain this advantage in the future. The "blue" rose is sometimes spoken of as the chief quest of the rosarian, and we have been asked on more than one occasion if a blue rose has been actually raised. Unfortunately there is no likelihood of this happening. If by "blue" is meant the color so much admired in the gentian or campanula or forget-me-not, the idea may be dismissed by the present generation as chimerical, for here is one of the limitations that cross-breeders are powerless to overcome. Certain plants appear to be incapable of developing certain colors under any influences that may be brought to bear on them, and blue appears to be the color impossible to the rose.

EASY FOR LAWRENCE.

WITNESS IN THAW MURDER CASE HAS SNAP.

Escorted Everywhere and Treated Royally By City Detective.

While the attorneys for Harry Thaw are wrangling over tactics, Lionel E. Lawrence is reveling in a newly found luxury and hoping against hope that the trial of the misguided Pittsburg youth will be postponed until the year 1950, says the New York Telegraph. Lawrence is having the time of his life these days at the expense of the city, and is of the firm opinion that a murderous attack has its pleasant as well as its disagreeable features.

It happens that Lawrence was conspicuous among those present at the Madison Square Roof the night of the shooting. Furthermore, he is one of the very few present willing to swear that he saw the shots fired. As a witness to prove the commission of the crime and to refute a possible plea of self defense, Lawrence's testimony is invaluable to the District Attorney's office, and the prosecution is not taking any chances of the stage manager's sudden departure to a point out of range of a New York State subpœna.

Consequently, wherever Lawrence goes he finds himself attended by a detective. The latter is courteous, gracious, even prodigal. With an unlimited expense fund at his disposal, he is exceedingly generous in the distribution of cigars, refreshments, carriage rides and the other little comforts that go to make life worth while. Lawrence is under the impression that the detective will not wince at the suggestion of new raiment and a diamond scarfpin, and at the proper psychological moment he will make these wants known.

Last Sunday Lawrence was about to step on a ferryboat at West Twenty-third street when a detective touched him on the arm and drew him aside. With great show of solicitude he asked why Lawrence was eloping to New Jersey. The stage manager replied that he only meant to call on a sick friend in Hoboken, but the detective's grief was so pitiful that he denied himself the pleasure of the outing and returned to Broadway. For this change of base he received a box of cigars, a drive through the Park and a dinner at Claremont.

FINE OUTLOOK.

Early Preparations For Future Business.

ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY PROSPEROUS.

MAY BE RECORD-BREAKING YEAR IN TRADE.

LARGE RAILWAY EARNINGS.

New York, Aug. 3.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade to-morrow will say:

Aside from the seasonable dullness in wholesale departments, commercial activity is well maintained, and early preparations are made for autumn and winter business. August opened with no adverse developments in the trade situation, while crop progress during July was most favorable. Trade reports are especially gratifying from the Northwest and other points that are dependent upon agricultural results, but all sections of the nation enjoy great prosperity, and there is scarcely a discordant note in any of the dispatches. Scarcity of labor is the only serious complaint, the output of coke being curtailed, and there is delay in harvesting some crops, while strikes retard the rebuilding of San Francisco; but, on the other hand, a slight modification of the 1903 scale has brought back 8,000 more bituminous coal miners, and the threatened struggle at thirty-three paper mills has been averted, while advanced wages brought full activity in the textile industry. Commodity prices are fairly steady, cheaper grain because of large crops being offset by strength in the leading materials of manufacture, while legislation in Brazil advanced coffee sharply. Railway earnings in July were 8.9 per cent. larger than a year ago, and foreign commerce at this port shows gains of $3,353,669 in imports and $483,006 in exports, as compared with the same week last year.

It is not often that managers of a leading industry are uneasy regarding the future because of too much business, yet that is becoming the situation at iron furnaces and steel mills. Orders on the books are far in excess of similar comparisons in earlier years, and there is certainty of congestion if regular fall business is added.

New England footwear markets are quiet. Tanners report that shoemakers are buying sole leather only to cover immediate needs, and the quiet market would result in concessions were it not for the light stocks and the pronounced strength of hides.

Commercial failures in the United States this week are 180, against 216 last week, 192 the preceding week, and 232 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 16, against 15 last week, 22 the preceding week, and 26 last year.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

Optimistic Sentiment Because of Large Crops and Bright Outlook.

New York, Aug. 3.—Bradstreet's to-morrow will say:

Sentiment in general seems to have become decidedly more optimistic, practical assurances of heavy crop yields, the growing buoyancy of the iron and steel industry and the relatively heavy volume of orders booked in general lines for fall and winter requirements being the principal stimuli.

Iron and steel plants, where not actively engaged in making repairs, are being worked to their utmost capacity, and the action of the principal producer in resuming dividends on its common stock exerted a salutary effect on sentiment. Some steel mills have booked their entire capacity for many months ahead, and if the usual fall business has not been discounted by the midsummer bookings, the question of deliveries will become a pressing one. The essential soundness of mercantile trade is testified to by the July and seven months' returns of failures to Bradstreet's, which point to fewer and smaller liabilities than in any but the best of years. Shipments of fall and winter goods are beginning, and, although the jobbing trade reflects midsummer influences more business is being done than ordinarily. Preparations for house trade are now absorbing attention.

Some primary markets are being visited by country merchants, who, on account of crop conditions, are expected to buy liberally, but the general influx is not anticipated for ten days. In retail lines clearance sales continue the feature, but business in the East has been considerably hampered by rainy or cloudy weather, which has curtailed attendance at some seashore resorts. Railway earnings are very heavy. Evidences multiply that the momentum already imparted to trade and industry will receive a further impetus, and that the year as a whole will surpass any previous period in the country's history.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending August 2 number 170 against 170 last year, 178 in the like week of 1905, 179 in 1904, 161 in 1903 and 169 in 1902. In Canada failures number 28 as against 24 last week and 25 in this week a year ago.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending August 2 are 2,895,020 bushels against 1,708,706 last week, 1,401,696 this week last year, 1,379,198 in 1904 and 8,831,-199 in 1901. For the past five weeks of the fiscal year the exports are 9,837,368 bushels against 5,424,287 in 1905, 6,565,372 in 1904 and 32,507,145 in 1901.

Corn exports for the week are 623,146 bushels against 539,073 last week, 1,013,675 a year ago and 273,365 in 1904. For the fiscal year to date the exports are 3,285,719 bushels against 4,747,765 in 1905 and 2,583,-909 in 1904.

New York Dry Goods.

New York, Aug. 3.—The steady demand for spot goods to-day forced the supplies well out of the market and resulted in advances. There was a heavy demand for quick delivery. There was a brisk call for bleached cottons and heavy brown cottons as well as for the finer lines. Domestics were strong.

Boston Wool.

Boston, August 3.—The Commercial Bulletin will say to-morrow of the wool market: "Careful investigation has proved that the local market is comparatively quiet and that business is confined to small transfers and to the taking of sample bags for examination. According to the bulletin, the United States Government wool authorities' prices will be maintained on their present basis for some time, but material advances are not expected. In fact the merchants feel that current values are high enough to sustain a safe and steady market. Manufacturers are continuing to show interest in the offerings, but they are not making purchases of consequence. A moderate trade in eight months Texas is passing at 24@25c, or 68@70c clean. Twelve months is being taken at 26@27c, or 72@73c scoured. Best Northern California brings 27@28c, or a clean cost of 70c. Free fall scoured is selling at 56@57c. The shipments of wool from Boston to date from December 27, 1905, are 146,763,992 lbs., against 167,757,354 at the same time last year. The receipts to date are 163,158,144 against 233,046,659 lbs. for the same period last year."

London Sheepskins Sale.

London, Aug. 3.—At the Cape of Good Hope and Natal sheepskins sales to-day 102,634 skins were offered, of which 81,652 were sold. The supply was moderate, but improved in quality. The demand was poor and mainly confined to the home trade. Long and short wool realized ⅛@⅜d and coarse ¼@½d decline from the last sale. Lambs ruled unchanged.

Louisville brokers are optimistic on general conditions and believe local issues generally are in for an advance in the next two months. Louisville Traction, Seattle, Portland and Springfield are all well thought of and all have shown firmness recently.

Baltimore.—Both in the amount of capital invested in manufacturing and in the value of manufactured products the South has advanced during the past five years at greater speed than the rest of the country. Commenting upon this the Manufacturers' Record says this week:

"Figures of the factory census of the United States, those for New York and Pennsylvania being estimated, indicate that between 1900 and 1905 the capital invested in factories increased from $9,019,903,013 to $12,923,139,503, or by $3,908,236,490, equal to 42.4 per cent., and the value of the products increased from $11,480,096,570 to $15,063,443,830, or by $3,583,-346,760, equal to 31.2 per cent. A table is published comparing the South with other great divisions of the country, the South being the territory including the fourteen States and the District of Columbia lying between Mason and Dixon's line and the Rio Grande, the middle division comprising the group of great manufacturing States between the Atlantic Ocean and the Mississippi river, exclusive of New England, and the trans-Mississippi division, the sixteen States and four Territories between the Mississippi and the Pacific, not including Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, but including Missouri, Oklahoma and the Indian Territory, which with some reason might be aligned with the South.

"The middle division naturally made the greatest actual increase in capital invested, from $5,589,767,6.5 to $7,937,921,813, or by $2,-348,154,178, and in the value of the products from $7,044,61..396 to $9,187,825,789, or by $2,-003,214,483. The South ranked second in the increase in amount of capital invested, from $967,701,865 to $1,597,513,217, or by $629,811,-352, and third in the increase in the value of products from $1,237,589,667 to $1,787,776,-794, or by $550,187,127. The trans-Mississippi section ranked third in the increase in capital invested, from $956,284,319 to $1,521,739,531, or by $565,455,212, and second in the increase in value of products, from $1,538,203,407 to $2,-111,153,310, or by $572,949,813. New England ranked fourth in increase in capital invested, from $1,5..3,146,194 to $1,870,964,942, or by $364,815,74., and fourth in the increase in value of products, from $1,659,092,100 to $2,-026,687,437, or by $366,995,337.

"The tendency to manufacturing advanced is indicated by the facts that within the five-year period the percentages of increase in the South in capital, 65, and in the value of products, 44.4, were greater than in any other section, and that there was approach by the South to New England in actual capital invested and in actual value of products. The lowest percentages of increase, both as to capital and as to the value of products, were in New England, being 24.2 and 22.1 respectively, while the trans-Mississippi division, surpassing New England in the value of products, showed a greater rate of increase than the middle division. These rates of increase must be studied by separate States for a comprehension of their full significance and also in a knowledge of the equipment of the States as to the material for manufacturing industry, the convenience for a distribution of the finished product and the availability of labor.

"These statistics do not include the figures of hand trades and neighborhood industries. If in the five years the rate of increase for the omitted items was equal to that of factories alone the value of all manufactured products in 1905 was close to $2,150,000,000 in the South and close to $17,500,000,000 in the whole country."

The Erie Railroad Company has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent. on its first preferred stock, payable September 7; books close August 17 and reopen September 8. A dividend of 4 per cent. has also been declared on the second preferred stock, payable in two installments of 2 per cent. each, the first on October 9 to holders of record of September 11, and the second on April 9, 1907, to holders of record March 12, 1907.—(Wall Street Summary.

FAILURES IN JULY.

Commercial failures in the United States during the month of July, according to statistics compiled by R. G. Dun and Company, were 738 in number and $6,919,014 in amount of defaulted indebtedness. This is the best exhibit as to the number for the month of July in any recent year, and, while the amount of liabilities was somewhat larger than in July, 1905, no other year of the preceding decade made as good a showing, except 1899. In the corresponding month last year there were 786 failures, involving $6,148,930. Manufacturing insolvencies last month numbered 144, with liabilities of $2,761,640, against 173 failures in the same month last year, when the amount of indebtedness was $3,519,739. Trading defaults were 569 in number and $3,657,582 in amount, against 594 failures in 1905, when liabilities were $2,109,086. There were twenty-five other commercial failures for $499,392 against nineteen last year, when the amount involved was $460,105. Seven banking failures provided $607,000 liabilities, while there were eight suspensions last year for $1,237,518 and ten in 1904, when the indebtedness was $3,320,-280. Insolvencies in the Dominion of Canada during the month of July made a strikingly favorable comparison with the corresponding month in preceding years. Total commercial defaults were only 64 in number and $295,621 in amount of defaulted indebtedness, against 103 last year for $777,226, and 78 in 1904, when liabilities were $1,040,640. Seventeen manufacturing failures for $69,763, compared with 24 last year, when the amount involved was $290,820, and 25 failures in 1904 for $647,-864. Trading defaults were 46 in number and $225,918 in amount, against 77 last year for $482,192, and two years ago there were 52 failures for $391,376. There was one other commercial failure, but no liabilities reported, against two last year for $4,305.

MARKET LETTERS.

New York.—Further bullish operations were conducted in the stock market to-day, chiefly along specialty lines, with profit-taking in some stocks under cover of strength elsewhere. The market is getting a little tired, according to good judges, and is resting, during which period the room element generally tries to depress prices, but as long as the large interests are under the market as at present, not much can ordinarily be accomplished without the outcoming of real stock. The surface conditions remain about the same, with sentiment divided to a large extent among the rank and file, but with advices from big people still of a bullish tenor, notwithstanding the heavy reduction of shortage, which has doubtless been responsible largely for the recovery produced by manipulation, we would be conservative in our operations during the next few days.—(Ware & Leland.

New York.—This afternoon's reaction was a normal one after so sharp a rise. It will go a little further, but not much. There is not much selling pressure. Many persons stand ready to buy on breaks who missed the rise. These will keep prices from slipping back much. We would buy stocks on any drive now on. The setback in United States Steel, as well as in the Grangers, was normal and will attract buying. While we look for an irregular market to-morrow, partly because of doubts about the bank statement, and because of the uncertain Russian outlook, we would not be disturbed about either matter.—(C. I. Hudson & Co. to S. C. Henning.

New York.—In spite of the fact that no satisfactory news is to be obtained in regard to the supposed pending railroad developments the market continued strong after the opening this morning, and some further material gains were seen in the first hour. Pennsylvania and New York Central scored advances. Other stocks made gains ranging from small fractions to a point, but heavy selling of other orders were in the market, and the supply of stocks was so large that buying orders at the advance were practically swamped. Government bonds were unchanged.—(Norton to John L. Dunlap.

New York.—The market displayed a very irregular character to-day. There was heavy profit-taking all around, including the Pennsylvania and St. Paul issues, as well as in the other leading stocks. From the market's action to-day there was every indication that the extended short interest of the past few days had more or less covered, and this sustaining feature of the market being temporarily removed prices naturally sagged. At times, however, sharp rallies would occur in St. Paul, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific on manipulation by the bull clique, but very little outside business was induced by this process, for stocks seemed to be for sale on any advance. Amalgamated, which had been rather inclined to resist the general upward movement in the past few days, became active and strong today and advanced on pool buying. This movement, however, seemed to fail to induce any outside buying. Prices continued generally heavy in the afternoon. The forthcoming bank statement to-morrow is expected to be unfavorable. The expected loss in cash by the banks this week will be little less than $5,000,000. Under the circumstances we think the market will decline further, but advise purchases at the lower levels.—(J. S. Bache & Co. to Washington Flexner & Co.

New York.—Although the market has been very irregular, the undertone has been strong at all times. There has been a fair amount of profit-taking, but the supporting orders were sufficient to prevent any serious decline. Many traders incline to the view that a reaction is due, but drives fail to dislodge any long stock and the bull stop orders appear to be considerably below the market. Short covering has been very extensive during the week, and this has aided materially in the advance. Although the short interest has been very greatly reduced, the technical position does not appear to have been materially weakened. Advices of prominent people are uniformly bullish. Conditions in Russia are very uncertain, but in the event of a crisis it seems reasonably certain that the banking interests will sustain prices here. It is probable that the market will be quite irregular to-morrow, and prices may ease off slightly in anticipation of a rather unfavorable bank statement. Known movements of money indicate that the banks have lost over $4,000,000 this week, and it is quite likely that loans have increased, so a rather heavy reduction in reserve may be expected.—(A. O. Brown & Co. to Hunt, Bridgeford & Co.

New York.—After the phenomenal advance in the past week a reaction was almost certain to occur, and at present writing the only wonder is that it has not gone further. Most stocks are down about 2 points. The big interests seem to have the market well in hand, and although we are apt to have further reactions in the next day or two stocks ought to be a buy if they really get weak, as it looks as if they were going to put the market considerably higher yet. On the actual announcement of any important deal we would sell stocks, but until such a development takes place we are inclined to advise our friends to continue on the bull side.—(Post & Flagg to John W. & D. S. Green.

New York.—The market closed soft all around. It seems to be due to profit-taking entirely. A reaction has been overdue. It is a healthy sign in all bull markets, eliminating, as it does, pyramid trading and carrying along of weak accounts. Trade in the last hour was quiet spirited, with commission houses generally selling stocks. An unfavorable bank statement is looked for to-morrow and of this expectation would not be surprised to see slightly lower range of values. We still think stocks should be bought on reactions. We doubt if highest prices have yet been seen.—(Ch... Lyons & Co.

New York.—In the absence of support in the market the traders made an attack on United States Steel common and brought about a general reaction. We do not look for much lower prices and would advise purchases on any recession to-morrow.—(Kelley, Miller & Co. to Almstedt Bros.

New York.—In spite of the fact that no satisfactory news is to be obtained in regard to the supposed pending railroad developments the market continued strong after the opening this morning and some further material gains were made in the first hour. St. Paul advanced to 188⅝ and Union Pacific made a gain of 1⅝. Pennsylvania and New York Central scored advances. Other stocks made gains ranging from small fractions to a point, but heavy selling orders were in the market and the supply of stocks was so large that buying orders at the advance were practically swamped for the time and continued offerings caused reactions, on which practically all the early gains were lost. London bought some Union Pacific and Erie at the opening, but later turned seller, the sales exceeding purchases by about 10,000 shares. The room had less confidence in the stories of a pending St. Paul deal, although gossip coming from the floor was to the effect that the Harriman interests have turned sellers of Northern Pacific and equal buyers of St. Paul. Government bonds unchanged; others firm.—(Ex. Norton & Co. to J. J. B. Hilliard & Son.

New York.—We were disappointed in our expectation of a strong closing and were without doubt wrong, as was G. B. McDonald when he bought St. Paul, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific in a belief that the market was sold out and could be easily rallied. It was his buying and bidding up of prices which precipitated the selling which gave the sharp closing decline. It was rumored that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. sold the stock in order to stop any further advance. The irregularity and reaction in prices was natural, in view of the large week's advance and the possibility of trouble in Russia over Sunday and a probable bad bank statement to-morrow.—(B. Dominick, Jr., to Halsey & Halsey.

STOCK MARKET REVIEW.

New York, August 3.—Money on call steady at 2¼@2½ per cent.; ruling rate 2⅜; closing bid, 2 offered at 2½; time loans firm; sixty days 3½; ninety days 4½@4¾; six months 5¼; prime mercantile paper 5½@5¾. Sterling exchange firm, then easier at $4.8520 for demand and at $4.8235 for sixty-day bills. Posted rates $4.82½@4.83 and $4.85¼@4.86; commercial bills $4.81⅞@4.82. Bar silver 64⅝c. Mexican dollars 50½c. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds irregular.

To-day's stock market became even more spotty than that of yesterday and the isolated instances of strength were fewer. This showing told on speculative sentiments in the course of the day and the tone of the speculation became less confident and led to a sharp reaction. This change was derived more from the action of the market itself than from any development in the condition of business or industry, unless the slightly firmer tone of the call money market may have been partly responsible. Larger importance was attached, however, to the fact that St. Paul and Union Pacific showed clear evidence of being fed out when attempts were made to bid them up, while Southern Pacific was given over to positive depression.

The opening course of prices was quite generally downward, but this was attributed to the influence of the earlier dealings in foreign markets, in which the trouble affairs of Russia were once more a factor. The lower opening here was almost immediately repaired, in sympathy with the sharp up-bidding of St. Paul and Union Pacific. Their relapse was the cause of some misgivings over the vague information on which much of the accumulation in these stocks has been based. Successive disappointments over the expected confirmation of the "deal" rumors which have hung about these stocks for many weeks proves wearing on the patience of the ill-informed holders, except when they have the example of large buying and advancing prices before their eyes.

The new features of strength proved poor substitutes for the favorite leaders of market sentiment. The rise in New York Central was connected with some revival of reports that a comprehensive merger of the Vanderbilt railroad properties was in contemplation. There was a joint advance in a number of the North and South trunk line railroads, which was associated with the Government's cotton report, which was expected to be favorable, but which even exceeded speculative anticipation. The cotton carriers sold off on realizing, however, after the publication of the Government report. Amalgamated Copper was helped by a sharp upward movement in the price of the metal in the London market. But these evidences of strength did not prove wholly convincing in the face of manifest realizing that was going on in other quarters of the market. It was pointed out also that the first transactions which occurred in United States Steel after the dividend was declared, which were in the opening dealings of Wednesday, were at the highest prices on the movement. The 41½ touched then for an instant was not equaled afterward. The deduction is unavoidable that a very large supply of the stock was ready for the market to take advantage of the effect of the dividend.

The firmer tone in the day's call loan market was due to the indicated decline for the week in the cash holdings of the banks, which amounts to $4,771,000 on Subtreasury account alone, and which seems to be only slightly offset by the receipts by express from the interior. It is supposed that the Subtreasury excess of receipts, which is largely on account of Panama national bond payments, has been partly offset by a redeposit of Government funds with the banks, while bond payments have come almost wholly from that source. The week's stock market operations and the August settlements also point to some further loan expansion.

The impression of the profit-taking tendency of the day's market was emphasized by the response to the late 2-point rise in St. Paul, which was met by an outpouring of stocks which carried a long list of active leaders from 1 to 2 points below last night. There was very little recovery and the closing was easy.

FOREIGN FINANCIAL.

London, Aug. 3.—Money was in better supply to-day, rates were a shade easier and the demand was quiet. Discounts were steady. On the Stock Exchange the attendance was small and business was dull. Consols and other British securities were maintained on moderate investment purchases, while foreigners benefited by Paris support, Russians hardening 10¾ per cent. discount. Americans were again the most active section. Some profit-taking caused a slight setback from the firm opening except in the case of Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and New York Central, which were actively supported to a higher level. In the afternoon the advance continued on New York support and the market closed firm at fractionally below the best prices of the day. Kaffirs were dull in the absence of outside support. Japanese Imperial 6s of 1904 closed at 103. Closing quotations were: Consols for money 87⅝; do for the account 87 13-16; Anaconda 13⅝; Atchison 96½; do preferred 104; Baltimore and Ohio 124½; Canadian Pacific 171¼; Chesapeake and Ohio 162½; Chicago Great Western 19¾; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul 193; De Beers 17; Denver and Rio Grande 46¼; do preferred 88½; Erie 45⅜; do first preferred 82; do second preferred 73; Illinois Central 181; Louisville and Nashville 150; Missouri, Kansas and Texas 35⅝; New York Central 145½; Norfolk and Western 94; do preferred 95; Ontario and Western 49⅜; Pennsylvania 68¼; Rand Mines 6⅛; Reading 69¼; do first preferred 46; do second preferred 45; Southern Railway 38⅞; do preferred 102½; Southern Pacific 78; Union Pacific 162½; do preferred 98; United States Steel 41⅞; do preferred 110½; Wabash 21⅛; do preferred 49½; Spanish fours 92⅛. Bullion amounting to £170,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day.

Paris, Aug. 3.—Prices on the Bourse early to-day were steady except for Russians, which were depressed and irregular. Later the general market showed firmness, including Russians. Toward the close there was considerable realizing in Russians, but the general close was well sustained. Russian Imperial 4s 76.25. Russian bonds of 1904 460. Three per cent. rentes 97f 42½c for the account. Exchange on London 25f 15c for checks.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 3.—On the Bourse to-day a feeling of pessimism prevailed, but the suppression of the Cronstadt mutiny and the capture of the mutineers of the cruiser Pamyat Azova resulted in prices maintaining yesterday's level, Imperial 4s closing at 71½ and 5s at 83⅜.

Berlin, Aug. 3.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was quiet. Exchange on London 20 marks 47⅝ pfgs. for checks. Discount rates: Short bills 3½ per cent.; three months' bills 3¾ per cent.

LEAF TOBACCO

Friday Evening, Aug. 3.—The sales on the local auction breaks to-day were small, compared with that of yesterday, and the quality and condition were only fair. For Burley tobacco the market was practically unchanged and all grades met with good competition at former prices. There was very little old Burley offered. There were no special features of interest to be noted in the dark market and values were well maintained. The quality and condition of the offerings were fairly good, and the market taken as a whole was very satisfactory, with few rejections.

Sales of leaf tobacco by auction for the week amounted to 2,187 hogsheads and private sales to 387, the total being 2,574, as compared with 2,613 for the corresponding week last year and 2,901 two years ago. The total sales since January 1 have amounted to 105,411 hogsheads and compares with 98,065 for the corresponding period in 1905. Burley sales for the week totaled 1,978, of which 12 were of the old crops. The sales of dark were 596 hogsheads, old crops amounting to 9. The week's rejections were 433, or 19 per cent. of the sales at auction, and since January 1 have amounted to 11,523. Receipts for the week were 2,881, and since January 1 they have amounted to 80,250.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Louisville.

(Reported by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange, Bourbon Stock Yards.)

Louisville, Aug. 3.—Cattle—Receipts of cattle to-day were 51 head; for the week thus far 2,105. With a rather light attendance of buyers and a limited supply of cattle, especially the choice grades, the trade generally continued quiet, with no appreciable change as to values. Salesmen again experienced decidedly less trouble disposing of choice, handy-weight butcher cattle at steady values than any other class, and the few on sale were readily absorbed, but the trade on other grades was, if anything, less satisfactory than during the first part of the week. Feeders and stockers quiet, but unchanged. Bulls slow; canners dull. Milch cows about steady. Feeling on heavy cattle improved. The market closed about steady.

Calves—Receipts of calves to-day 92 head; for the five days 716. The market was fully steady; bulk of best $5.25@5.75; something fancy a shade better; common calves slow.

Hogs—Receipts of hogs to-day 1,024 head; for the five days this week 6,616. CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Likelihood of a large yield of wheat in the United States caused weakness to-day in the local wheat market, the September delivery closing at a net loss of ½c. Corn was up ⅛c, oats showed a gain of ¼c and provisions were a shade to 32½c higher.

Sentiment in the wheat pit was bearish all day, there being very little news of a character to encourage the bulls. The volume of trading, however, was small, owing to a scarcity of offerings. The principal sellers were cash houses who sold against purchases in the country. The market was depressed at the start by a moderate decline at Liverpool. Liberal receipts in the Northwest also exerted a bearish effect early in the day. Later a St. Louis trade paper's report on the winter wheat crop of the United States caused additional weakness. This report claimed that threshing returns indicated that the yield would be the largest ever harvested in this country. It also stated that farmers in Missouri are feeding wheat to the hogs. The market closed easy. September opened ⅛@¼c to ¼c lower at 73⅝c to 73⅝@73¾c, sold between 73⅛c and 73⅝@73¾c and closed at 73⅜c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 257,800 bushels. Exports for the week, as shown by Bradstreet's, were equal to 2,895,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,188,000 bushels, compared with 752,000 the corresponding day one year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 565 cars, against 665 last week and 372 one year ago.

Continued absence of rain in Illinois was chiefly responsible for a firm tone in the corn market. The Missouri report, showing deterioration of 1 point in the condition of the corn crop during July, helped to stimulate demand. Commission houses and cash interests were the principal buyers. Selling was mainly by pit traders. The close was firm. September opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 49½@49⅝c, sold between 49⅛c and 49⅝c and closed at 49⅜c. Local receipts were 155 cars, with 74 of contract grade.

Despite liberal receipts, both local and at all primary points, the oats market was firm all day. The Missouri State report was the chief cause of bullish sentiment, as it showed the crop in that State to be in poor condition.

Threshing returns indicating a yield of only 19 bushels to the acre. There was a good demand by commission houses throughout the entire session. September opened ⅛@¼c higher at 31@31⅛c, sold between 30⅞c and 31⅛c and closed at 31⅛c. Local receipts were 250 cars.

Provisions were strong on lively demand by shorts and commission houses. Receipts of hogs were lighter than expected and this caused much of the firmness. An advance at Liverpool was another bullish factor. At the close September pork was up 32½c at $16.97½, lard was a shade higher at $8.87½@8.90 and ribs were 7½c higher at $9.15.

Estimated receipts for to-morrow: Wheat 547 cars; corn 160; oats 237; hogs 10,000 head.

COTTON MARKETS.

New York, August 3.—The cotton market had a very severe break during to-day's trading as a result of a bearish August bureau report with prices reaching a new low level for the season. The close was steady at a decline of 23@32 points. Sales for the day were estimated at 350,000 bales. The market opened steady at an advance of 1@3 points in keeping with slightly better cables, and ruled fairly steady during the early session, with trading very quiet. Just before the Government report was issued, prices were about net unchanged, but as soon as the condition figures were read there was a break of 10 or 12 points. A rally of 3 or 4 points on covering by local shorts during the middle of the afternoon was followed before the close, however, by a second decline under active selling by wire and commission houses with Southern connections, and heavy local liquidation, which was attributed to some of the largest bull interests in the market. The decline carried August off to 9.60c, October to 9.93c and December to 9.98c, or about 18 to 20 points below the previous lowest level, and 30 to 35 points down from last night's finals. The close was only a little up from the lowest on the active months, and sentiment seemed to be bearish at the decline. The Government report showed a condition of 82.9 per cent. against 83.3 per cent. last month, 74.9 per cent. last year and 91.6 per cent. two years ago. Local authorities figure that with average conditions later on this points to a crop all the way from 10,900,000 to 11,500,000 bales.

Estimated receipts at the ports to-day 3,200 bales, against 4,715 last week and 12,777 last year; for the week 35,000 bales, against 29,472 last week and 73,620 last year; to-day's receipts at New Orleans 141 bales, against 1,928 last year, and at Houston 530 bales, against 2,349 last year.

Spot cotton opened quiet; middling uplands 10.90c; do gulf 11.15c. Closed quiet and unchanged; sales 700 bales.

The following is the range of futures on the Cotton Exchange:

The market remained very quiet from the opening until the publication of the Government crop report, which sent prices immediately down 16 points, and the decline continued until the close. The Government estimate was 2 points better than local estimates had been. The market closed barely steady, 22@30 points under yesterday's figures, the market being forced down not only by bear pressure, but by large selling of bulls. The range was as follows:

COMMITTEE TO ARRANGE FOR SPECIAL DAYS

GEN. JOHN B. CASTLEMAN MADE CHAIRMAN.

CHURCHILL DOWNS ACCEPTED AS STATE FAIR GROUNDS.

REPORTS OF THE COMMITTEES

The new business done at the regular meeting of the Board of Control of the State Fair yesterday afternoon consisted in the appointment of Gen. John B. Castleman as chairman of a committee to arrange for special days at the fair this coming fall. Gen. Castleman, who was in Cynthiana yesterday in attendance at the county fair there, has been given authority to appoint such other members of his committee as he may desire. Instructions other than those carried in the title of the new committee were not given. It is the understanding that the committee will arrange special programmes for the special days, giving prominence each day to one of the interests of the State.

Preceding the meeting of the Board of Control, the State Board of Agriculture met in executive session. Commissioner Hubert Vreeland, chairman; W. T. Harris, M. A. Scovell, W. R. Moorman and Guthrie Wilson were present. The board voted the per diem allowance for expenses and adjourned for the call of the meeting of the Board of Control. Commissioner Vreeland has called a regular meeting of the State Board of Agriculture to meet in Louisville every Friday afternoon preceding the regular meetings of the Board of Control, so that the State's agricultural interests may be represented at the deliberations of the body which has the fair in charge.

Chairman W. T. Harris called the meeting of the Board of Control to order. C. B. Norton, Lyttle H. Hudson, George L. Danforth and Secretary J. B. Bowles were present. Mr. Norton reported the acceptance of the offer of Churchill Downs for the fair, and told of the arrangements that had been made for the use of that property. The report of Mr. Norton for the committee was approved.

Mr. Bowles reported for the Buildings Committee the condition of the grounds with regard to their suitability for fair purposes. He said, as has been given out, that few buildings will have to be erected; that few alterations will have to be made, and that little money will have to be spent. The Jockey Club, he said, is prepared to make what races the fair will need.

Mr. Danforth, chairman of the Season Ticket Committee, recommended the adoption of a ticket with six coupons, good for either the day or night sessions. These are to be sold at $2 each. The question of night sessions was not brought up formally, and no action was taken on it. It was spoken of, however, and the comment on such a course was favorable.

The Printing Committee reported that the catalogue is in the hands of the printer, and that the supplementary prize list would be out by Tuesday. The prize list will announce the prizes that will be offered on live stock exhibitions and will be scattered broadcast among breeders.

Neal Roach, of Glenview, proposed that a sale of shorthorn cattle be held at the fair. The suggestion was accepted as entirely practicable, and steps will be taken later on in the way of arrangements.

AT HIGHER BAR

Lyttleton Cooke, Noted Lawyer, Is Called.

SUCCUMBS TO HEART DISEASE AT WARM SPRINGS, VA.

HAD BEEN IN FAILING HEALTH FOR SOME TIME.

END OF AN EVENTFUL CAREER.

The death of Lyttleton Cooke, which occurred Thursday night at Warm Springs, Va., where he had gone in a vain quest for health, removes from the Kentucky bar one of its leading and most conspicuous figures and from Louisville one of its most esteemed and honored citizens. For nearly fifty years Mr. Cooke had made this city his home and the news of his death has caused widespread grief and regret among a large circle of friends throughout the city and State.

When Mr. Cooke left Louisville several weeks ago for Warm Springs it was known among his friends that he was in failing health, but his condition was not considered serious and it was not known that he had been confined to his bed. Death was due to heart trouble, which commenced several years ago, and which finally developed into chronic disease of the organ. The body is expected to arrive in Louisville this morning, when arrangements for the funeral will be made.

* * *

Born In Virginia.

Mr. Cooke was born in King and Queen county, Virginia, in 1831 and was a descendant of one of the oldest families in the Old Dominion, who were among the earliest English settlers of Virginia. At the age of eighteen Mr. Cooke entered the University of Virginia, but did not graduate, having a few days before the examinations commenced consented to act as "second" for a friend who had been challenged by another student to fight a duel, and in consequence the parties involved in the affair were quietly informed not to present themselves for examination in any of their classes.

After leaving the University of Virginia Mr. Cooke, although not having attained his majority, in the early part of the year 1851 removed to St. Louis, Mo., having been previously examined and declared competent to be admitted to the bar by Judge John B. Clopton, of the Williamsburg, Va., Circuit Court, and by Judges Cabell and Brooke, of the Court of Appeals of that State. After familiarizing himself with the Code of Practice and the statute law of Missouri, he was admitted to the bar in St. Louis without being required to stand any further examination.

In 1854 Mr. Cooke was nominated as one of the anti-Benton Democratic candidates to represent the city and county of St. Louis in the Legislature of Missouri, but was defeated with the other candidates of the party. In 1856, because of the ability he had shown as a political debater in his canvass for the Legislature, he was nominated by the Democratic State convention of Missouri as a candidate for presidential elector and was elected, and cast his vote in the electoral college for James Buchanan for President and for John C. Breckinridge for Vice President.

Comes To Kentucky.

The following year Mr. Cooke removed to Paducah, Ky., for the purpose of devoting his entire time to his profession as a lawyer. He soon acquired a fair practice, but in 1861, shortly after the outbreak of the Civil War, his home having been broken up and destroyed by Federal soldiers, and because of his strong pronounced sympathy with the cause of the South, he removed to Louisville. However, he was able to do but little in his profession during the continuance of the war, as he did not hesitate to avow his sympathies with the South during that period, although, as Kentucky did not secede from the Union, his extreme States-rights views compelled him to recognize his allegiance to the State and the Union to which it belonged.

In 1867 Mr. Cooke was elected as a Democrat to the Kentucky Senate from the Thirty-seventh district, composed of the central wards of Louisville. He served in that body for four years, and was a member of the Judiciary Committee and chairman of the Committee on Railroads and also that on Banks and Insurance. He was a close personal friend of the Hon. John W. Stevenson, who was Governor of Kentucky during that time, and was one of his most intimate and trusted friends and advisers in respect to public matters. Mr. Cooke's services as a Senator commencing soon after the close of the war, covered a period of unusual excitement and feeling in State politics, and many questions of great interest and importance came up before the Legislature during that time, in all of which he took a prominent and leading part, being the author of the statute which first admitted negroes to testify on an equality with whites in the courts of Kentucky.

Retires From Politics.

Mr. Cooke was elected a member of the House of Representatives in the General Assembly of Kentucky in 1877, and served one term. But this interfered to such an extent with his practice as a lawyer that he declined further public service or office. Some years later Mr. Cooke was elected president of the Louisville, Cincinnati and Lexington Railroad Company, and was its general counsel. When the road was absorbed by the Louisville and Nashville railroad he became one of the counsel for the Louisville and Nashville system, which position he held continuously until five years ago, when he retired from active law practice.

Mr. Cooke also enjoyed a large private law practice for many years and attained distinction among the legal fraternity of Louisville for his careful preparation of cases which at times, it is said, he carried almost to over-cautiousness. He always made his clients' cases his own, and was known as a most zealous and faithful advocate.

In Louisville in 1860 Mr. Cooke married Miss Alice Wilson, a daughter of Thomas E. and Caroline Wilson. Mrs. Cooke died in 1890, leaving two daughters, Caroline Wilson and Mrs. David A. Keller.

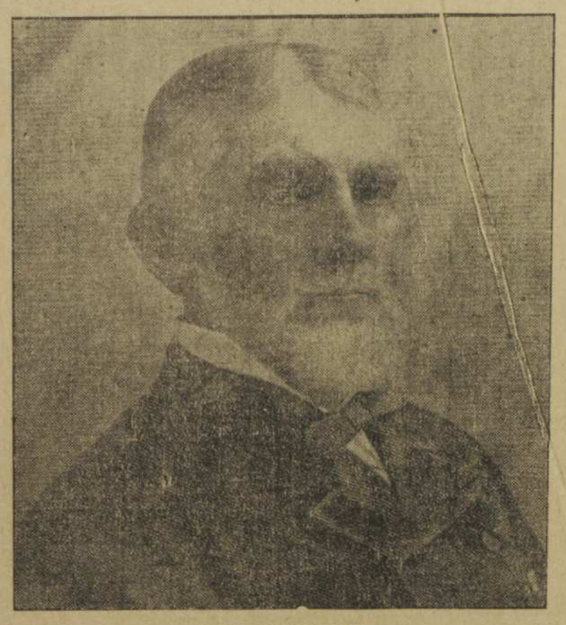

Soon after the death of his wife Mr. Cooke had erected in the family plot at Cave Hill cemetery what is considered one of the most exquisite sculptural designs ever erected there. Its base is of granite surmounted by a bronze head and shoulders, modeled after a composite picture of Mr. Cooke's two daughters. The work was done by Carl Rohl-Smith, the noted Danish sculptor, while on a visit to this country at the time of the Columbian Exposition at Chicago.

For many years Mr. Cooke occupied a handsome residence at 1110 Fourth avenue, but for the past few years had made his home at the Galt House, where he was a conspicuous figure about the lobby and reading rooms of the hostelry.

OGDEN COLLEGE.

AN OUTLINE OF THE PLANS AND PURPOSES OF THIS WORTHY INSTITUTION.

A Course of Study Insuring a High Degree of Scholarship At a Merely Nominal Cost.

The following circular issued by Ogden College at Bowling Green, Ky., has been handed to the Courier-Journal by H. V. Loving, the Regent of that institution, and is published as a matter of interest to the worthy young men of the State:

The new administration of Ogden College sends greetings to the Alumni, former students and friends generally of the institution, and desires their hearty co-operation in maintaining and enlarging its work.

The College undoubtedly has an important, distinctive field as a modern institution of higher education, intended primarily for the young men of Warren county, while not excluding others, and it shall be our endeavor to have it occupy that field as completely as possible and to achieve therein the highest usefulness. To this end we invoke the aid of all our old students and friends. Speak a good word for your home college! Its past record shows that it deserves it.

The work of the institution is to be so shaped as to speedily restore its former full degree courses, and it shall be our aim to sustain the thoroughness of its work and to uphold the high standing of its regular degrees, the adequacy of which, to prepare young men for the different professions and callings of life has been well attested by the record of our former students. Do you know that, in proportion to the number of its students, Ogden College has educated as many able and prominent ministers of the gospel, lawyers, physicians, teachers and business men as perhaps any other institution in the country?

The will of the donor plainly states that the interest of the endowment fund is to be used, so far as it will go, only towards making education at Ogden free. It is the purpose of its Board of Trustees, however, to make instruction there as nearly free as possible, and so, under a recent resolution adopted by them, the former system of a limited number of free scholarships has been abolished and all prepared students from Kentucky will be received free of tuition, the only charge to them, outside of some small fees required of those using the laboratories, being an incidental fee of $7.50 per term, or $15.00 per year. This makes a college education at Ogden one of the most inexpensive in the whole country in proportion to the advantages offered.

Our College course is to be formulated upon the plan of giving the Bachelor's Degree for the completion of a certain number of units of work in the various departments, in a number of which a minimum will be required and a maximum allowed. This will provide a large amount of election of studies with those who take the degree.

Others, not candidates for a degree, will be allowed to take such special courses as they may pursue with profit. Our present lowest class will be retained as preparatory to the College work and its practical features, such as the course in Book-keeping, will be continued. At the same time it will be brought in closer touch with the rural public schools by the addition of classes in Arithmetic and English Grammar. We want the young men of Kentucky, especially of Warren county, to feel that the College is for them, and that it is a place to which they should naturally go, if they pursue their education beyond that of the public schools.

FAMILY FEAR HARM HAS BEFALLEN HIM.

Clarence Augustus Missing From His Home Since Thursday Morning.

After telling his mother good-bye, Clarence Augustus, twenty-four years of age, of 2018 West Market street, left his home Thursday morning at 5:30 o'clock to go to his work, and since that time his family have lost all trace of him. They fear that some harm has befallen him, and his father, David Augustus, the constable, and his brothers, William and James Augustus, are searching the city in an attempt to find him. The police were notified yesterday morning, and, although they scoured the city, they could find no trace of him.

Augustus went to the Louisville Forge Works, where he is employed as a day watchman, after he left home, and at 9 o'clock left there to go to the central part of the city to attend to some business in the Louisville Trust building. He never arrived there, but it was not until Thursday night that it was noticed that he was missing. He was dressed in a dark suit and a black hat. He has been subject to a nervous complaint, which causes him to become mentally irresponsible at times, and it is supposed that he had one of these attacks when he disappeared.

Bids For Sidewalks.

Bids were opened yesterday by the Board of Public Works for the building of twenty-six sidewalks in different parts of the city. The bidders were G. W. Gosnell, L. R. Figg, Benjamin Humpich and Henry L. Kremer. The contracts will be awarded within the next few days.

SUIT FOR $10,000

AGAINST SALOONKEEPER BECAUSE BARTENDER KILLED HUSBAND.

City Bond Commissioners Right To Take Bonds In County Arrests Questioned.

Margery Kuch yesterday afternoon filed suit against Valentine Humpich for $10,000 damages on account of the death of her husband George Kuch, who was killed in the defendant's saloon, at 1153 East Jacob street, January 1 last.

The plaintiff says that Kuch went to the saloon on this night, and that while in an intoxicated condition he was sold more liquor by Henry Humpich, barkeeper for Valentine Humpich. While greatly disordered in body and mind, the petition says, Henry Kuch was shot and killed by Henry Humpich, who was, it is alleged, not acting in self-defense.

Rule Against Bond Commissioner.

Magistrate Edward O'Connor yesterday applied to the County Court for a rule against J. Hunter Ross, Bond Commissioner, citing him to show by what authority he issued a bail bond to Robert D. Redding, who was arrested in the county outside the city. The Magistrate makes the point that Mr. Ross is purely a city officer and that he cannot take bonds of persons brought from outside the limits. Judge Wilson issued the rule and made it returnable August 6. It is Magistrate O'Connor's view that only Justices of the Peace and the County Judge can take such bonds.

Court Paragraphs.

—Bertha Lee Wyman sued John Harry Wyman for divorce, alleging cruelty. They were married in 1902.

—Rebecca Jacobstein, a minor, brought suit in the name of her father, S. I. Jacobstein, against the Louisville Railway Company for $5,000 damages. She was hurt while getting on a car.

—Ora Williams sued Bertha Hager and other owners of a house in which plaintiff lives, for $5,000 damages. She pushed her right leg through the kitchen floor, which she charges was defective.

—William Coy, a minor, brought suit in the name of William J. Dalmazzo against the P. Bannon Sewer Pipe Company for $15,000 damages, charging that his leg was so badly crushed while in defendant's employ as to make amputation necessary.

CHILD THROWN FROM WAGON AND INJURED.

William Hohmann, the four-year-old son of B. Hohmann, a contractor, living at 718 Hancock street, sustained serious injuries in an accident at 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon on Shelby street, between Madison and Chestnut streets. He was driving with his brother along Shelby street in his father's wagon when the horse stumbled and, jolting the wagon considerably, threw the lad from his seat. He fell underneath the front wheel of the wagon and, besides breaking his arm, the wheel passed over his head and inflicted a large scalp wound. Drs. B. J. Lammers and Henry Heuser dressed the injuries and had the child taken to St. Anthony's Infirmary, where he is said to be in a critical condition.

MRS. GEORGE ROYCE HURT IN RUNAWAY.

Mrs. George Royce, who lives near Jacob Park, was injured in a runaway yesterday afternoon and narrowly escaped being killed. She was driving her buggy along Park avenue, and when she reached Seventh street her horse became frightened at a street car. The horse dashed the light vehicle against a post, and she was thrown to the ground, suffering bruises about the body. The buggy was smashed to pieces. Mrs. Royce was taken to her home, where she received medical attention.

DE MOLAY COMMANDERY EXCURSION TO-DAY.

The DeMolay Commandery Conclave Club will give a sunset excursion on the steamer Hiawatha this afternoon. The party will be composed of members of the DeMolay Commandery, their wives, sweethearts and friends. The boat leaves the foot of Fourth avenue at 5 o'clock. This is expected to be a love feast for the DeMolay boys and their party.

Discuss Preservation of Records.

A meeting of the Louisville Bar Association was to have been held yesterday afternoon to discuss the arrangements for preserving the records while the work of renovating the courthouse is in progress. However, a quorum was not present and an informal discussion of the matter took place. The members present recommended that the Committee on Public Records, of which Judge Charles Grubbs is chairman, do all in its power to co-operate with the Circuit Clerk and the Fiscal Court in aiding in this work.

Must Keep Out of Saloons.

The Board of Public Safety has issued an order to the effect that all patrolmen are forbidden to enter saloons while in uniform, unless called in on official business. The order has been published in the Police Bulletin with the instructions that it be strictly and rigidly enforced.

TORTURED BY ITCHING SCALP

Eczema Broke Out Also on Hands and Limbs—Suffering Intense—Doctors Said Too Old to Be Cured—An Old Soldier of 80 Years Declares:

"CUTICURA TREATMENT IS A BLESSING"

"At all times and to all people I am willing to testify to the merits of Cuticura. It saved me from worse than the tortures of hades, about the year 1900, with itching on my scalp and temples, and afterwards it commenced to break out on my hands. Then it broke out on my limbs. I was advised to use salt and water, which I did, to no effect. I then went to a surgeon, who commenced treating me with a wash of borax. This treatment did me no good, but rather aggravated the disease. I then told him I would go and see a physician in Erie. The reply was that I could go anywhere, but a case of eczema like mine could not be cured; that I was too old (80). I went to an eminent doctor in the city of Erie and treated with him for six months, with like results. I had read of the Cuticura Remedies often. I was strongly tempted to give them a trial, so I sent for the Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent until I had taken six bottles, stopping it to take the Pills. I was now getting better. I took two baths a day, and at night I let the lather of the Soap dry on. I used the Ointment with great effect after washing in warm water, to stop the itching at once. I am now cured.

"The Cuticura treatment is a blessing and should be used by every one who has itching of the skin. I can't say any more, and thank God that He has given the world such a curative. You can use this letter as you please. A very much befriended man, Wm. H. Gray, 3308 Mt. Vernon st., Philadelphia, Pa., August 2, 1906."

HELD UP AND ROBBED.

B. DE VAURT SAYS HE WAS ATTACKED BY THREE MEN.

Relieved of $300 Diamond Ring and His Advance Agent Assaulted.

B. DeVaurt, of Cincinnati, manager of the DeVaurt Musical Comedy Company and of the DeVaurt Stock Company, said he was held up and robbed of a ring estimated to be worth $300 at Third avenue and Chestnut street at about 2 o'clock yesterday morning. He said his advance agent, I. J. Powers, who attempted to defend DeVaurt and himself from the robbers, was knocked down and slashed across the left side of the cheek with a knife.

Mr. DeVaurt said that he and Powers, who are boarding at 737 Third avenue, were unable to sleep Thursday night on account of the oppressive heat, and they were sitting on the steps in front of the boarding-house when Powers suggested that they take a short walk. Following the suggestion they walked in Third avenue and were crossing Chestnut street when three men approached them from various corners at the intersection of the streets and ordered them to hold up their hands. Believing that the highway were armed with revolvers, DeVaurt promptly obeyed the command, but when one of the men approached him he noticed that he was armed with a knife. He struck at the robber and Powers did likewise. The highwayman used his knife and scraped down Powers' face, cutting the skin from his left ear to his lower jaw.

According to DeVaurt, the other robbers now assailed them and knocked Powers unconscious. DeVaurt then submitted to a search and a diamond ring was taken from his finger.

DeVaurt says he came to Louisville with his family about a month ago to reorganize the DeVaurt Stock Company, which disbanded for the summer on May 28 at Baltimore, Md. The DeVaurt Musical Comedy Company is now traveling through Indiana.

No report of the robbery has been made to the police.

ACCUSED OF ROBBING NATHAN FLAGMAN.

Capitola Pryor Fined $50 and Costs On Charge In the Police Court.

Capitola Pryor, colored, of Ninth and Grayson streets, was presented in the Police Court yesterday morning on the charge of grand larceny and fined $50 and placed under $1,000 bond for a year. The complainant was Nathan Flagman, who is unable to speak English. He had been walking along Jefferson street, he said by means of an interpreter, when a negro funeral, headed by a brass band, came along the street. The music of the band was so enchanting that he followed it. Before he realized it he had wandered out to Ninth and Grayson streets. He asked the way back to Seventh and Jefferson streets of Capitola Pryor, who told him that if he would follow her to a house nearby she would get someone who could understand Yiddish. He followed, and after he had entered the house he found that he had been robbed of his purse and $26.25. The woman afterward handed the money over to the police, saying that she had rather pay it than be arrested. She was arrested also.
